Banker Bain and Two Aids Get New Trial

ONE CONVICTION UPSET BY STATE SUPREME COURT

Appeal Still Pending in Second Case.

The Illinois Supreme court last night handed down a decision reversing the conviction of John Bain and two associates on a charge of accepting deposits in the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank after that institution was known to be insolvent. The case was remanded for a new trial.

Co-defendants with Bain, 74 year old head of a chain of twelve south side banks which closed in June, 1931, were his son, John H. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher. They were tried before Judge James F. Fardy of the Cook County Criminal court in May, 1933, and after being found guilty were sentenced to serve one to three years in the penitentiary.

Finds No Trial on Merits.

The reversal opinion was written by Justice Lott R. Herrick of Farmer City. It held that the defendants had not had a trial "on the merits of the case" and that Judge Fardy should have permitted them to plead not guilty after he had overruled a plea at bar made in behalf of the defendants by Attorney Harry Olson. The case was tried without a jury and the three men were sentenced immediately after the plea at bar was disposed of.

John Bain, his sons, Robert A. and John H., and Fisher had all been convicted in August, 1932, of conspiracy to defraud the creditors of the twelve banks. On this charge the elder Bain was sentenced to one to five years in prison and his three relatives were fined $1,000 each. This case also has been appealed. The sentence, imposed by Judge John M. O'Connor, has been upheld by the Illinois Appellate court, but the matter has not yet been acted on by the Supreme court.

The West Englewood Case.

In the West Englewood bank case obscure points of law were invoked by the state at the time of the trial. The prosecution asserted that, under the common law, the defendant may be allowed a trial either on the law or the facts in his case. By electing to make the plea in bar, it was claimed, the Bain defendants admitted the facts presented but argued only that these did not constitute a crime.

Attorney Olson's plea in bar was to the effect that, when John Bain, John H. Bain and Fisher were tried before Judge O'Connor, there was a count in the indictment charging them with accepting deposits while the banks were insolvent. As a verdict of not guilty was returned on this count, Attorney Olson said, the defendants were being placed a second time in jeopardy, an illegal proceeding.

Judge Imposes Sentence.

Judge Fardy then overruled the plea in bar and proceeded at once to the sentencing. The defendants had been warned beforehand by the court and the prosecution that the overruling of the plea would prevent further pleading, but they refused to change their course. However, it is permitted to take "plea in bar" appeals directly to the Supreme court and this was done.

The failure of the Bain banks was one of the most spectacular features of the depression. Losses of the depositors of the closed banks, which collapsed on June 9, 1931, were $13,000,000. It was estimated that investments in companies managed by the Bain family were $30,000,000 and that 75 per cent of this would be a complete loss.

Now Bain is on a little patch of ground in Tinley Park, raising chickens for the market. His health is said to be poor.

TAX STRIKERS BUY SEIZED BUSINESS SHOP FOR $1.30

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 24.—The government lost its first battle with striking taxpayers in Cordoba City today when they bought a grocery store for five pesos [$1.30] at the auction of the first property seized for nonpayment of the sales tax.

All stores were closed to enable owners and clerks to attend the auction sale, where they jeered the auctioneer.

The sales tax is meeting with nation-wide resistance. This was the first test case.

GLORIA WANTS TO MAKE HOME WITH HER AUNT

Vanderbilt Girl Tells Wishes to Court.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—In the most natural setting the Supreme court could offer in chambers to make a child feel she was just visiting a kindly gentleman who might have been an uncle, Justice John F. Carew questioned 10 year old Gloria Vanderbilt today.

He wanted to find out from her how he should decide the habeas corpus action her mother, Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, is pressing before him against the child's aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who has left the child with Mrs. Whitney for two years, wants to take her back, and also wants to take charge of the girl's 2 million 800 thousand dollar trust fund which provides for the mother her only income.

Justice Carew, who has already declared the child's view would have a determining effect on his decision found out today it was very emphatic. She told him she wanted to stay with Mrs. Whitney.

Admits Counsels Only.

To make sure she would not be disturbed or influenced by anybody on either side of the contest the judge admitted only the counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt and for Mrs. Whitney, while a stenographer who pretended to be doing something else unobtrusively took down everything that was said as part of the record of the case.

It was a conversation rather than an examination. Justice Carew, who has five children of his own, talked of everything that might interest a child and occasionally talked of the things that interested him in this case. The whole proceedings took almost three hours.

The child swung her long, thin legs as she rocked in an oversize swivel chair in the justice's chambers and told him she did not remember much of London and Paris, where she had lived with her mother. What she remembered principally was that she moved about a great deal and had no one to play with regularly but her nurse, who apparently was not much good at games.

Recalls Good Times.

Her good times began two years ago when she went to live with Mrs. Whitney at Old Westbury, N. Y., where she plays with a number of cousins of her own age and has a pony. She said she was having a fine time at the Greenvale school. She told Justice Carew what she was studying and he found she was bright child, very definite about the things she knew.

He inquired about her church attendance and her religious ideals and found her letter-perfect in reciting "Now I lay me down to sleep" and the Lord's Prayer of the Episcopal church, as well as the "Hail Mary" of the Roman Catholic church.

Justice Carew was particularly interested in this because one of the difficulties which confront him is the child's denominational future. She was baptized in the Episcopal church shortly after her birth, in accordance with her father's faith, and she was baptized in the Roman Catholic church a year later, after her father's death, in accordance with her mother's faith.

Mrs. Whitney is an Episcopalian, but has said she would have no objection to having the child continue in the Roman Catholic church.

Sees Little of Mother.

The child made it plain she did not dislike her mother. She had not seen very much of her. She simply and positively did not want to be taken away from Mrs. Whitney.

This outcome was not unforeseen. It was upon the initiative of Herbert C. Smyth, counsel for Mrs. Whitney, that Justice Carew had decided to consult the child. Previously Mr. Smyth had produced in court the Vanderbilt nurse and a Vanderbilt maid, who testified that the mother was almost a stranger to the child during the first eight years of her life, and that the child was somewhat afraid of her.

While the judge questioned the girl, Mrs. Whitney and her daughter and Mrs. Vanderbilt's sisters and friends waited outside. Mrs. Vanderbilt was not present in court. Her attorney, Nathan Burkan, said she was suffering from heart strain and was conserving her strength for her appearance on the witness stand tomorrow.

We practically fell over backwards at the speed of nearly a mile a minute made by our early trains.

Now we see the new streamlined train do two miles a minute and wonder why the railroads didn't do it sooner.

'Model Town,' New Deal Plan, Lacks Church

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The planned community of Norris, Tenn. [New Deal model], has no church. There are 3,000 people now living in the town, 2,000 of them being employed on the Norris dam; but there is no place of worship.

At the expense of the nations' taxpayers various community institutions have been provided in this carefully patterned town—a recreation hall and social center; a vocational school where the mountaineers are trained in skilled trades; a cafeteria where the meals are properly balanced with spinach and other green vegetables foreign to the native appetite; but churches are lacking.

Find More Pressing Problems.

John B. Blandford, officially coördinator and actually general manager of TVA enterprises, stated today that the matter of a church was something on which the authorities had reached no conclusion.

"It is one of those things that will have to be worked out," Mr. Blandford explained. "There seemed to be no immediate necessity of taking it up, because we were confronted with more pressing problems."

Although not confirmed by Mr. Blandford, it was learned in other TVA quarters that the authorities do not wish sectarianism to obstruct the harmonious life contemplated by the general scheme; they profess to be afraid that competing churches would become an economic drain upon the community.

Lots of Electric "Juice."

The model town is dotted with model houses, all fully electrified in accordance with the motivating force of the whole experiment. There are five groups of dwelling units, each with 30 apartments, 80 cinder block houses, 10 duplex houses of brick or frame construction, and 49 so-called "K" type residences, made of stone, cinder block, or wood. Each family is provided with five acres of ground and is to be taught how to raise truck by the garden missionaries from Washington desks.

But the church and religious services are omitted from the scheme.

318 JEWS WITHOUT COUNTRY; LIVE ON WANDERING SHIP

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SALONICA, Greece, Oct. 24.—The wandering steamer Velos, bearing 318 Jews, mostly under 24 years of age, has found temporary anchorage here. The strange plight of her passengers testifies to the unsettled condition in central Europe.

They are Czechoslovak and Polish men and women who chartered the Velos at Varna, Bulgaria, and set out to start life anew on the shores of the Mediterranean. First they tried to locate at Istanbul, but Turkish authorities refused them permission to remain. Next they went to the Greek Island of Syra, where the police allowed them only a fifteen day sojourn.

Finally the emigrés sailed for Palestine, a refuge they had saved as their last resort, but Palestine authorities refused to admit them because of quota restrictions in that country and sent them again on their wanderings. In Salonica they are obliged to remain aboard the Velos, which flies a British flag, but is owned by a Greek.

Stream Train Past Syracuse on Way to N. Y.

BULLETIN.

New York, Oct. 25 (Thursday).—(AP)—The train dispatcher's office of the New York Central railroad said today that the streamlined cross country record breaking M-10,001 passed through Syracuse at 4:03 a. m. eastern standard time. The train is due in the Grand Central station at 9:30 this morning.

BY HAL FOUST.

With sprint and distance speed records to its credit, the streamlined train M-10001 left Chicago for New York yesterday afternoon to set a new time mark for rail travel between the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

The 900 horse power Diesel engine pulled the 376 foot tube of aluminum alloy into Chicago from Los Angeles at 3 p. m., after covering the 2,364 miles from the California movie colony in 39 hours flat. The regular time tables call for 58 hours and 45 minutes for this trip, although the Santa Fe's extra fare Chief makes it in 55 hours.

The 39 hours broke all previous Chicago-Los Angeles rail speeds. More important, however, is the fact that it demonstrated the feasibility of such fast schedules with similar equipment for regular service.

Regular Service in February.

Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific, said this regular service will be inaugurated in February and that no extra fare will be charged for this saving of 19 hours and 45 minutes between Chicago and the west coast.

The Pullman Car and Manufacturing company is completing two new trains, similar to the M-10001, for this run.

The trains each consist of nine units, including the power car and six sleepers, articulated so that the aerodynamic exterior will have unbroken lines and curves from the bulging nose to the tapered tail. In the parabolic head will be a sixteen cylinder Diesel, developing 1,200 horse power.

The Los Angeles to Chicago record broken by the 39 hour run was made in 1905 by Walter ["Death Valley"]

5 Raid Home of Tom Maloy in Lake Resort

Five armed and masked men raided the summer home of Thomas Maloy, head of the Motion Picture Operators' union, near Michigan City, Ind., last night, and after tying up Mrs. Maloy, her maid, and chauffeur and the town marshal of Long Beach the lake resort in which the house stands, ransacked the house and escaped with money and jewels amounting in all to a reported $63,000.

Included in the loot, the Michigan City police said, was $50,000 in cash. The jewelry taken was valued at $13,000.

Thurman Rairden, the town marshal, said that he was seized by the robber band as he was making his rounds in the vicinity. They threw their weapons against him and compelled him to go with them and rap on the door of the Maloy home.

Enter as Marshal Is Admitted.

Those inside, recognizing him, opened the portal. The bandits, who had been close behind him, rushed into the house. They quickly overpowered the three members of the household and tied them to chairs.

Both Rairden and the police at Michigan City, who were first notified of the stickup, were chary of divulging information about the affair. It was learned, however, that the robbers seemed to be perfectly familiar with the house and to know that the large sum of money was concealed in a closet.

It was the assumption of the Chicago police, who were notified of the holdup at about 3 a. m., that the money was a union fund that Maloy had not cared to pass through union banking channels.

Shake Off Bonds Hour Later.

The robbery, according to the Michigan City police, occurred at about 10 p. m. and the bound prisoners shook off their bonds an hour later.

Only a meager description of the bandits could be given by the victims.

Maloy, who has long been a prominent figure in the labor world, was said to be on a hunting trip in Canada.

BITTER WRITER ASKS CRABBIEST GUYS TO ANSWER

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—David Friedman, embittered humorist and gagman, put the following advertisment in newspaper "personal" columns:

"Wanted, for part time work, twenty-five of the meanest, most cantankerous, orneriest, crabbiest, sourest, evil-dispositioned men in the city. Must be devoid of any sense of humor and able to give references anent these qualifications. Salary $1 per hour for preview audience. Write in detail."

He explained that he wanted the misanthropes, wife beaters, and dog kickers in town to act as trial horses for his gags.

"I want guys that if you tell them a joke they will growl back at you and snap and bark like a flea bitten dog, d'ya see? They must be authoritatively, absolutely 100 per cent poison, if you get what I mean. I want dyspeptics, guys with boils and bunions that are giving them action."

Roy Tires of Walking and Takes a Little Ride

Roy Toomey, 30 years old, 2745 North Mango avenue, grew tired of walking last night. In front of a drug store at Division and Clark streets he came upon a Yellow cab whose driver had gone into the store. Toomey promptly took the driver's seat and sped away. He was followed by the driver, Joseph Hallan, and a squad of policemen. Overtaken at Clark street and Germania place, the fugitive was placed under arrest. He had been drinking and it was said he might be charged today with driving while intoxicated.

Movie of Air Derby Finish Sent to London by Radio

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A film recording the arrival in Melbourne of C. W. A. Scott and Tom Campbell Black, winners of the England to Australia air Derby, will be shown in British movie houses tomorrow night. The film was transmitted from Australia to London by wireless tonight at a cost of approximately $400,000, and is the most expensive news picture ever to appear on the screen.

Accuses Former Friend of Robbing Him with Gun

Charles Miller, 21 years old, a jocky, yesterday was being hunted by police on complaint of Jack Janowski, owner of a meat market at 5450 North avenue, a former friend of Miller. Three months ago, Janowski said, he assisted the jocky, who was without money. Yesterday Miller robbed him of $486 at the point of a revolver, Janowski told Fillmore police.

PRESIDENT ASKS BANKERS TO AID NEW DEAL PLANS

Reynolds Takes Lead in Co-operation.

Urges More Loans

Jesse H. Jones, head of the RFC, tells members of the American Bankers' association they must expand their loans, even at the risk of tying up money with creditors who can't pay back on demand. He tells them banks are trying too hard to keep liquid, and that they must lend more freely. Story on page 25.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt tonight called upon the bankers of the United States to lend more money to float the New Deal recovery program.

JACKSON REYNOLDS.

He made no promise to balance the budget or to stabilize the dollar. He gingerly skirted these controversial issues, telling the bankers that the reduction of the huge federal expenditures for the relief of unemployment depended upon the revival of business, which, he said, would "steadily reduce this burden."

As for stabilizing the currency, he implied that such a result depended on the action of foreign countries, in which he discerned the "desirability of arriving, as quickly as possible, at a point of steadiness of prices and values."

Leaves Recovery to Bankers.

The job of financing recovery he tossed to the 4,000 bankers who packed Constitution hall and overflowed into an adjoining room.

"Government should assert its leadership in encouraging not only confidence of the people in banks but the confidence of the banks in the people," he said.

"In March, 1933, I asked the people of this country to renew their confidence in banks. They took me at my word. Tonight I ask the bankers of this country to renew their confidence in the people of this country. I think you will take me at my word."

Vigorous applause at this point indicated that his audience accepted that challenge.

See His Social Philosophy.

Listeners heard what they concluded was the President's belief regarding the profit system when he said: "It is in the spirit of American institutions that wealth should come as the reward of hard labor of mind and hand. That is what we call a profit system. Its real fulfilment comes in the general recognition of the rights of each factor of the community. It is not in the spirit of partisans but partners that America has progressed."

Whether the President's remarks, which promised nothing and avoided definite answers, might be the much discussed "swing to the right" that the bankers have been hoping for his listeners were unable to determine at first blush.

Reynolds on Rostrum.

Significant, however, was the fact that Jackson Reynolds, president of the First National bank of New York, one of the stanchest defenders of the "sound money" school of economics, took the rostrum before the President's speech and appealed to the bankers for coöperation with the President, and asked the President to "accept with hospitality an overture of coöperation" on the part of the bankers.

The talk of Mr. Reynolds, who, by the way, was Franklin D. Roosevelt's instructor in Columbia university law school years ago, made a profound impression upon the audience.

Comments from those on the floor after the session indicated that the bankers regarded Reynolds' remarks as more significant even than those of the President, although the listeners were frankly puzzled concerning the meaning of this gesture of rapprochement. Many of them suspected their leaders had received some reassurances from the President which they were diplomatically withholding from the rank and file.

Present on the platform with the President were Francis M. Law of Houston, Tex., retiring head of the American Bankers' association, who introduced him; Rudolf S. Hecht of New Orleans, incoming president; Robert V. Fleming, new vice president of the A. B. A.; Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Attorney General Homer Cummings, and other dignitaries.

Sees Revival Cutting Burden.

"While there lies before us still the necessity for large expenditures for the relief of unemployment," President Roosevelt told the bankers, "I think we should all proceed in the expectation that the revival of business activity will steadily reduce this burden.

"I am gratified to know of the expressions of belief, public and private, of your members that the speed we shall make toward this objective is something that no one has the vision or the hardihood to estimate. This recognition reflects a growing appreciation of the problems resting upon a responsible chief executive.

"With respect to international relationships, I have been glad to note the growing appreciation in other nations of the desirability of arriving as quickly as possible at a point of steadiness of prices and values. This objective of a greater steadiness we have constantly kept before us as our own national American policy."

Some hint of the worries over the economic policies that conservative bankers have been carrying to the President in recent weeks was reflected in this statement:

"I have been seeing many of your number almost daily during the last year and a half, and let me make it quite clear that in these meetings I have not done all the talking. I have been a good listener and I have asked many questions."

But, lest there be any belief that he intends to let the bankers run the show rather than running it himself, the President said:

"Government, by the necessity of things, must be the leader, must be the judge of the conflicting interests of all groups in the community, including bankers."

Federal lending agencies, he said, would continue to function only until the private credit agencies should take up the slack.

Mr. Reynolds' Talk.

Jackson Reynolds' talk was largely in the form of leading questions which he posed the audience, the answers being obvious. It was, he said, the first time in his life that he had ever made a public address.

"Because of events with which we are all familiar," said Mr. Reynolds, "there exists today, I regret to confess, evidence of misunderstanding between many of our country's bankers and those whose duty and responsibility it is to administer the affairs of the country.

"I am profoundly convinced that this contributes to the ills from which we are suffering, and I believe its removal will greatly promote the welfare of our country."

Then he asked these questions, asking only that the bankers answer them "to your own secret selves":

"Is it avoidable that, either through private philanthropy or the appropriation of public funds, the destitute, unfortunate, and unemployed must be cared for?

Asks About Budget.

"Second [and I put this question, I know, to men, who, from high motives and deep conviction, believe, as I do, that the solvency of this nation and the prosperity of its people rest on a balanced budget], may we not be in error in expecting too early a date at which, even with the strictest economy and integrity of administration, the budget may be balanced? And can any one of us fix a precise date when such balance can be attained without fear that our prophecy will be made ridiculous by subsequent events?

"Third [and I put this question, I know, to men who passionately believe, as I do, that without monetary stability we face chaos], if any one of us had the grave responsibilities and duties of the President of the United States and were facing, as he is, international monetary instability abroad and diverse demands for inflation at home, would we, at one stroke, both tie our hands vis-a-vis the currencies of Europe and the orient and risk consolidating into one irresistible program the inflationary demands here, by making a statement today that the very definite stabilization of the dollar effected last January and since maintained should stand for all time and under all circumstances?

Has Many More.

"I pose these three questions only, but there are many more that all of us can envisage. In this highly perplexing state of affairs, are we not justified in expecting wiser decisions, more likely to be productive of good for our country, if we abandon an attitude of antagonism for one of coöperation?

"By this I do not mean to suggest any surrender respecting what we believe to be principles of sound finance or any abatement in our insistence upon the utmost economy and integrity in administration. But I do submit in all earnestness the query whether it is not better for the country and for us to modify the manner of the presentation of our views."

Bankers are Chastened.

That was the bankers' contribution to the much rumored rapprochement. Mr. Reynolds then turned to President Roosevelt with these conciliatory remarks:

"And with the foregoing in mind, Mr. President, I feel that the banking fraternity in the last two years has endured enough mass punishment so that it is now in such a chastened and understanding mood that you accept with hospitality any overture of coöperation on the part of the leaders of that fraternity."

Turning back to his banker audience, he laid the olive branch in that quarter again.

Gives Roosevelt Credit.

"In the last twenty-seven days of March, 1933," he said, "President Roosevelt contributed more to rescue and rehabilitate our shattered banking structure than any of us did individually or collectively. For that service to us, and through us to our country, he deserves our sympathetic and helpful response, and in addition he deserves and, I am sure he will invite, ernest reasoned criticisms of any proposed governmental policies respecting the banks.

"If the government and the banks continue in the rôle of antagonists it will involve the gravest consequences to our country, perhaps even the destruction of many institutions and principles we have long held dear.

"The poor, whom we have always with us, will not be much worse off. The rich will survive in comfort at least, as they always have, but the great stratum of our people between these two groups will be irretrievably ruined.

"If, on the other hand, we abandon our antagonism for friendly, understanding, sympathetic coöperation, I believe we can make a great contribution toward the perpetuation of our cherished institutions, the encouragement of our fellow citizens, and the gradual and sound rebuilding of the shattered economic and financial structure of our country."

President's Speech to the Bankers

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's address tonight before the American Bankers' association follows:

"I am glad to be here tonight at your invitation to speak to you informally about some of our common problems. As many of you know by personal experience, it is not a new thing for me to talk with bankers. I have been seeing many of your number almost daily during the last year and a half, and let me make it quite clear that in these meetings I have not done all the talking.

"I have been a good listener and I have asked many questions. I have found there is the striking lack of unanimity of opinion among bankers that characterizes many other groups in the country. It has been my purpose to seek out underlying agreement in the opinions that bankers have expressed.

Must Unite Purposes.

"A true function of the head of the government of the United States is to find among many discordant elements that unity of purpose that is best for the nation as a whole. This is necessary because government is not merely one of many coördinate groups in the community or the nation, but government is essentially the outward expression of the unity and the leadership of all groups.

"Consequently the old fallacious notion of the bankers on the one side and the government on the other as more or less equal and independent units has passed away. Government by the necessity of things must be the leader, must be the judge of the conflicting interests of all groups in the community, including bankers. The government is the outward expression of the common life of all citizens.

"What is a bank and what are its relations with the people? Why do the people through their government supervise banks? The people put their money into banks. They do this in order to protect it and in some cases to have it earn a small income. It costs money to provide this service and, therefore, the banks are permitted to invest these deposits in order to pay their expenses and to provide a reasonable profit to their stockholders. The public has no means of knowing whether the bank is making safe investments so it turns to its government to supervise the bank. Government has accepted this responsibility.

Threefold Purpose.

"In its relations with bankers the purpose of government should be threefold: First, to promote the confidence of the people in banks and banking in view of the important service that banks and banking may perform for the people as a whole. Second, to make this confidence a real and living thing by assisting banks to render themselves useful and worthy of this confidence through wise supervision. A third purpose now offers itself, and I wish with all earnestness to press this point tonight.

"Government should assert its leadership in encouraging not only the confidence of the people in banks but the confidence of the banks in the people. In March, 1933, I asked the people of this country to renew their confidence in banks. They took me at my word. Tonight I ask the bankers of this country to renew their confidence in the people of this country. I hope you will take me at my word.

"I need not recount the situation of the banks in the spring of 1933. I found that the restoration of banking activity itself was my first responsibility on assuming office. It was necessary that the government throw itself squarely into the task of bringing back to the banks the deposits of the citizens of the country. As a result of my appeal the people responded by restoring their confidence in the banks of the United States.

Build Up Structure.

"The primary purpose accomplished, it became necessary that the congress and the administration enact measures to build up the banking structure so that it could once more provide support for the economic life of the country. Moreover, it had to be built and we built it strong enough so that it could resist future stresses and strains.

"Government found it necessary to create and get under way new emergency credit agencies and to use to the fullest extent the already existing Reconstruction Finance corporation. These credit agencies moved with heroic energy, and it was a source of the utmost satisfaction to find that when the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation went into operation the banking structure had regained a very considerable amount of its strength and its vitality.

"I think it is only fair to say that never since the formation of our government has such a task been achieved in so short a time. Happily, the present security of our banks bears witness to the wise course that we pursued.

"I find almost general agreement among bankers that these agencies must continue until such time as the banks and other private credit agencies are themselves able and ready to take over these lending functions, and when that time comes, I shall be only too glad to curtail the activities of these public agencies in proportion to the taking up of the slack by the privately owned agencies.

Government to Rescue.

"I venture to suggest to you that when the history of these years comes to be written, while the closing and the reopening of the banks will occupy a prominent place, even greater interest will be centered in the fact that within a few months not only was the banking structure strengthened, but the great governmental lending agencies went into action and also saved from disastrous deflation, liquidation and loss a vast portion of the farms, homes, railroads, and corporations of the nation. This definitly rescued the security and happiness of all of us.

"Just as it is to be expected that the banks will resume their responsibility and take up the burden that the government has assumed through its credit agencies, so I assume and expect that private business generally will be financed by the great credit resources which the present liquidity of banks makes possible. Our traditional system has been built upon this principle and the recovery of our economic lives should be accomplished through the assumption of this responsibility.

"The present steady and unmistakable revival of public demand for goods and services should provide the assurance necessary to the financing of industrial life. The government is bending every effort through the treasury, the federal reserve system, the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Securities and Exchange commission and the Federal Housing administration to facilitate and encourage the revival of private investment.

Commends Housing Projects.

"I commend the objectives of the Housing administration to your immediate consideration, but at the same time I ask you to note that all of these new agencies are seeking consultation and coöperation with you bankers.

"While there lies before us still the necessity for large expenditures for the relief of unemployment, I think we should all proceed in the expectation that the revival of business activity will steadily reduce this burden.

"I am grateful to know of the expression of belief, public and private, of your members that the speed that we shall make toward this objective is something that no one has the wisdom or the hardihood to estimate. This recognition reflects a growing appreciation of the problems resting upon a responsible chief executive.

"With respect to international relationships I have been glad to note the growing appreciation in other nations of the desirability of arriving, as quickly as possible, at a point of steadiness of prices and values. This objective of a greater steadiness we have constantly kept before us as our national policy.

"The fact that American business men and bankers are devoting more and more individual study and attention to the wider problems of our nation and of international affairs is manifesting itself in many ways. It seems to me that this is a very important development.

Sources of Information.

"Let me make it clear to you that the government of the United States has daily and even hourly contact with sources of information which cover not only every state and section of our own country, but also every other portion of the habitable globe. This information is more complete, informative, and accurate than that possessed by any private agency.

"I need not tell you that true wealth is not a static thing. It is a living thing made out of the disposition of men to create and to distribute the good things of life with rising standards of living.

"Wealth grows when men coöperate; but it stagnates in an atmosphere of misunderstanding and misrepresentation. Here in America the material means are at hand for the growth of true wealth.

"It is in the spirit of American institutions that wealth should come as the reward of hard labor of mind and hand. That is what we call a profit system. Its real fulfillment comes in the general recognition of the rights of each factor of the community. It is not in the spirit of partisans, but partners, that America has progressed.

Time for Alliance.

"The time is ripe for an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery. In such an alliance will be found business and banking, agriculture and industry, and labor and capital. What an all-American team that is! The possibilities of such a team kindle the imagination—they encourage our determination—they make easier the tasks of those in your government who are leading it.

"The nation does not merely trust or hope that we will do our duty—the nation is justified in expecting that we will do our duty."

WARBURG WARNS NEW DEAL LEADS TO U. S. TYRANNY

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP)—James P. Warburg, New York banker and critic of some of the Roosevelt administration policies, said today "government control and regulation of economic factors," if permitted to continue, will result in "surrender of our freedom to the dictates of a tyranny created by our own indifference."

If these policies are carried to their logical conclusion "we will abandon democracy," the banker declared in an address before the Philadelphia Rotary club.

His speech was delivered in the same room in which, a year ago, while addressing another gathering, he disclosed his break with the administration.

BATTLE FOR SEATS AT ROOSEVELT SPEECH BEFORE U. S. BANKERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's speech tonight before the American Bankers' association almost caused, prior to its delivery, a "riot" among the financial men.

Many members of the association, finding that all the tickets for seats in Constitution hall were exhausted before they applied, made strenuous objections to officials of the group. Some were reported to have threatened to resign.

The difficulty was solved, however, when a loud-speaker arrangement was set up in an adjoining hall to take care of the overflow throng. Constitution hall seats about 14,000.

LEGION DEBATES BONUS ISSUE IN SESSIONS TODAY

Committee Favors Cash Payment at Once.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The American Legion's legislative committee, composed of representatives of every state, today recommended immediate cash payment of the veterans' bonus by the government at an outlay of approximately two billion dollars.

Remission of interest on loans already made to veterans on their adjusted service certificates also was sought by the committee in a report it will present to the general convention tomorrow. This would cost the government an additional billion dollars, Legion leaders estimated.

Minority Report Avoided.

Possibility of controversy over the committee report appeared likely as Chairman Ray Kelly, corporation counsel of Detroit, announced a minority report would not be presented.

Seventeen state departments already have voted in favor of immediate cash payment of the bonus.

President Roosevelt sent his greetings to the convention in a letter to Commander Edward A. Hayes of Illinois.

"The American Legion," the President said, "is a significant American organization, patriotic in its concepts and strong in its influence. . . . Our national welfare is paramount. I urge you to carry such a spirit into your convention."

Sees Boost to Buying.

Chairman Kelly said the legislative committee adopted the bonus resolution with only two dissenting votes. The bonus resolution declared:

"Since the government of the United States is now definitly committed to a policy of spending additional sums of money for the purpose of hastening recovery from the present economic crisis, the American Legion recommends the immediate cash payment at face value of the adjusted service certificates, with cancelation of interest accrued and refund of interest paid, as a most effective means to that end."

St. Louis, Mo., was awarded the 1935 convention, as the time and place committee's report was adopted unanimously. It previously had recommended selection of that city.

For Treaty Navy.

"A treaty navy and men to man it" was demanded as a committee, headed by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries of Washington, called for construction of new ships to bring the navy to treaty strength; and increase of the enlisted personnel to 91,400 men.

Proposals to consolidate the air forces of the army, navy and marine corps into a single department of national defense drew the Legion's opposition.

Two women were injured here tonight when a support snapped in the grandstand from which they were viewing American Legion drum corps competitions.

Miss Hylda M. McDonell, 40, Pittsburgh, Pa., suffered a fractured leg and Mrs. Dessa Peeds, 34, Cranden, Wis., received minor abrasions.

The maneuvers of the drill teams were of exhibition nature, officials announced, as there were not sufficient teams at the convention to arrange a competitive event.

Robbers Shoot Victim When He Resists Holdup

Frank Fischer, 38 years old, 1115 Oakdale avenue, was shot in the right knee and slightly wounded last night when he resisted an attempt of two men to rob him near his home. The men fled after the shooting. Fischer was taken to the Illiniois Masonic hospital for treatment.

SOME OF COMMENT ON MONEY SPEECH OF PRES. ROOSEVELT

Washington, Oct. 24.—(AP)—American bankers tonight received President Roosevelt's address with a very mixed reaction.

"Excellent," some said.

"Disappointing," others remarked.

Interviewed as they emerged from Constitution hall, the bankers as a whole were reluctant to express their views. The majority declined to say a word. Those who were not impressed refused to speak their names.

A. H. Vick, Plymouth, Wis., said: "A very good explanation."

Many who expressed themselves as disappointed said they had expected to hear about budget balancing and more about the profit system. Some of their expressions were:

A Philadelphia banker: "Disappointed. Came all the way from Philadelphia tonight to get a line on what is ahead."

Georgia banker: "It needs a lot of thinking over."

Washington, D. C., banker: "Guess he couldn't say much else."

Indiana banker: "Nothing has happened, very impressively."

DUKE WHO LOST PRINCESS DODGES HER MARRIAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The duke of Norfolk will leave London tomorrow for India after obtaining special permission from King George of England to absent himself from the kingdom for six months.

As the hereditary earl marshal of England, the duke of Norfolk is responsible not only for the ceremonial at the opening of parliament, but also for all royal marriages and funerals.

His departure a few weeks before the wedding here of the duke of Kent, fourth son of King George, and Princess Marina of Greece has caused some comment. His departure is said to be due to the fact that two years ago he proposed marriage to Princess Marina, but because she was not a Roman Catholic the Vatican forbade the union. It was not desired that the duke of Norfolk, head of the Roman Catholics in Great Britain, should marry a Protestant.

PERSIAN ARREST RULES YANKEES OUT OF AIR DERBY

Wright and Polando Are Forced Down.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 25.—[Thursday.]—Strange fate befell John H. Wright and John Polando, Americans, and they are practically eliminated from competition in the 11,323 mile England to Melbourne air Derby.

JOHN POLANDO.

Wright and Polando, who were flying the smallest machine in the race, a Lambert Monocoupe with Warner Super-Scarab motor, left Bagdad, Iraq, for Bushire, India, at 10:10 a. m. Tuesday [1:10 a. m., Tuesday, Chicago time]. When an excessive amount of time elapsed and they were not reported grave fear was felt for their safety. Today it was learned they landed Tuesday near Mohammerah, at the head of the Persian gulf.

Spend Night in Jail.

The flyers were arrested and clapped into jail over night at Shaiba, near Basra, Iraq. Persian authorities paid no attention to their pleas for freedom, though their passports had been duly visaed. Two English residents finally obtained their release, but it was too late to take off for the next control point. The delay rolled up their time by about 48 hours. They decided to continue to Melbourne.

Except for the fact that C. W. A. Scott and Tom Campbell Black are assured of $40,000 first prize and the $2,000 gold cup for winning the speed race, other prizes still hinge on the finish time of machines still out.

The Dutch pilots K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, who finished second in the speed race, may yet have the choice of first money in the handicap division which is $8,000. If they choose that, second speed prize of $6,000 would go to the Americans, Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, leaving third speed prize of $2,000 and second handicap prize of $4,000 to other competitors.

Jones Finishes Fourth.

Lieut. Cathcart Jones and Ken Waller of England landed their De Haviland Comet plane today to claim fourth place in the race, arriving at 2:54 p. m., local time [10:54 p. m. Wednesday Chicago time]. During the day they flew from Mount Isa and Charleville, about 1,000 miles.

Jones and Waller lost time in the handicap race by a mistake last night. They landed at Mount Isa, thinking it was Cloncurry, the control point 75 miles to the west. Time lost at unauthorized fields counts as flying time, so Jones and Waller took their misfortune good naturedly and had a look at Mount Isa's silver mines.

Racing for fifth place are Squadron Leader Malcolm MacGregor, the oldest man in the race, and Henry Walker, New Zealanders, who landed last night at Batavia, Java, and took off at 3:52 a. m. for Rambang. Their nearest competitors are two other New Zealanders, J. E. Hewett and C. E. Kay, who flew from Bangkok, Siam, to Alor Star, then to Singapore.

Race from Calcutta.

A race almost as thrilling as that between Parmentier and Turner developed between Lieut. Michael Hansen of Denmark and the British pair, Squadron Leaders D. E. Stodart and K. G. Stodart. The Stodarts left Calcutta, India, for Burma with Hansen just ten minutes behind them. Hansen, flying solo, has a large handicap allowance, while the Stodarts have been flying fast between control points and taking plenty of uncharged time for rest.

Australians are particularly interested in Charles J. Melrose of South Australia, who took off from Allahabad, India, for Calcutta. Recently he flew from Australia to England in eight days and nine hours after leaving Port Darwin. Melrose has been only forty-seven hours in the air and has the next to highest time allowance.

Behind Melrose were Flight Lieutenant G. Shaw at Bushire, India; Wright and Polando at Shaiba, C. G. Davies and C. N. Hill at Cyprus, and H. L. Brook at Athens.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland yesterday conferred the Orders of Orange and Nassau on Parmentier, Moll, their radio operator, and mechanic.

Boy's Dog Rescued from "Prison"

WOMAN, 30, SAYS SHE IS WIDOW OF MILLIONAIRE, 75

To Attend Funeral and Claim Estate.

Logan, W. Va., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A red-haired young beauty parlor operator, proclaiming herself the widow of a 75 year old millionaire, garbed herself in mourning today for the funeral and prepared to claim his estate which may amount to $5,000,000.

Louis R. Sweetland, who everybody thought was a bachelor, will be buried tomorrow in a country churchyard at Hamlin, near Huntington. He died of pneumonia in a Huntington hospital yesterday.

Thirty year old Nellie Stratton, who said she became the country financier's wife last February 24, expects to attend the funeral but added a member of the Sweetland family had informed her he is not certain she will be recognized as the widow.

The belated romance of the aged bachelor is said to have begun when Miss Stratton sought a position as a school teacher. He was a school board member. Miss Stratton said:

"I saw Mr. Sweetland frequently after our first meeting in his office That was in July, last year. Later we met on many occasions and Feb. 24 we were married in Pikeville, Ky.

"We kept it secret at the insistence of Mr. Sweetland, who said he didn't want to tell his family right away."

Police Remember Faces, Nab 2 as Card Sharpers

A memory for faces resulted yesterday in the arrest of William Teague, 38 years old, and Otto Burns, 39 years old, as they loitered near the stockyards. Policeman Bert Haslen and Patrick O'Day recognized them from prints in the rogue's gallery at the detective bureau. Ralph Schiller, a farmer of Momence, Ill., identified them as his companions in a card game which cost him $200 Monday. The pair were booked for operating a confidence game.

Saved by Owner

Jack Palazzolo, 8 years old, 2846 West Van Buren street, almost lost his little Spitz pup Whitey last night. While chasing a rat Whitey became wedged firmly in a four inch crevasse between two brick buildings at 2806-08 West Van Buren street. His piteous whines attracted the attention of several men in a nearby poolroom. They called the dog's young owner and had just about determined to end its suffering when Carl Dellinger, 324 South Washtenaw avenue, and Jack extricated Whitey with two long poles. The dog was little the worse for his experience.

O. E. M'CORMICK BEATEN, ROBBED BY TWO THUGS

Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer for the trustee of the Middle West Utilities company, was recovering in his home, 168 East Pearson street, last night from a beating inflicted by thugs who robbed him outside his apartment vestibule early yesterday.

Mr. McCormick was inserting his key in the lock after arriving by taxi at 1:30 o'clock when two men seized him from behind. They knocked him down, choked, kicked, and beat him, McCormick told the Chicago avenue police. Neither of the robbers was armed, he said.

They rifled his pockets and took $30 cash, a $200 watch, a cigaret case worth $75, and a bill clip valued at $45. McCormick, dazed from the beating, did not know how the men escaped. A physician was summoned and reported that Mr. McCormick's injuries, while painful, were not serious.

Gets 45 Days Bridewell Term for Relief Fraud

Convicted of fraudulently obtaining $717 in relief, Joseph Renda, 1450 North Keating avenue, was sentenced to 45 days in the Bridewell and ordered to make restitution of the amount by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Shakespeare avenue court yesterday.

HAUPTMANN DENIES MURDER; HIS TRIAL JAN. 2

Alibi Witness Retracts Story, State Says.

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Scarcely had Justice Thomas E. Trenchard heard today the "not guilty" plea of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, setting the trial for Jan. 2, than the state of New Jersey attacked the alibi by which Hauptmann had bolstered his denial of the kidnaping and murder of the Lindberghs' first son.

Heretofore efforts of the prosecution to show that Hauptmann could have been at the Lindbergh home in New Jersey on the night of March 1, 1932, when Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was kidnaped, had been met with an alibi for Hauptmann. E. V. C. Pescia, in charge of an employment agency in New York, told a story of having given Hauptmann a job on the construction of the Majestic Apartments there. The man who then was superintendent of construction had insisted that on March 1 Hauptmann had worked at those apartments from 8 a. m. until 5 p. m., repeating that on the following day.

Earlier Story Is Retracted.

Today, however, the prosecutor's office here made public an affidavit from Joseph M. Furcht, who had charge of construction, and who had supplied the alibi. He retracted his story. His new affidavit said Gustave Kessens, who worked on the building and who was better informed than he, had sworn that Hauptmann was not at work at the time of the kidnaping. Furcht in his new story admitted that hearing that Hauptmann had obtained the job from the employment office Feb. 27, 1932, he had assumed that Hauptmann was at work on the building on the first and second of March, 1932.

As given to the public, the affidavit made by Furcht said in part:

"I have heard an affidavit read in the appellate division of the New York City Supreme court given by Gustave Kessens, who worked for me at the Majestic apartments on or about March 1.

"In this affidavit Mr. Kessens stated that Bruno Hauptmann did not work on March 1, but that he started to work at a later date. I believe Mr. Kessens and the statement he has given as I know he was always honest when he worked for me."

Dr. John F. Condon, who paid the ransom money, part of which was found in the possession of Hauptmann, talked with the prisoner in jail today, but would say nothing about the reason for his visit. Neither would the prosecutors discuss it. There were rumors that Condon had expressed the hope of obtaining a confession.

Day's Court Proceedings.

As today's court proceedings began Justice Trenchard asked:

"Now, Mr. Prosecutor, are you ready to arraign the defendant Hauptmann?"

"Yes, sir," replied Anthony N. Hauck, Hunterdon county's prosecutor.

Several minutes elapsed. Then Hauptmann appeared through a doorway to the right of the bench. He was linked by handcuffs to a deputy sheriff.

"You may proceed, Mr. Prosecutor," the judge said.

As Hauptmann stepped up to the bar, George H. Large, a local attorney, introduced James M. Fawcett, the prisoner's counsel, to the court. Mr. Hauck read the indictment to Hauptmann.

Pleads Not Guilty.

"How do you plead?" he asked.

"I plead not guilty," Hauptmann said.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz stepped to the bench and asked that the date of trial be set for Nov. 14, three weeks from today.

"Does the defendant desire to be heard?" Justice Trenchard asked.

"I appreciate the opportunity to be heard," Attorney Fawcett said. "I want to say that the earliest date agreeable to me would be Dec. 11. I have been in this case only since Sept. 20 and must have at least until Dec. 11 to prepare my case."

Attorney General Wilentz mentioned briefly the section of the New Jersey law which requires a court trial must end in the court session in which it begins. Since the present session of the court ends on Dec. 10, and since trial is expected to last at least three weeks, possibly longer, it would be impossible to start much later than Nov. 11 and finish before the end of that session.

"I don't think this trial should go through the holidays," Wilentz said. "I think it would be distasteful to the people. Then, too, this is a capital case and the defense should have ample time to prepare its case. Under the circumstances I think the earliest date possible would be Jan. 2."

The judge agreed to that date after speaking briefly about the words of rival counsel.

PICCARDS SUFFER MINOR INJURIES IN LANDING OF BALLOON

Cadiz, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Though they had both staunchly announced they were unhurt when their stratosphere balloon crashed in a tree near here yesterday after a 10 mile jaunt into the sky, Dr. and Mrs. Jean Piccard today were nursing minor injuries they incurred in the rough landing.

Piccard's foot was sprained, causing him to limp noticeably when he walked to a garage where deputy sherifs guarded his gondola and instruments. His comely wife, the first woman to make an ascent into the stratosphere and the only licensed woman balloon pilot in the country, had deep scratches on her arms. Otherwise, however, both were unhurt.

Dr. W. F. G. Swann, Franklin institute ray expert at Swarthmore, Pa., said he expects to learn a great deal from the Piccards' eight hour trip into the upper altitudes in quest of information about the mysterious cosmic ray. The delicate instruments carried aloft by the huge balloon are to be sent to him for examination.

SEE DILLINGER ARRESTS IN 24 HRS. IN INDIANA

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Arrests in connection with the escape last March 3 of John Dillinger from the Lake county jail at Crown Point are expected within the next 24 hours, it was rumored here tonight. Earlier in the day Gov. Paul V. McNutt announced that the "true" facts concerning Dillinger's wooden gun escape were known, and that he expected to make an announcement soon.

Warants for two persons are reported to have been issued and are believed to be in the hands of state police for service. Capt. Matt Leach, head of the state police, was reported in Gary tonight. It was known that Edward J. Barce, deputy state attorney general, is also in Lake county investigating Dillinger's escape, and an announcement concerning his investigation was expected hourly.

Gov. McNutt's statement was considered an answer to charges made by Senator Arthur R. Robinson, who is seeking reëlection as a Republican, that the escape was a scandal to the entire state. The governor intimated that responsibility for the escape lay with appointees of a previous administration. Sam Cahoon, jail guard, and Ernest Blunk, finger print expert, were indicted for conspiracy in the escape, tried, acquitted, and subsequently reinstated by Sherif Lillian Holley.

CAR THIEVES GET LONG TERMS FOR SHIELDING FRIEND

Two Refuse to Testify After Confession.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 26; recovered, 20; stripped, 1 [from police records for the 24 hours ending at midnight Tuesday].

John Mills, 23 years old, and John Grencko, 22 years old, were sentenced to long prison terms by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday because they refused to testify against a defendant charged with being an accessory to automobile larceny. Their previous confessions and testimony before the grand jury had resulted in the indictment of 13 men and a woman as members of a ring responsible for theft of 100 cars in Cook county.

Yesterday Mills and Grencko refused to testify against Max Hense, 33 years old, garage owner of Oak Lawn, and alleged member of the automobile theft ring. After directing a verdict of not guilty for Hense, Judge Sullivan summoned Mills and Grencko to the courtroom.

Lesson Not to Be Forgotten.

"Whatever arrangements you have made with the state are abrogated," the judge told them. "There has been deliberate perjury here and you men are of no use to society. What remnants of reformation you may have shown in your previous moves to help the state have been overcome by your action today. I am going to teach you a lesson you will not forget."

Grencko was sentenced to one to 20 years on each of eight charges of automobile larceny, one year to life on a charge of burglary, and to one to five years on a charge of conspiracy. Mills was sentenced one to 20 years on each of nine charges of automobile larceny, one year to life for burglary, and one to five years for conspiracy. The sentences were made to run consecutively in each case. Mills and Grencko had pleaded guilty to these charges early in the investigation.

Orders Investigation of Situation.

Judge Sullivan also ordered the state to start a grand jury investigation to determine what brought about the change of heart on the part of the two state witnesses.

Both Mills and Grencko had testified in two previous automobile larceny cases and brought about the conviction and sentence of John Paller, former chief of police of Evergreen Park, and William Rossner, owner of a tavern in Oak Lawn. Paller was sentenced to one to 20 years for his part in a plot to defraud an insurance company by theft of an automobile. Rossner was given a term of one to five years on charges of conspiracy.

Dr. Leo Kinsella Is Found Dead in Gas Filled Garage

Dr. Leo C. Kinsella, 52 years old, was found dead last night in a garage in the rear of his home at 834 East 57th street. The engine of his automobile was running and carbon monoxide gas was dense in the garage. An inhalator squad of the fire department tried unsuccessfully to revive the physician. Members of the family said he had been subject to attacks of heart disease. They were of the opinion he had been stricken with a heart attack and then overcome by gas. Dr. Kinsella is survived by his widow, Mrs. May Kinsella.

COURTNEY WARNS PARTY IT MUST FIGHT FOR VOTES

Urges Democrats Regain Militant Spirit.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Ward committeemen and other leaders were reprimanded yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney because of a growing chilliness observed creeping over Democratic meetings.

The prosecutor, who is recognized as one of the powers of his party organization, was a speaker at the third of a series of weekly luncheons for Democratic candidates at the Morrison hotel He devoted most of his time to warning the party workers who formed the body of the audience that they are showing signs of overconfidence.

Deplores Lack of Enthusiasm.

"In our enthusiasm over the prospects of victory," he said, "we must beware of overconfidence. While I might say that all of the meetings at which I speak are well attended, there is noticeable in most of them a lack of enthusiasm.

"Do not sit idly by and say, 'We're going to win.' We must work every minute right up to election day."

State's Attorney Courtney also commented briefly on the Republican assertion on Wednesday that the national administration, because of the Ickes influence, is planning to smash the Cook county Democratic organization immediately after the election and to set up a new one with him as its head.

Vows to Carry Out Pledges.

"In fairness to the people of Cook county and to the Democratic organization," he said, "I feel that I should say that while I occupy the job of state's attorney I intend to give all my time, effort, and attention to carry out the pledges I gave two years ago."

Michael L. Igoe, one of the two nominees for congressman at large, was another speaker whose talk was thought to lack some of the "glowing" characteristics usually found in reports of conditions.

Discussing the situation in the state outside Cook county, which he has covered in the last six weeks, he said that for the first time the Democrats have active organizations in all counties and that downstate sentiment "could not be better."

Herald Democratic Revolt.

Republican county headquarters issued a statement proclaiming that "Democratic revolt has flared to full flame" in a number of country towns of the county stretching from Blue Island northward to Evanston. The announcement, from Thomas E. Hosty, Democratic president of the park board of River Forest, was that regularly elected Democratic precinct committeemen from forty suburbs have indorsed and are supporting five Republican nominees.

Hosty said that the movement was organized last August because of the refusal of the Democratic county committee to recognize the elected committeemen and district leaders in the country towns.

Meetings have been held weekly, he said, and at one of them recently indorsements were given to James P. Ringley for sherif, George F. Nixon for president of the county board, H. Wallace Caldwell and William N. Erickson for county commissioner, and Arthur J. Bidwell for state senator from the 7th district. All are Republicans.

Orders $2,217 Back Salary Be Paid to Ex-Prosecutor

Circuit Judge Joseph Burke yesterday issued a mandamus order instructing the county board and the county treasury to pay $2,217 to former State's Attorney John A. Swanson for back salary. The money had been deducted under the 15 per cent economy cut ordered for county employés in 1931.

How Illinois congressmen who are up for reëlection voted on some of the principal New Deal measures passed by congress is shown in the table printed above. It is published by courtesy of Collier's Weekly and it is a selection from a record on 22 New Deal enactments compiled by that periodical for the information of the general public.

The table does not include the records of Senators J. Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich, as neither is running this time, nor of the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey, nor of Frank R. Reid, James Simpson Jr., and J. Earl Major, who are not candidates for their old house seats.

The numbers at the top of the columns of votes designate the following New Deal measures:

1. National economy act. This authorized the President to establish a more economical pension system. It repealed many existing benefits for world war and Spanish war veterans, allowing the President to fix the degree of disability allowed. Also it empowered the President to reduce federal salaries by 15 per cent. Economies under this act were figured at 500 million dollars. In a later compromise, in the independent offices bill, more liberal treatment was given veterans' allowances.

2. Beer. This measure, forecasting repeal of national prohibition, modified the Volstead act to permit beer of 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight; set up a license system; left regulation and control to the states.

3. Agricultural adjustment act.

4. Tennessee Valley authority. This inaugurated the New Deal's first paternalistic experiment in a "planned economy," social and economic, in the Tennessee valley. Under this water power is to be developed at a cost estimated at 350 million dollars to generate electricity for a region which at present is equipped with a generating capacity far in excess of consumption, and the government has gone into business in competition with private enterprise.

5. 1933 gold bill. This repealed the clause in federal and private contracts stipulating that payments must be made in gold of the same value existing at the time the contracts were made. It was the forerunner of other acts which led to devaluation of the dollar.

6. National industrial recovery act. Keystone of the New Deal, under which NRA sought a planned system of production under federal control and supervision, with codes, penalties, licenses, suspension of anti-trust laws, and the Blue Eagle.

7. 1934 gold bill. The dollar devaluation measure, under which gold was withdrawn from circulation as money and the gold value of the dollar was cut to 60 cents.

8. Veterans' compensation bill. The house voted for full payment of veterans' adjusted compensation when it passed the Patman bill. In the senate attempts to attach a similar proposal as a rider to senate bills failed.

9. Cotton control bill. This provided for compulsory reduction of cotton production by reducing acreage, paying rent for idle land, and limiting the output of tax free cotton per acre. Incidentally, southern congressmen have been urging that it be scrapped as a failure.

10. Silver bill. This permits a silver backing of the currency to a maximum degree of 25 per cent. It authorized the purchase of bullion silver, in amounts advantageous to the public interest, at a price not to exceed 50 cents an ounce. It authorized the issuance of silver certificates to be legal tender.

11. Tarif act. This permits the President, at his discretion, to enter into foreign trade agreements and proclaim modification of existing duties and other import restrictions.

12. Securities exchange act. Provides for a securities and exchange commission of five, appointed by the President, for the regulation and control of issuance and dealing in securities.

NRA IS ASSAILED AS BETRAYER OF PHOTO FINISHERS

The Master Photo Finishers of America was "double-crossed, hamstrung, and betrayed by the National Recovery administration" before it resigned as the active administrating agency of the industry's code, it was declared yesterday by the retiring president, R. J. Wilkinson of Jackson, Mich. The association will end its four day convention at the Palmer house tomorrow.

Mr. Wilkinson recalled the time, energy, and money which were put into the association's efforts to make the code a success, and declared that in return the NRA gave "not a single act of coöperation." After a survey of the photo finishing business throughout the country, Mr. Wilkinson added, he "began to understand what 'code paralysis' meant."

"I think we should have learned that we can't legislate business into prosperity," said Mr. Wilkinson, who resigned a month ago as a member of the national code authority. "I hope we've learned that there are a lot of things worse than letting your competitor run his own business while you run yours—and one is for the government to run both of them."

FREED AFTER FALL INTO LAKE.

A disorderly conduct charge against Mrs. D. E. Marshall, 49 years old, of San Francisco, arrested after she emerged from the lake at Chicago avenue Monday, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Edward S. Scheffier. Mrs. Marshall said she fell in the lake.

JAIL SENTENCES OF 4 OFFICIALS AT POLLS UPHELD

Thirty day jail sentences against four Democratic polls officials in the Thirteenth precinct of the Twenty-fourth ward for misconduct in the 1932 fall election were upheld yesterday by the Illinois Appellate court.

The four were sentenced by County Judge J. G. Van Keuren. They are: Abraham Benjamin, 1432 South Springfield avenue, and Joseph Kodic, 1420 South Harding avenue, judges, and Robert Bell, 1502 South Harding avenue, and Frank Kyzivat, 1512 South Harding avenue, clerks. Sarah Cohen, 1115 South Springfield avenue, Republican clerk in the precinct, who paid a $25 fine, was not a party to the appeal.

The Appellate court opinion was written by Justice Francis S. Wilson and was concurred in by Justices Oscar Hebel and Ross Hall.

Lona Andre, Actress, Seeks $10,100 Accident Damages

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Lona Andre, film actress and 1933 Wampus baby star, suffered cuts, bruises, and nervous shock to the extent of $10,100 in an automobile accident last May 21, according to her suit for damages against Howard Weber filed in Superior court today. Weber drove his car into the rear of her machine, she asserted.

NRA CONFISCATES FACTORY'S EAGLE IN WAGE DISPUTE

The National Recovery administration in Washington yesterday deprived the Jerry Garment company, 1259 Milwaukee avenue, of the right to display the Blue Eagle as a result of alleged violations of the wage and hour provisions of the blouse and skirt manufacturing code.

Frederick L. Roberts, acting NRA compliance director for Illinois, said last night that there had been eight complaints that employés were worked overtime without extra pay.

MERRIAM AHEAD TWO TO ONE IN CALIFORNIA POLL

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—First returns from the Literary Digest's poll in the California govership race show Frank F. Merriam, Republican, leading Upton Sinclair, the EPIC man, by more than two to one.

GOV. MERRIAM.

The returns, made public today, are from six scattered cities. They give Merriam 11,262 votes, Sinclair 5,198.

Raymond L. Haight, the Progressive-Commonwealth candidate, ran third in the Digest's returns with 2,332.

Sam Darcy, communist, ran slightly ahead of Milen C. Dempster, Socialist.

Vote by Cities.

Oakland—Darcy, 30; Dempster, 4; Haight, 719; Merriam, 5,426; Sinclair, 2,672. Total, 8,851.

Long Beach—Darcy, 8; Dempster, 2; Haight, 386; Merriam, 2,313; Sinclair, 1,080. Total, 3,789.

Sacramento—Darcy, 5; Dempster, 1; Haight, 1,069; Merriam, 1,324; Sinclair, 669. Total, 3,068.

San Jose—Darcy, 4; Dempster, 0; Haight, 100; Merriam, 1,322; Sinclair, 491. Total, 1,917.

Riverside—Darcy, 0; Dempster, 2; Haight, 29; Merriam, 647; Sinclair, 90. Total, 768.

Long Beach Home Town.

Of these cities only San Pedro and Oakland are partially industrial and only Long Beach and San Pedro are located in Los Angeles county, where Sinclair's strength is supposedly the greatest. Long Beach is Gov. Merriam's home city. The city of Los Angeles alone has a fifth of the population of the state.

Oakland, Sacramento, and San Jose are all in the north central section of the state, and in territory where Sinclair ran only moderately well in the primaries.

HIT THAT COLD WHERE IT LIVES—in the System!

Don't fool yourself about a cold! It's nothing to be taken lightly nor treated lightly. A cold is an internal infection that will quickly spread within the system unless promptly checked. The wise thing to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

First of all, it is distinctly a cold remedy and not a "cure-all." Secondly, it is an internal treatment. Thirdly, it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. That's the treatment a cold requires and anything less is taking chances. All druggists sell Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and reject a substitute.

NEW WITNESSES TELL COLORFUL INSULL PROMISES

Defense Battles Inflated Value Testimony.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In the spring of 1931, James Nichols, a young bookkeeper for a mining company in Montreal, Wis., read an advertisment offering Insull company stocks for sale on a monthly payment plan. He wrote to Insull Utility Investment, Inc., and received a reply from the Utility Securities company, Insull stock marketing concern, detailing the plan and recommending to him particularly the stock of Corporation Securities company at $20.50 a share.

Mr. Nichols thought it over and did not buy, but yesterday afternoon he was called to the witness stand in Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's court to tell of the letter and its offer and to swear that it went through the United States mails.

Stock Really Worth $3.05.

This was a point for the government in the mail fraud case against Samuel Insull and 16 co-defendants, including officials of the company that offered this stock for sale, for just previously the government had shown on testimony of one of their expert accountant witnesses that at the time the company was offering this stock at $20.50, it was really worth but $3.05.

A month before that it had been worth nothing, according to this same testimony. In the spring of 1931 it took a slight spurt, and thereafter declined to zero and under. Mr. Nichols had escaped a bad investment.

The government has sought to prove through its accountants who have examined the Insull books that the stock of Corporation Securities company became worthless in July of 1931, and that the worthless stock thereafter sold by Utility Securities company to the public amounted to $882,876.

Blacksmith Listens—and Buys.

Robert Davis, a stout, gray haired blacksmith from Streator, who said he was "employed at times," testified that on April 9, 1930, he bought 18 shares of this stock for $450 from an agent for Utility Securities.

"What did he tell you?" asked the prosecutor, Leslie E. Salter.

"He said it was A No. 1 and that interest would increase with the increase in stock value."

The government method of valuation of this stock was subjected to criticism nearly all day yesterday, in the cross-examination by the defense of Alfred E. Sweeney, expert accountant for the department of justice. The matter become so involved that it was resolved into first degree simultaneous algebraic equations, in which a blackboard was set up in front of the jury box and intricate mathematical demonstrations were made.

The part of the Sweeney testimony that received the hardest battle from Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, representing the Insulls, was that in which he figured the value of Corporation Securities stock by the method of taking their portfolio investment in three Insull concerns at "liquidation value." This put them far under the market price. The defense contended this was unfair and double dealing. It strikes at the vitals of the case.

Oppose Prosecution Methods.

Mr. Thompson wanted to know about the action of the United States in going off the gold standard and taking 45 per cent of the value of the dollar away, and about the rules of the insurance companies in making valuations of their securities and if the witness ever heard of a company selling all its stock on the market in one day, and various other points which will be brought out later in the defense. They were ruled out for the present.

Mr. Sweeney stuck to his guns, the chief gun being that he had taken the figures from the books of the Insull companies, and they stood by whatever method of computation was devised, whether algebraical, plain mathematics, or merely by comparing the books.

Mr. Salter on redirect examination of this witness brought out the weekly financial statements of Corporation Securities and Insull Utility Investments, which were run by the same men. On Sept. 10, 1931, for instance, he showed that the Corporation Securities company showed a deficit and therefore the shares were worth nothing. On the same day, it was shown, the other Insull company carried these stocks in their books at a valuation of more than two million dollars.

"When you were computing liquidation, didn't you use Corporation Securities method and your own method as each suited your purpose?" Mr. Thompson asked.

"I used the method designed to give the fairest result and the best picture for public information," was the reply.

"Weren't you starting in to find incriminating evidence and didn't you adopt the theory to support the government's contention that there was a crooked business transaction in Corporation Securities?"

"No, we had complaints to the effect that stocks had been sold on the basis of misrepresentation and we wanted to find out if it was true."

Uses Elaborate Formula.

The Sweeney formula, which he has been asked to apply to a particular day and bring the results to court this morning, uses the symbols X and X prime as the unknowns, and the following known quantities:

A is the Utility Investments common stock owned by Corporation Securities. B is the total Utility Investment common outstanding. N is the liquidating value of Corporation Securities assets exclusive of its Utility Investment stocks. C is the Corporation Securities common owned by Utility Investment. D is the total Corporation Securities outstanding. N prime is the liquidating value of Utility Investments assets exclusive of its Corporation Securities stock. X, the unknown, is the liquidating value of Corporation Securities common and X prime is the liquidating value of Utility Investments common. The equations are:

1. X equals N plus [X prime multiplied by A over B].
2. X prime equals N prime plus [X multiplied by C over D].

More "victim" witnesses will be heard this morning. The government still has 40 witnesses to present but hopes to conclude at the end of next week.

MMES. HOOVER, ROOSEVELT MEET IN PUBLIC; SILENT

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, mistress of the White House, and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, her immediate predecessor in that station, met in Boston today, were closely associated for several hours, but spoke no word to each other in public.

Mrs. Roosevelt smilingly told reporters later that they had exchanged greetings in a private meeting in the morning and again at a luncheon. They both received greetings from the Girl Scouts in convention.

"We just said 'How do you do?'" related Mrs. Roosevelt. "It was said just as casually as to any one you hadn't seen for a while and were glad to see again. We have known each other a long time."

Their failure to speak a word together in public, however, caused widespread comment and some astonishment. They met at the Hotel Statler, where both attended the 20th annual convention of the Girl Scouts of America.

Mrs. Hoover, insisting she was merely "a simple member" of the organization, declined to be photographed with Mrs. Roosevelt alone unless a number of other women were present.

WOMEN REPEAT DEMAND SENATE TRY HUEY LONG

Louisiana Group Sends Message to Byrnes.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—In a renewed effort to stir the U. S. senate committee to some action regarding the Overton senatorial seat, involving Huey Long, the woman's committee of Louisiana made a demand today that Senator James F. Byrnes and the committee give the public their long awaited statement on the prospects.

Mrs. Hammond Sends Message.

Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond, chairman of the woman's committee, sent this message to Chairman Byrnes in Washington:

"Press reports say the senate committee of which you are chairman will investigate the elections in Pennsylvania and Tennessee. We call to your attention that the senate committee which investigated the Louisiana election reported gross fraud in the election of Mr. Overton and that Senator Long's machine instigated and manipulated that fraud.

"The Connally report has gathered dust in the senate's archives and not a senator has asked that action be taken upon it.

Questions Purpose.

"What is the purpose of senatorial investigations? Was the meager appropriation of $25,000 for the Louisiana investigation spent merely to acquaint the senate with the fact that one United States senator was elected through fraud and that another United States senator manipulated that fraud?

"Does the senate no longer intend to exercise its constitutional mandate to judge the election returns and qualifications of its members? It is well for Americans to know the answers to these questions before more of the public's money is spent on senatorial investigations."

FULL VOTE URGED NOV. 6 ON THREE SPECIAL ISSUES

Citizens' Group in Favor of Relief Bond Issue.

In a bulletin issued yesterday by the Citizens' association, attention was called to three proposals that will be submitted to the voters either on the main ballot or on separate ballots at the Nov. 6 election. The association urged its members and all voters to vote on the proposals.

The three proposals listed by the association are the $30,000,000 state bond issue for relief, the calling of a constitutional convention, and the lengthening of the term of Chicago aldermen to four years. In addition, the voters in 103 Chicago precincts will determine whether their territories shall be wet or dry.

Opposes Longer Term.

The association recommends support for the bond issue and the proposal to call a constitutional convention, but opposes extending the aldermanic term from its present two years to four years. The first two proposals need a majority of all those voting on legislative candidates to carry, while the aldermanic term proposal needs only a majority of the votes cast on it for approval.

The bond issue, the bulletin states, was authorized by the state legislature a year ago to provide funds for relief during 1934, the bonds and interest to be paid out of annual allotments from the amounts accruing to counties and municipalities from the motor fuel tax. Of the 30 million dollars voted the state has raised 28½ million dollars by selling tax anticipation warants, and this money has been expended.

Two Ways to Repay It.

There are only two ways that this money can be repaid, according to association and other civic organizations that favor the bond issue. These methods are by voting the bond issue, which will mean that the bonds will be retired with gasoline tax funds over a period of years, or by a direct tax on real and personal property next year amounting probably to 63 cents on each $100 of assessed value.

In the bulletin the association points out that it has been in favor of revising the state constitution since 1884, and declares that it is necessary to merge local governments, shorten the ballot, modernize the taxing system and obtaining greater home rule for Chicago. This proposal will be on the main ballot.

The association holds that the present two year term for aldermen is as long as it should be under existing civic conditions. It shows that a proposal for the longer term was defeated by the public in 1920 when the fifty-ward plan was adopted.

In voting on local option, the vote is taken in precincts as they existed in the 1932 election for governor. Since that time some of the precinct lines have been altered. The vote in November will be taken in 103 of the present precincts and in parts of 22 other precincts. Precincts voting are in the 6th, 8th, 9th, 13th, 19th, 30th, 36th and 37th wards. The largest area voting is in the 36th and 37th wards, the district known as Austin.

Candidates on Nov. 6 Ballot

Brief biographies are presented below of the Republican and Democratic candidates at the Nov. 6 election for county treasurer:

Republican

James A. Kearns was born in Ireland, but has lived in Chicago since he was 4 years old. He attended the public schools and was graduated from the Kent College of Law. He is married and lives at 1049 West Garfield boulevard.

Mr. Kearns began his public career, following his graduation from law school, as chief investigator in the city attorney's office. He was alderman of the old 31st ward, now the 16th, for four elective terms, serving as a member of the finance committee for seven years and as chairman of the compensation committee for four years. He was elected clerk of the Municipal court in 1918 and served twelve years in that position. In 1931 he was elected to a four year term as city treasurer.

Democratic

Robert M. Sweitzer was born in Chicago on May 10, 1868. He attended the public schools, St. Patrick's Business academy, and Christian Brothers college in St. Louis. He is married and lives at 3522 West Jackson boulevard.

After his graduation from college Sweitzer worked for J. H. Walker & Co. and for J. V. Farwell & Co. in various capacities. In 1910 he was elected county clerk, in which position he now is ending his sixth consecutive term. In 1915 and 1919 he was the Democratic nominee for mayor.

GERMANY LEVIES TAX OF $240 ON $1,600 SALARIES

New Income Rates Hit at Single Persons.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Germany's new income tax rates were published in the official legal gazette today. The rates for bachelors and spinsters are so high many newspapers have carefully camouflaged them.

The newspapers print columns about the new income, inheritance, corporation and capital taxes, but a number of papers omit the bachelor-spinster schedule, while others content themselves with quoting a few examples.

These examples reveal that single persons earning $1,600 yearly must pay 15 per cent, or $240, income tax. If they earn $4,800 yearly they must pay $960 income tax. On top of this they must pay proportionately to the compulsory state insurance, church tax and indirect taxes.

The new rates represent a special hardship on German spinsters whose fiancés died for the fatherland in the world war and who now are nearing their fifties. They are being punished for their spinsterhood.

The rates for married couples are approximately half those for bachelors and spinsters, while couples with only one child will pay only one-third as much as bachelors and spinsters.

COUNCIL VOTES TO PAY LANG'S HOSPITAL BILLS

City council records disclosed yesterday that the aldermen voted on Oct. 10 to pay the hospital and medical bills of Harry Lang, who while a policeman shot and seriously wounded Frank Nitti, Capone gangster, on Dec. 19, 1932. Testimony in court was that Lang had shot Nitti in the back while the latter was a prisoner and then had wounded himself in the arm. Convicted once of assault, Lang won a dismissal of the case on a new trial. He was discharged from the police force.

Lang's bills, approved for payment first by the council finance committee and then by the council, totaled $633. He was treated at the Murphy hospital.

The bills were sent to the finance committee April 14 and thence were transmitted to Police Commissioner Allman. Police Surgeon Elmer Mosley investigated the case and proposed $350 as a settlement. The results of the investigation were then returned to the finance committee.

Because of a delay in accounting, Lang's bills, as well as those of the others, have not yet been paid by the city, according to records in the controler's office.

DEMOCRATS TO WIN A DOUBTFUL VICTORY IN OHIO

Fess Is Through, but New Deal Won't Gain.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The Democrats are going to gain a senator from Ohio on Nov. 6, but it is not going to be exactly a triumph for the New Deal.

A. V. DONAHEY.

Fact is, there is every indication that when "Honest Vic," "Veto Vic" Donahey gets to Washington next January he is going to be a thorn in the side of the New Deal about as comfortable to endure as such other Democratic thorns as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia and Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts.

The Roosevelt administration didn't want him and Vic knows it.

According to the judgment of the political sharps and the extensive straw vote conducted by the Columbus Dispatch, which has gone wrong only once in 30 years, Donahey will defeat his Republican rival, Senator Simeon D. Fess, by a large margin, possibly upwards of 200,000. The governorship race between Clarence J. Brown, Republican, and former Congressman Martin L. Davey, Democrat, appears to be extremely close.

Finds New Deal Slipping.

Although the Roosevelt administration has poured more than 800 millions of government money into Ohio, and Democratic candidates, with the exception of Donahey, are endeavoring to capitalize the largess, there is abundant evidence that the New Deal is slipping in popularity in this region. Labor is pronouncedly Democratic, but among farmers and business men there is a noticeable reaction against the Roosevelt policies.

In the Democratic primary contest the Washington administration set out to defeat Gov. George White for the nomination for senator, the governor not being an FRBC [For Roosevelt Before Chicago].

With the blessing of the President and Jim Farley, Congressman Charles West was entered against White. Then Donahey went in and walked away with the prize, the administration candidate running third.

West campaigned as the outstanding champion of the New Deal in Ohio but was turned down decisively. In labor centers he trailed White and in rural Democratic counties Donahey polled four votes to every one for West. He failed conspicuously to receive the votes of those on the federal relief rolls, though he had been at pains to suggest the proper way of recording gratitude to the Roosevelt administration for such assistance. In this county, for example, it appeared he had received the votes of not more than one out of five of the voters on relief rolls.

Million on Relief.

In the entire state there are more than a million persons on relief. In the first nine months of this year the cost was 86 millions, of which 45½ millions were CWA funds.

Venerable Dr. Fess is campaigning intensively and blistering the New Deal daily, while Donahey is doing little and saying less. He is just running on his record of three terms as governor, during which he vetoed more bills than he signed and lost no opportunity to advertise his honesty.

He has been called "Honest Vic" ever since he was state auditor and became famed for pruning the expense accounts of state employés. The greatest notoriety he won was due to his blue penciling an item of 35 cents for a baked potato appearing on the expense account of a prominent state judge. He said 10 cents was enough for a baked potato. Later, when he was a candidate for governor the first time, it was said he ran on that baked potato issue. And it swept him into office.

A plain man of the people, who can call more voters by their Christian names than any other politician of the Buckeye state, Donahey holds campaign forensics in contempt. He prefers to exchange chaws of tobacco at the crossroads and expound his philosophy of government—simple honesty—over the village store's cracker barrel. While the Democratic committee, from humming headquarters occupying half a floor in the Deshler hotel here, is conducting an expensive canvass for Davey, "Honest Vic" maintains his headquarters under his hat. He thinks his campaign may cost as much as $500.

Speaks Only Few Minutes.

Donahey has spoken not more than half a dozen times in the campaign and then not more than five minutes each time.

"What the country needs," he said to one audience, "is some old-fashioned horse sense and common honesty in government, as well as in the home."

Every effort has been made to maneuver him into an indorsement of the New Deal, but in vain. When everyone else had failed, Jim Farley came out here to try his hand at it at a big massmeeting when other speakers lauded the New Deal.

"Mr. Farley," said Donahey, "you may carry back to the President the message that I will support him in every proper way."

He emphasized the word "proper." Then with a couple of sentences more on his favorite topic of honesty of public servants, notably himself, Donahey sat down. In public he never has had a word of praise for the New Deal; in private he has indicated that his views are essentially those of Senator Glass.

Won't Vote Against Constitution.

"I will never vote to subvert the constitution," he told the Democratic state convention.

Donahey has just turned 60. He has a wife and ten surviving children out of the twelve, a picture of whom, perched on the front yard fence, was the chief campaign poster in his first political contest under the caption: "Twelve Reasons Why I want to Be Auditor." He is as poor today as he was then and also, he does not hesitate to assure you, as honest.

The Republican managers have not entirely given up hope of reëlecting Fess. They say he is gaining steadily and that he may pull through after all. He is drawing large audiences, which demonstrate their approval of his criticism of the New Deal.

"The vast amount of money thus far expended," says Dr. Fess, "is governmental. It all comes from the people. What we can pay now is paid through taxes. The other is borrowed, lengthened out to be paid by taxes covering generations.

Tells Seven Steps to Sanity.

The senator outlined the seven steps that must be taken "if we would avoid fatalities."

1. Assure the country there will be no further manipulation of the value of currency.
2. That there will be no further devaluation of gold.
3. That there will be an effort to balance the budget.
4. That neither will profits be confiscated nor wealth redistributed.
5. That the government will, at the earliest moment, withdraw from the field of industry and stop the socialistic trend.
6. That it will insure recovery by giving industry a chance to employ labor.
7. That the period of experimentation is ended and the college theorists are returned to their original vocations.

BRAZOS POWER BILL VOTED FINAL PASSAGE BY TEXAS ASSEMBLY

Austin, Tex., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The $50,000,000 Brazos river power development bill was voted final passage through the legislature of Texas today, by a house vote of 84 to 44. Opponents claimed it will be invalid unless it shows a two-thirds vote, which it failed to get on final passage. The bill diverts state tax money under the "calamity clause" of the constitution to secure federal public works loans. Further votes will be taken in adjusting minor amendments with the senate, by which the required two-thirds majority will be sought.

The measure, first Texas public policy bill to provide for state operation of a power development program, would create 12 power and irrigation dams in the Brazos watershed, power sale revenues, and remitted state taxes being used to repay the loans.

WOMAN, 62, FOUND DEAD.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Neighbors today found the body of Mrs. Linna M. Calkins, 62, victim of apoplexy, 18 hours after her death, authorities disclosed.

TEXTILE UNION HEAD PREDICTS NEW STRIKES WITHIN TEN DAYS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The industrial truce recently proposed by President Roosevelt appeared gravely menaced tonight by threats of new labor outbreaks in the textile industry.

Francis J. Gorman, director of the recent general strike, predicted within ten days a new wave of local strikes, chiefly in the south. The emergency board of the United Textile workers, he said, will meet in New York Friday. He described the impending strikes as "designed to protect decent employers as well as workers."

While the textile situation has become the first serious threat to the President's industrial peace program since his appeal for a general truce, there have been rumblings in the steel and automobile industries over the kind of unions with which collective bargaining shall be done under section 7A of the NIRA.

CONVICT FIRST THREE IN BUS STRIKE VIOLENCE

A jury in the Municipal court of Judge Cecil C. Smith yesterday found three men guilty on charges of malicious mischief growing out of violence in the bus strike. The defendants are William Kunse, 35 years old, 3737 New England avenue; Fred Baumgert, 25, of 2735 New England avenue, and John Overstreet, 31, of 2449 North Le Claire avenue.

Motion for a new trial was made by Attorney Thomas Reilly and set for hearing this morning. The defendants face a maximum sentence of one year in the Bridewell and a fine or both.

Assistant State's Attorney M. G. Meyers charged that the men threw a brick through the window of a Chicago Motor Coach company bus at Addison street and the river. The defendants are the first of 33 to be tried on similar charges growing out of bus strike violence.

Hand-Loomed Tweeds

and West of England Coverts

In the natural, easy drape cut of these coats you see representatives of authentic English style traditions—a more thorough investigation of these coats reveals the distinguished details that are part and parcel of the true British raglan. In the tweed coat, for instance, the inside pocket is on the left side of the coat, and buttoned above the opening of the inside pocket is the tab that is used to keep the collar closed in bad weather. In the Covert cloth coat with Prussian collar the pockets are slashed type, running through to the inside of the coat.

As to the fabrics, it's been years since we've seen anything that would come up to these in quality and richness of color and pattern. It's not likely that you will see anything that will compare with them elsewhere at $45.

STREAM TRAIN PAST SYRACUSE: ON WAY TO N. Y.

Breaks All Records from California.

Scott, California eccentric. In a train chartered on a whim to take a choo-choo ride with his dog, he covered the distance in 44 hours and 54 minutes.

If the M-10001 arrives in New York at 10 a. m. today, as scheduled, it will have gone from coast to coast in 57 hours. Regular train service is about 80 hours. The best previous time was made by the late E. H. Harriman, then chairman of the Union Pacific, in returning from the 1906 San Francisco earthquake in 71 hours and 27 minutes. W. A. Harriman, the present Union Pacific chairman, was aboard the streamliner, following his father's footsteps as a pioneer of speed.

Takes Record Early.

The world's top speed record for a fully equipped train was captured by this modern carrier early yesterday morning within an hour after leaving Cheyenne, Wyo., at midnight, Chicago time. Stop watches checked a speedometer reading of 120 miles an hour for two consecutive miles, or a rate of two miles a minute.

The Philadelphia and Reading held a rail sprint record of 115 miles an hour for five miles near Egg Harbor in 1904, a dash that has not been bettered for 30 years. The Burlington's streamlined, stainless steel, Diesel powered Zephyr touched 112.5 miles an hour for a short distance last May in a nonstop Denver to Chicago run.

European records show that the Cheltenham flyer of the Great Western of England won honors two years ago with a top speed of 92 miles per hour in covering the 77.5 miles from Swindon to London at an average of 81.6 miles an hour.

Not to be compared with the performance of a fully equipped train was the 143.75 miles per hour attained in 1931 between Hamburg and Berlin by an experimental coach shaped like a dirigible and pulled by an airplane propeller.

Averages 84 Miles an Hour.

Not content with its sprinting laurels, the M-10001 continued with open throttle and air siren through the prairie night to span the 508 miles from Cheyenne to Omaha, Neb., with an average of 84 miles an hour. This was said to be the fastest average ever made by a train for distances greater than 500 miles.

England's famous luxury express, the Flying Scotsman, two years ago bettered its own record by running 392.5 miles from London to Edinburgh at an average of 56 miles an hour. Still outstanding distance runs in America are the New York Central's Chicago to New York, 960.5 miles, in 15 hours and 56 minutes for an average of 60.28 miles per hour in 1905, and from New York to Buffalo, 436.5 miles, at an average of 64.3 miles an hour.

For the 2,364 miles from Los Angeles to Chicago, including a crossing of the Rocky mountain range, the M-10001 averaged 60.61 miles an hour. Stops for fuel and station waits prolonged for greetings and for radio broadcasts were made at Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, and Omaha.

On reaching New York today the streamliner will have covered 3,334 miles at an average of 58.5 miles an hour, including half an hour stay in Chicago. The Diesel train is loafing eastward, taking 17½ hours from Chicago to New York, to stay behind the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited with its eighteen hour schedule.

The Canadian National in 1925 made a nonstop trip of 2,937 miles from Montreal to Vancouver for an average of 53.3 miles an hour.

But It's Not a Stunt.

So much emphasis on speed records in this report reads like a story of a sporting event. It's not as a stunt that transportation notables are participating in as passengers on this transcontinental trip.

They see it as a new era in passenger travel with railroads using recent advancements in metallurgy, aerodynamics and engineering to retrieve business lost to airplanes and private automobiles. They are as much interested in the economy of 1.6 miles per gallon of 4 cent fuel oil as they are in speed.

In addition to Mr. Harriman, the Union Pacific was represented aboard by Carl R. Gray, president; F. W. Charske, executive committee chairman; W. M. Jeffers, executive vice president, and others. From the Pullman company are President D. A. Crawford and Vice Presidents E. E. Adams and L. S. Hungerford.

Boarding the train at Salt Lake City were Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research corporation, and H. L. Hamilton, president of the Winton Engine corporation. These two corporations developed the two stroke cycle Diesel that powers the streamliner. The new design engine was tested and proved a success by operating as a light and power unit for the General Motors building at A Century of Progress.

At Omaha, where the Union Pacific connected with the Chicago and North Western tracks for the trip into Chicago, the train was boarded by Fred W. Sargent, president of the C. & N. W.; Lawrence A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central; Carl R. Gray Jr., vice president of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha, and others.

Cooking Expert Inspects Train Kitchen

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, famous home economics expert, who on Nov. 6 will open the fourth Chicago Tribune School of Cookery, talks with Pat Rogers (left), Union Pacific dining car and hotel inspector, and Rube Moore, chef of the M-10001 as it halts at the La Salle Street station en route from Los Angeles to New York. BIG MEALS BUILT IN TINY KITCHEN ON STREAM TRAIN

Chef Thinks He's Busiest Man Aboard.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The busiest spot in the streamlined Union Pacific train while it paused here yesterday on its history making dash from coast to coast was a tiny kitchen stowed away compactly in a 6 by 12 foot nook of the egg shaped stern. From here food is served the passengers thrice daily wherever they may be sitting. There is no diner.

Carnival spirit ruled as the crowds swirled in and about the coaches but the kitchen force turned a deaf ear to the din of welcome. In less than a half hour the kitchen had to be made shipshape for the continuance of the journey, with food, ice and water taken aboard.

Mrs. Chitwood Sees It.

Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, who will again this year conduct THE TRIBUNE's annual cooking school, was among the first to inspect the kitchen. As she chatted with Chef Rube Moore, of Omaha, he proudly surveyed his sanctum, and with a broad grin and a flash of white teeth said:

"It isn't very big but we can cook for 116 at a time right from here. It's air cooled, has refrigeration, an oil range, electric toaster and grill. Just three of us work in here and there are six waiters."

Menus Proof of Plenty.

He displayed the printed luncheon menu for yesterday which follows:

Mandarin orange cup, green olives, mangoes, kippered herring with scrambled eggs on toast, special club sandwich, cold sliced tongue, steamed potato, baby lima beans, luncheon rolls, asparagus tip salad, fresh apple pie, nippy cheese, coffee, tea, milk or postum.

The menus almost caused a small riot. The crowd, quick to observe that Mrs. Chitwood had been handed a souvenir, clamored for the menus until a policeman put a stop to it.

THE TRIBUNE cooking school for Chicago housewives, under Mrs. Chitwood's supervision, will open Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 6, at the Trianon ballroom on the south side. It will be conducted there for four days, and on Nov. 13 will open at Guyon's ballroom on the west side, and on Nov. 20 at the Aragon ballroom on the north side.

SECOND CHICAGO HOUSING PROJECT STARTED BY U. S.

Expect Action Today on South Side Site.

The federal government through the public works administration is expected to start condemnation proceedings today to acquire title to land between Pershing road, Cottage Grove avenue, 43d street and Vincennes avenue, on which new housing to cost $7,500,000 will be erected.

Reports from Washington indicated that the construction will begin as soon as the condemnation has been completed, and that 2,000 families will be accommodated in the houses.

Hope to Deal Directly.

The usual policy of dealing directly with property owners who are willing to sell their holdings will be followed, it is said. The threat is made that those who insist on going through the condemnation litigation will in the end get no more than they would by voluntary sale.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, head of the PWA, who was in Chicago yesterday on his way to the Hetch Hetchy dam in California, was asked to comment on the new housing project, but declined to do so.

West Side Project Started.

Condemnation proceedings for a similar housing project on the west side, to cost $12,500,000, are already in progress and it has been indicated that another one, on the north side, will be started when a suitable site has been selected.

Sharp Earthquake Felt in San Francisco Areas

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A sharp earthquake of brief duration was reported by residents of widely separated districts in San Francisco tonight. The shock was felt at 7:22 p. m. Firemen Killed, Several Overcome in Eastern Fire

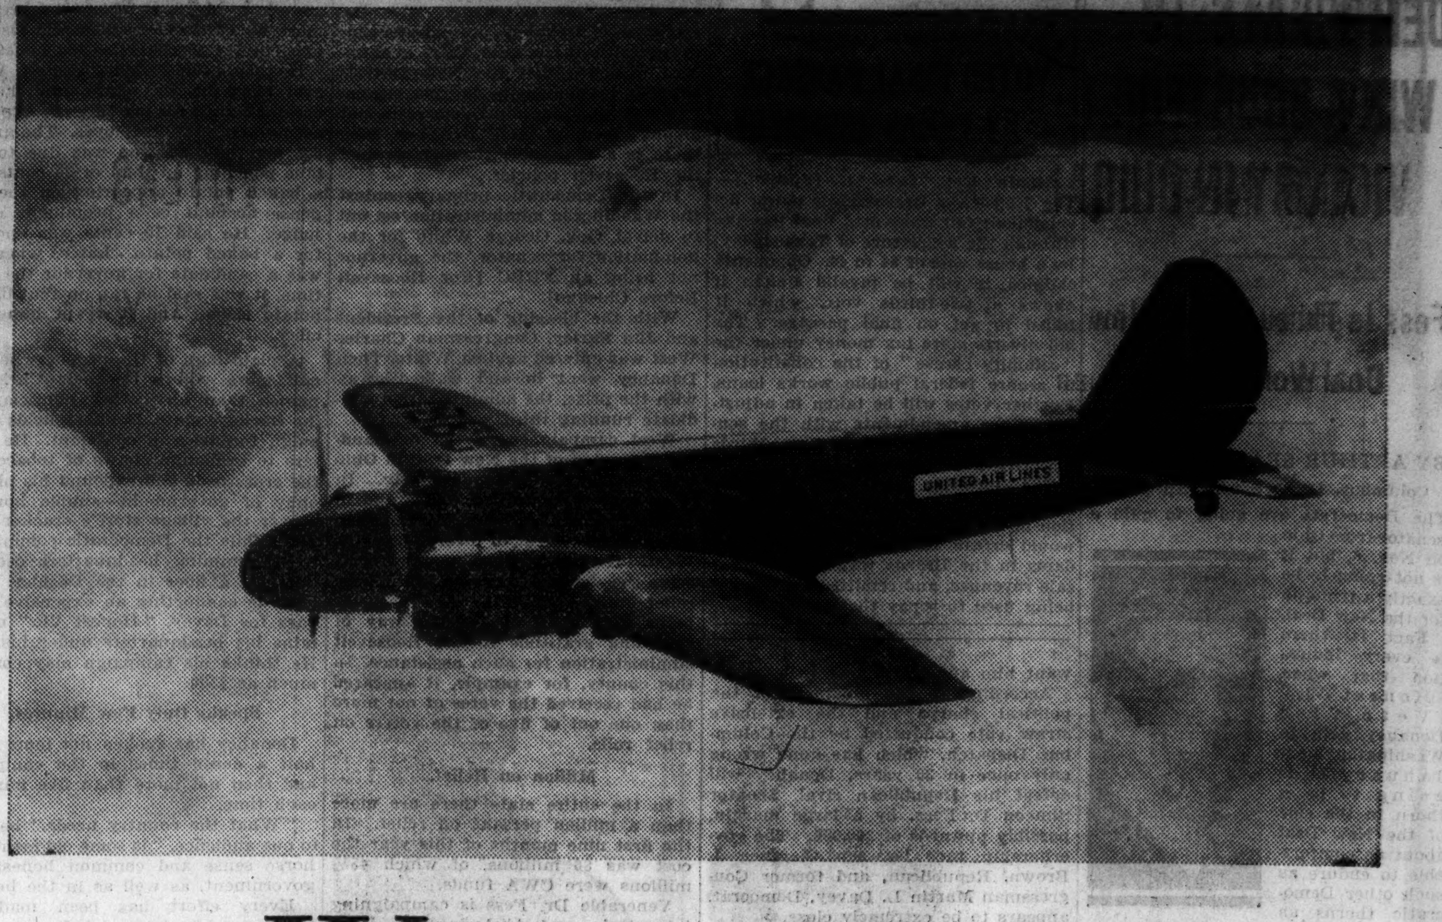
Ogdensburg, N. Y., Oct. 25 [Thursday].—(AP)—One fireman was killed and several others were overcome by smoke early today when fire spread through four downtown buildings. The dead fireman was Fred Hynes. The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined.

Broker Gets Divorce on Charge of Cruelty

John F. Holland Jr., 4929 Greenwood avenue, a stock broker, was granted an uncontested divorce by Superior Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday from his wife, the former Mary Taylor of Rochester, N. Y. He charged cruelty. He agreed to pay $60 a month for the support of their two children, Mary, 12 years old, and Carolyn, 10. The Hollands were married in Rochester on Oct. 23, 1920. They separated last Sept. 15.



With only some gas and oil Turner and Pangborn could start back today!

What a plane! Halfway 'round the world—off the course for a thousand extra miles over India on an unfamiliar route.

Turner and Pangborn? A couple of great Yankee fliers in a regular ship of the line—a Boeing 247D. Millions of you have clambered over one exactly like it, in the Transportation Building at the World's Fair. You can ride one today to New York or San Francisco or Los Angeles or Seattle—to a score of other cities on United Air Lines. Pretty commonplace plane, to us.

Its 60 sisters have flown twenty million miles, carrying you and your mail and packages over the mountains and lakes and plains of America. With this difference:

You fly lighted airways, on radio beams, with fresh crews every few hundred miles.

Your Boeing is inspected, checked and serviced by expert mechanics at every stage. Turner and Pangborn went the whole way—four times as far as New York to California. So did their ship—with no servicing.

In spite of winds that swept them hundreds of miles off their course over a black jungle, they came through—ready to fly back in the same Boeing.

Plane trouble? The Timor's most inspired buffeting couldn't hurt a plane that will support six elephants!

All credit to those masterful men at the controls. Even a Boeing doesn't know the way to Australia by itself!

The next time you travel—East or West—remember that you can have all the advantages that Turner lacked—and have all the advantages he had besides. Your United pilots will be the finest in the world. Your airway the famous, direct Mid-Continent route and your plane one like Turner's—one that has proven its ability to take the world's worst beating and like it. Fly United.

REED SLASHES AT ROOSEVELT AND NEW DEAL

Constitution Violation Is Charged by Missourian.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—New Dealers and, by inference, the President, were bitterly criticized here tonight for violating the constitution by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, lifelong Democrat. He called upon "patriots everywhere to rally to the defense of our liberties."

His attack was made in a speech at the Naval armory, under auspices of the Marygrove Nonpartisan Voters' league.

Laying disregard of the country's organic law at the door of the New Dealers rather than his party, Reed nevertheless paid tribute to Republicans' support of the constitution. "Real Republicans and real Democrats," he said, "will never submit to the new fangled idea that the constitution can be set aside by congressional or executive will."

He forecast an early failure of New Deal experiments when he said: "The sun of Democracy still shines, and will, ere long, dissipate the present fog of false doctrines."

Hits Platform Failures.

He thrust at the President's failure to abide by platform pledges in the statement: "For fifty years I have stood upon Democratic platforms, and with equal firmness I stand upon the platform of the last Democratic national convention."

Attacking the New Dealers' excuse that an emergency exists, the man who retired voluntarily from the senate in 1929 declared that such pleas were not new. He gave emphasis to an utterance of Justice Davis of the Supreme court, which, he said, "exploded the argument now advanced by the New Dealers."

Reed quoted: "No doctrine, involving more pernicious consequences, was ever invented by the wit of man than that any part of its [the constitution's] provisions can be suspended during any of the great exigencies of government. Such a doctrine leads directly to anarchy or despotism."

"Necessity," Reed declared, "is the plea for every infringement of human freedom. It is the argument of tyrants, the creed of slaves."

Cites Italy and Germany.

He cited evidences of despotism under the dictatorships of Italy and Germany, ascribing abuses of power to its concentration in a single individual.

"Is it to be answered that such purposes are not in the heart of the President?" he asked. "I gladly agree. But, set up the doctrine of one-man power and sooner or later the hand of tyranny will be laid upon the throat of every citizen."

The speaker then directed his scorn toward congressional candidates who pledge in advance that they will support any law promulgated by the President, to gain administration support in their campaigns.

"It is the fashion of New Dealers to sneer at the constitution," he said. "To the end that it be destroyed there is no subterfuge they will not invent, no false pleas they will not make. To attain office they join in the cry of the mob. They cringe before a popular master, and bare their backs to the lash of power." The downfall of Rome he ascribed to such servility on the part of its legislators.

The speaker detailed devices whereby American liberty "has on numerous occasions been grossly and brutally violated," beginning with the poor, and later, if not checked, to spread to all classes.

LEGALITY OF NRA DENIED BY LYLE IN DIVIDEND RULING

The National Industrial Recovery act was declared unconstitutional yesterday in a ruling of Judge John H. Lyle of the Municipal court. The decision was given in a suit for recovery of $451 paid as a tax to the government by the Finance Reserve company, 310 South Michigan avenue, under section 213-A of the act.

Mrs. Genevieve V. Kemp, 7019 Paxton avenue, owner of 4,510 shares of the company stock, brought the suit. She pointed out that 5 per cent of a recent dividend was withheld for payment to the government as an excise tax under provisions of the act.

Judge Lyle held that the law under which the tax was created was in violation of article 1, section 1 of the constitution, which vests all legislative powers in the congress of the United States. He held that the recovery act had given the President power to "make his own laws, conduct his own experiments and repeal them at his pleasure."

HELD TO GRAND JURY AS ROBBERS.

William Bradley, colored, 40 years old, a paroled convict from Michigan City prison, and Paul Butofocco, 22 years old, were held to the grand jury on robbery charges yesterday by Police Magistrate A. I. Zeller of Chicago Heights.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves Good Money! No Cooking!

If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

M'ADOO GIRL'S WEDDING UPSET BY RACE TANGLE

Mother Calls It Off from Sickbed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Indefinite postponement of the projected marriage of Ellen Wilson McAdoo, granddaughter of Woodrow Wilson, and Rafael Lopez de Onate, handsome actor twice her age, was announced today by the debutante's mother. Immediately there were whispers of a possible elopement.

Objections raised by Senator William G. McAdoo, father of the 19 year old girl, were made known while a tempest still raged about the question of De Onate's racial origin.

The mother, Mrs. Eleanor Wilson McAdoo, who recently divorced the California senator, made the announcement from her sickbed.

Claims Evidence of Ancestry.

Col. William H. Neblett, law partner of Senator McAdoo, said he had evidence of De Onate's ancestry "which will be produced in court if necessary" and which probably would prevent a legal marriage.

"The senator, I can say definitly, is very much opposed to the marriage," Col. Neblett said. "While he is aware that his daughter is of age and therefore legally free to make her own decisions in the matter, he will do all he can to prevent the marriage. If they should elope to another state and marry, the marriage would be illegal here."

De Onate announced that regardless of Neblett's investigation he feared no consequences of it.

"These charges of Col. Neblett's are in a sense amusing because they are so nonsensical," he said.

"At the proper time I shall have no difficulty proving my right to obtain a marriage license. I have no further statement to make except to add that both my parents were born in the Basque country of northern Spain, moved to the Philippines, and that I was born there."

Upset by Publicity.

From the actor's friends it was learned he was upset by the publicity following the interposing of a question as to whether he is of Spanish blood, as he claims, or of Filipino or Malay stock.

Although De Onate said he preferred not to discuss the matter, he was quoted by his friends as saying he and Miss McAdoo would marry as soon as legal obstacles could be cleared. His friends said he was confident he could establish beyond doubt there was no other strain than Spanish in his blood.

C. D. Clayton, Riverside county clerk, with whom Miss McAdoo last Monday filed notice of intention to wed, was asked:

"What kind of evidence would be necessary? Would a birth certificate be sufficient?"

"No, it would not," Clayton replied. "I want proof of the racial blood of his parents. I understand he has a passport and a birth certificate, but I am not interested in them. They are beside the point. The California law does not permit the intermarriage of Caucasians and Filipinos, and the possibility of De Onate being a Filipino has been raised."

Asks About Evidence.

"What kind of concrete evidence would you suggest De Onate produce, in the event they decide to marry?" the reporter asked.

"That is for Mr. Onate to decide," said Layton. "He will have to comply with the law. If he cannot meet the requirements in Riverside he might try Yuma, Ariz., or Las Vegas, Nev., where so many of the movie people go. He can't marry in Riverside county unless he shows me he doesn't have Filipino blood."

Mrs. McAdoo announced the postponement of the marriage from her home, where she is recuperating from a broken leg.

LEHMAN FLIRTS WITH 3D PARTY; VOTERS IN DAZE

Says He Will Be Speaker at Liberal Rally.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The voters of New York, already dazed by the developments of a political campaign in which the issues are mightily confused, looked with wonderment today upon the latest exploit of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, the Democratic candidate who seeks reëlection.

Gov. Lehman announced that he will be the leading speaker at a Liberal party rally next week at which he will accept the Liberals' indorsement of his candidacy. The ensuing bewilderment was caused by the fact that the Liberal party has waged a venomous fight upon Postmaster General James A. Farley and Tammany Hall.

But Mr. Farley is Gov. Lehman's campaign director and Gov. Lehman took the Tammany Tiger to his bosom several weeks ago, opening his campaign at a Tammany Hall meeting at which he thanked the machine bosses for their aid and promised to be a regular fellow.

Urged to Reconsider.

Piteous yelps of pain went up from Gov. Lehman's regular supporters when they heard that he was about to lend his prestige to an organization which has assailed Tammany corruption. He was urged to reconsider his decision to accept the Liberal indorsement, but remained firm. A hurryup call was dispatched to Mr. Farley to come and reason with his candidate.

After long and careful deliberation political observers theorized that the governor apparently hoped to get both the Tammany and anti-Tammany votes by this latest move. There were a few cynics who said that if the citizens can be kept in their present state of confusion concerning just what is going on, the Lehman strategy may be successful.

See Fear of Hard Fight.

Others saw in the Democratic candidate's move a fear on his part that the large pluralities claimed for him over his Republican opponent, Robert Moses, have been whittled down in the last ten days by revelations concerning the use of federal easy money by Mr. Farley to strengthen the Democratic machine in the Empire state.

Some very deplorable tactics have been charged against Mr. Farley and he has not troubled to deny the accusations, pointing out smilingly that he is not a candidate. Gov. Lehman has also ignored all such charges on the ground that they are the basis of a despicable plot to befog the issues. That the issues are befogged is something at least that the voting population can agree upon.

The governor in this last week has focused his attention upon the dangerous and highly controversial subject of cheaper milk for babies. He also has thundered forth denunciations of the Republican record on the public utilities question.

Such minor matters as the woeful financial picture facing the state; the 100 million dollar deficit in the budget, and the problems caused by the interference of governmental agencies with state functions have been disregarded by the governor in his campaign.

HE PANS FARLEY; OUSTER TO TURN INTO TEST CASE

Second Official May Be Politics Victim.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Efforts of postoffice authorities to discharge an employé who criticized the policies of Postmaster General Farley have resolved into a test case on the issue of freedom of speech.

A hearing will be held in Washington tomorrow before C. B. Uttley, superintendent of the division of postoffice service, and representatives of various organizations of federal employés will be heard in protest against the ouster.

The accused employé, William F. Hill, is only a substitute postal clerk in St. Louis, but he is being represented by an attorney retained by the National Association of Substitute Postoffice Employés.

Second Official Faces Dismissal.

This association, in which Hill is an official, has conducted a widespread campaign on Hill's behalf, with a further result that Albert Shatzberg, substitute clerk in the New York postoffice, faces a threat of dismissal also because he sold postcards to fellow workers which bore a message of protest against the ouster of Hill.

Charges were preferred against Hill by W. R. Jackson, postmaster at St. Louis, because of a letter written by Hill which appeared in the St. Louis Star-Times on Aug. 15. The letter, naming Postmaster General Farley several times, accused him of pursuing an economy policy at the expense of the postal service. Hill urged readers of the newspaper to complain to their congressman against "the crippling of the mail service and putting employés on relief agency rolls."

Postmaster Jackson in formal charges alleged disloyalty, declared Hill's statements were "misleading" and had "a tendency to bring the postoffice department and the postal service into disrepute and to create a feeling of dissatisfaction with the service amongst the patrons of the St. Louis postoffice."

Charge Moral Turpitude.

This, declared Jackson, constituted "an offense involving moral turpitude . . . in violation of the postal laws and regulations."

Vincent C. Burke, deputy first assistant postmaster general, declared today that the case was "much ado about nothing," but in his next breath he said that the case had attracted so much attention that its disposition would be rendered by Postmaster General Farley personally.

Barnes Refuses Approval of 3 Bankruptcy Fees

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday refused to approve fees recommended for lawyers in three bankruptcy cases. He said attorneys are demanding exorbitant fees in cases where recoverable assets are small. He refused to approve recommendasions that attorneys be allowed $773 in the bankruptcy of the Bingo Novelty company, fees of $1,380 in the case of the United Rug Stores, Inc., and fees of $1,228 be paid attorneys in the case of William Carleton Davis.

Lindley Threatens to Bar Chicago Receiver Petitions in Fee War if 'Chiseling' Is Proved

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, sitting temporarily in Chicago yesterday, threatened to bar the doors of his Danville court to Chicago attorneys, who for reasons of their own filed petitions there under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act asking the reorganization of Chicago corporations.

The good faith of several of the petitions filed at Danville has been attacked by attorneys and state judges interested in keeping in their own hands jurisdiction of those Chicago corporations now in state receivership. Judge Lindley said that if it is shown that the so-called Danville racket is the scheme of "chiselers," as the objectors claim, he will accept no more Chicagoans' petitions in Danville.

Explanation of Section 77B.

Section 77B, under which state courts may be stripped of jurisdiction in certain receivership cases, has been described by a disinterested attorney, an expert in his field, as a "halfway step toward bankruptcy." Its purpose, he said, is to permit the reorganization of corporations in distress. The consent of two-thirds of the creditors is needed before a reorganization can be effected, but with the two-thirds willing the debts of a corporation may be scaled down so that a portion may be paid and the business kept as a going concern.

Specifically, the conflict between state and federal courts started in the proceedings involving the Flamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive, which represents a $2,000,000 investment. Acting on a petition filed under section 77B, Judge Lindley appointed a downstate lawyer, Joseph B. Barnhart of Danville, permanent trustee of this property, superseding Harry S. O'Neal, who had been appointed its receiver by Judge Harry A. Lewis of the Cook county Superior court.

Controversy Flares Over Fees.

Action under 77B, a piece of New Deal legislation, is being resisted by a group of attorneys and the state judges who have jurisdiction in receivership cases. The proponents of 77-B reply that foreclosures have rested too long now in state courts, while favored lawyers and receivers are growing fat on fees.

Judge Lewis said he was about to accomplish some definite financial improvement in the Flamingo hotel receivership when it was taken from him.

The question of good faith in shifting of jurisdiction arose first in regard to the Flamingo hotel. Attorney Joseph Z. Willner said he represents 96 per cent of the bondholders, all of whom are opposed to the 77B petition, whereas agreement of two-thirds of the creditors is necessary to any reorganization plans.

Attorney Willner said he was not permitted by Judge Lindley to challenge the good faith of the three persons in whose names the petition to reorganize the Flamingo hotel was filed. He said they had acquired $1,600 of Flamingo hotel bonds at 10 cents on the dollar a few days before the petition was filed.

Didn't Know Facts, Judge Says.

Judge Lindley said yesterday that if he had been aware of this situation he would have thrown the petition out of court. He said Attorney Morris Sider testified that the three petitioners were original investors in Flamingo hotel bonds. The petitioners are N. Wolens, S. Buchbinder, and G. J. Caraher and action was begun in their names July 7 at Danville.

Shortly before that time, according to O'Neal, the former receiver, Barnhart, the Danville attorney, had been looking over the rooms of the Flamingo hotel.

Attorney Archie Schimberg filed the petition involving putting the Flamingo hotel under 77B and a short time later he was made attorney for the trustee appointed by Judge Lindley for the companion buildings, the Park Shore East and Park Shore West hotels, which were originally under the same control as the Flamingo. Attorney Schimberg said he filed the Flamingo petition at Danville because Judge Lindley could give him some time there that he couldn't get from the federal courts in Chicago.

"I don't know who the petitioners were," said Schimberg. "Another lawyer brought the case to me."

Flamingo Case First of Kind.

Judge Lewis said Wolens, Buchbinder, and Caraher were connected with the Wollengerger company which underwrote the bond issue and which, Judge Lewis said, had since been seeking to regain control of the property.

In the proceedings before Judge Lindley the law firm of Hirsch, Schanfarber & Levy, Attorney Louis Cohen, and a Danville firm appeared of record along with Schimberg and Sider.

"The Flamingo case was the first of its kind to be brought before me," said Judge Lindley. "From the language of the act it was apparent congress had deemed it wise to bring these causes into the federal court and I have no thought that congress intended to promote any conflict between the state court and the federal court."

He then quoted from a transcript of the hearing before him in Danville in which he ruled that the petition was filed in good faith and that jurisdiction rested in any federal district in the state. He has said:

"Here there are creditors to the extent of more than a million dollars, and the petition is filed by three creditors whose claims aggregate sixteen hundred dollars. On the face of it, the ordinary layman might say that is a suspicious trap, but congress, in the past, has enacted that provision of the bankruptcy act which says that three creditors, holding debts aggregating a thousand dollars, may always file an involuntary petition if debts aggregate more than one thousand dollars. So, the fact that there are three comparatively small petitioning creditors, it seems to me, has little or no weight on the question of good faith."

Mr. Barnhart has been in control of the hotel since Aug. 7 at a salary of $500 a month and has appointed his 22 year old daughter resident manager of the hotel.

FUR TRADE BARS SOCIETY MODELS IN STYLE SHOWS

Professionals Win in One Skirmish; Push Fight.

The case of professional models vs. society girls veered slightly in favor of the professionals yesterday when I. C. Greenberg, executive secretary of the Associated Fur Industries of Chicago, announced that henceforth only professional models would be employed in style shows sponsored by the fur industry.

Mr. Greenberg, who planned Chicago's first fur fashion show, held in 1920 on the Municipal pier, declared: "We are going to use professionals 100 per cent throughout our industry."

Earlier a group of models met at the Models' Registration bureau, 75 East Wacker drive, to consider the next step in their campaign protesting the employment of Chicago society girls as models.

Girls' Statements Lauded.

"I think the society girls have been swell about it," said Mrs. Connie Seaman, director of the bureau, after reading statements made by some of the society models in reply to a "sportsmanship appeal" drawn up by the professionals Monday. "I only hope they will show, by withdrawing from the field, that they mean what they say."

"You see," she explained, "when they're trading on their names, it's not fair to us. That is competition we can't meet. We haven't names, but we have everything else."

"The society models were very fair in their statements," said Jolieta McCready, 8006 Ellis avenue, a "top model." "Now the question is will they live up to them?"

Will Present Petition.

"Really," added Eleanor Stewart, 1754 Juneway terrace, little and brown eyed, "we want to get over to them the fact that lots of girls haven't anything else to live on."

"We don't question their right to model for charity events," said Florence Lawrence, 8034 Ellis avenue, a "top model" for six years. "We only want those who say they find modeling 'entertaining' to get some other entertainment."

This afternoon at 2 o'clock a picked group of models will present their petition to Mr. Greenberg. From his office they will go to several stores and shops which have employed society girls and matrons.

PREMIER OF ONTARIO VOWS TO BLOCK PACT WITH U. S. ON SEAWAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 24.—Even if the United States senate ratifies the Canadian-American St. Lawrence waterway agreement there will be no waterway, it seems, as a result of a declaration by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario of his intention to repudiate the Canadian provincial-federal arrangement upon which Canada's assent is founded.

Hepburn assumed the Ontario premiership last June after defeating the government of former Premier George S. Henry, who agreed with Ottawa to Canadian participation in the waterway. Hepburn insists that present transportation necessities do not require a seaway, and that present economic conditions forbid it.

The Henry government left office without having the Ontario legislature approve the internal Canadian arrangement under which Ontario is to shoulder $67,000,000 of the cost of the completed works in consideration of power. Hepburn now commands the legislature with an overwhelming majority.

TAVERN OFFICIAL IS SHOT IN JOLIET CUT RATE FEUD

Fleeing after he had hurled a brick through the window of a cut price saloon in Joliet early yesterday, John S. Cirricione, 43 years old, president of the Will County Tavern Owners' association, was shot in the back and critically wounded by Policeman Joseph Sanders of the Joliet force.

The policeman was in a railroad watchman's shanty near the saloon of Victor Badurski, 1042 Collins street, Joliet, when he heard the crash of glass. He gave chase as Cirricione fled, firing one shot over the man's head before shooting directly at the fugitive. After a few minutes' search the policeman concluded the fugitive had escaped.

Cirricione was arrested after he had crawled to a home near the scene of the shooting. Cirricione admitted he had thrown the brick because Badurski, who was not a member of the association, had been selling 16 ounces of beer for a nickel, double the amount established by the members' agreement.

MUST DIE FOR WIFE'S DEATH.

Dubuque, Ia., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Reginald Tracy, 53, Manchester, must hang for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Reginald Tracy, 52, and Mrs. Flossie Fear of Farley, convicted as an accomplice in the crime, must serve the balance of her life in prison. Tracy's death sentence, according to law, will be carried out Nov. 29, 1935. Sentence was pronounced by Judge A. B. Lovejoy of Waterloo late today.

Allman Orders Police Quiz on Alterie Arrest Episode

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered an investigation into the conduct of Policeman Charles Clark of the First district in connection with the arrest of Louis [Two Gun] Alterie, prohibition era gangster, at the Auditorium hotel Saturday. Alterie, using the name of Jack Devine, and several other suspicious characters were dismissed for want of evidence by Judge Edward S. Scheffler Tuesday. Afterward it was reported to the judge that "Devine" was Alterie. Clark was recalled and said that he hadn't mentioned it because he wasn't sure that the man was Alterie.

PRESIDENT EYES FALTERING NRA; SEEKS A SAVIOR

Finds Eagle Snatching Is Ineffective.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—As NRA enforcement machinery bogs down, President Roosevelt is casting around for new men and new methods with which to bolster up the Blue Eagle.

Snatching of the NRA emblem as a means for chastising code violators has become almost totally ineffective, a survey showed today. New devices are being sought.

Appointment by President Roosevelt of a coördinator for all compliance work is being discussed. President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago has been mentioned as a posible candidate for such a position. Since the President has declared against actual consolidation of all NRA enforcement work in one office, the new official, if he is appointed, would merely coördinate the work of NRA, the federal trade commission, the department of justice and other agencies.

Oil Code Ineffective.

This was learned as President Roosevelt himself confessed that no satisfactory enforcement of the crucial oil code had yet been worked out. A devastating price war such as the code was designed to stop is now going on in the midcontinent field, and the President admitted at his press conference that no satisfactory compliance machinery had been built up behind the oil pact.

The President also said that he hoped within the next two weeks to fill the post of chairman of the national labor relations board, a key position in code enforcement work. Dr. Hutchins has been mentioned as a possible appointee to this job also.

Enforcement Is Difficult.

Officials of the national labor board concede that it is almost impossible now to enforce their decisions against companies by having the NRA take the Blue Eagle. The insignia has ceased to be an asset of great importance to companies which find that they can proceed without it.

Only where companies have contracts for business with the federal government is the Blue Eagle snatching still effective, officials admit. President Roosevelt has ordered the government not to deal with companies which cannot fly the Blue Eagle. This pressure has brought many companies back into line, but there are conspicuous exceptions, notably Henry Ford, who let his government business go rather than come under the Blue Eagle.

2 WOMEN HURT IN TRAIN WRECK STAY IN HOSPITAL

Fowler, Ind., Oct. 24—(AP)—Only two of thirty-five persons injured in the wreck of a Big Four passenger train early today remained in the hospital at Earl Park tonight and normal traffic was resumed on the railroad.

Mrs. Frank Fisher and Mrs. Owen Miller, both of Cincinnati, suffered head and other injuries and their condition would not permit removal. Eight victims of the derailment were taken to the Methodist hospital at Indianapolis.

An investigation was begun by F. M. Reynolds, general superintendent of the Big Four; Joseph H. Riley, railroad inspector for the Indiana public service commission, and John Freeland, Indiana highway commission engineer.

Most of the injured were homecomers from the Chicago World's Fair and were in a coach that fell across road 41.

Report Frank B. Kellogg "Making Fine Progress"

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Physicians attending Frank B. Kellogg, judge of the World court and former secretary of state, recuperating in a hospital here from an operation, said today he is "making fine progress."

FAIR WELCOMES ITS 15 MILLIONTH VISITOR OF YEAR

Festival of Light Will Be Repeated.

The 15 millionth visitor to the 1934 World's Fair, Miss Wilhelmina Harrop, 23 years old, of Thornton, entered the 23rd street gate yesterday. She was the 37,395,244th visitor since the beginning of the 1933 Exposition, setting an all time record for expositions. The previous world's record was made by the Paris exposition of 1900, attended by 37,287,000.

Miss Harrop was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Albert Harrop. They were greeted by President Rufus C. Dawes and U. Grant Smith, chief of protocol, and presented with gifts from concessionaires and exhibitors. It was her first visit to the Fair since the opening night this year, Miss Harrop said. She was bound this time for the Old Globe theater in Merrie England.

Repeat Festival of Light.

The spectacular Festival of Light, in which airplanes, powerful searchlights and fireworks combine a 45 minute program of thrills, will be repeated tonight and, through arrangements approved yesterday, nightly through next Wednesday. It was the most successful of all shows sponsored by the Fair to date, said Capt. Jack Reilly, in charge of events.

Ten thousand underprivileged school children of Chicago were enabled to see the 1934 Fair, it was revealed yesterday, by exhibitors included in the student tour itineraries. Edward H. Sniffen, president of the Exhibitors' association, raised funds from the exhibitors, which were distributed quietly among the children by their teachers.

Bakers Show Wares Today.

Today is Bakers' day at the Fair. Two thousand bakers from throughout the country are expected to visit the Exposition. A display of their goods will be placed in the French Pavilion on Northerly Island.

L. J. Schumaker, chairman of the Board of Governors of the American Bakers' association will be the principal speaker in a program in the Court of the Hall of States beginning at 2 p. m. Awards will be made in a contest for baking and decorating wedding cakes at 2:30 p. m.

Despite gloomy skies, yesterday afternoon's pleasant temperatures brought out an encouraging attendance. At midnight 71,346 sightseers had entered the grounds.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

A survey of activities on the Fair grounds revealed various statistical oddities yesterday.

By the time the Exposition closes 24,764 trailers filled with refuse, 15,699 trailers of garbage and 2,456 tons of waste paper will have been removed from the Fair grounds during 1933 and 1934, said William G. Schliep, chief of refuse and cleaning.

More than 20,000 persons under 21 years old have been registered as "lost" by the Travelers' Aid society in the two years of the Exposition.

In the Wilson pavilion exhibit 1,590,000 pounds of bacon were sliced this year and 159,000 steak dinners served. Ten Wilson stands over the grounds served 1,060,000 persons chili or hot tamales, and the stand in the Foods and Agriculture building served 425,000 hamburger and ham sandwiches.

Nine hundred and twenty-four miles have been marched by the army, navy, and marine corps troops stationed at Camp Roosevelt in 1934, said Capt. N. D. Young, 61st coast artillery, in 1934.

The Sky Ride and Sky Ride towers were patronized by 4,303,102 persons during both Fairs. The rocket cars traveled 110,060 miles in all, the elevators 189,442 miles.

By the close of the Fair 24 million passengers will have ridden on the Greyhound buses in the two Expositions. The mileage of buses will be about 1,700,000 miles.

A Century of Progress orchestra by next Tuesday will have made 1,367 broadcasts over all Chicago stations and two network systems during the two Expositions.

Ten million hamburgers and 5 million red hots were eaten by Fair visitors in 1933 and 1934, the Crown Food company stands reported.

Wings of a Century will have been attended by more than 1,750,000 persons by the close of the Fair. The pageant probably will open for twelve weeks in Miami Jan. 1, and probably will show in New York next summer.

Seven persons died on the Fair grounds in 1934, including one suicide and two who are alleged to have died from alleged injuries there. Prostrations numbered 637 and illnesses 3,228. Two gunshot wounds, 604 sprains, 1,627 cases of foreign bodies in eyes, and 1,758 bruises were reported.

The Fair public address system has broadcast 4,398 hours since May, 1933.

BLUE EAGLE LAYS FOUR EGGS WHILE SCIENTIST TALKS

Two hundred usually grave scientists, members of the Ornithologists' union, roared with laughter last night when Dr. A. A. Allen of the Cornell university department of zoölogy demonstrated the merits of a mechanical bird resembling a Blue Eagle and capable of "laying hard boiled eggs according to the codes."

"You will note," said Dr. Allen, "that this bird is of a sickly blue shade, probably caused by rough usage during the past year. It has the body of a White Rock hen, the talons of a half grown eagle, but it lays four eggs daily during a shortage and none at all when there is a period of planned economy."

While the professor was speaking four eggs dropped onto a plate. Dr. Allen pointed out that they were not only hard boiled but spotted with gold, because it had not yet been possible to control the gold content.

BEGIN PAYING UP CITY EMPLOYES FOR ALL OCTOBER

Paying of policemen, firemen and other city employés for the entire month of October began yesterday. City Controler Upham declared that this was the first occasion since the Christmas holidays of 1930 that city employés had been paid ahead of time.

Mayor Kelly held a conference on the pay situation with the controler several days ago. It was decided at the time that the employés would receive their October pay, totaling $4,000,000, before Nov. 1 so that they would be able to attend the World's Fair before closing, if they so desired.

What happened to you last time you took a Laxative?

THINK back! Remember that last time you took a laxative? Remember how it acted? Did it give you stomach pains? Did it upset your digestion? Did it leave you weak? Did it taste worse than awful?

There's no need to take that kind of laxative again!

There is a pleasant, painless and thorough way to relieve constipation. It's the Ex-Lax way!

And don't stop reading this message till you've learned all about it. This may be the means of your bidding good-bye—forever—to nasty-tasting laxatives, to stomach pains, to laxatives that form a habit—because once you've tried Ex-Lax, you'll wonder how you could ever have gotten along without it.

HERE'S THE "WHY" OF EX-LAX

First of all—Ex-Lax works gently. That means it doesn't upset you or cause stomach pains, or leave you weak. It means that Ex-Lax works so much like Nature itself that you really don't realize you've taken a laxative.

But maybe you think that because Ex-Lax is so mild and gentle that it may not be effective enough for you. Well, thousands upon thousands of grateful users started off with the same doubt. Now they wonder how they ever got along without Ex-Lax.

And finally—and this is a mighty important thing to you—Ex-Lax will not form a habit. You don't have to keep on increasing the dose to get results.

How does Ex-Lax taste? Well—just exactly the same as eating a piece of the most delicious chocolate you ever tasted. That's an ideal combination for a laxative, isn't it?

So don't waste another day taking the old-fashioned kind. Go to your druggist and get a box of Ex-Lax. It comes in 10c and 25c boxes.

When Nature forgets—remember

CHILE SNUBS U. S.; GIVES BIG PLANE ORDER TO BRITAIN

Retaliates for Munitions Inquiry Revelations.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 24.—The Chilean ban on purchases of American war material bore its first fruit today when it was officially announced that the contract for 25 training planes, valued at $600,000, had been awarded to the British firm of A. V. Roe & Co., manufacturers of the Avro flying craft.

It was an open secret among foreign aviation company agents that the order, on the ground of merits and facilities alone, was on the verge of being placed with the Curtiss-Wright corporation, which maintains an assembling plant in Santiago, when the American senatorial inquiry into the munitions trade created a furor in Chilean as well as other South American government circles by revealing that American munitions firms were paying graft to Latin American officials.

Accept Bid of One U. S. Firm.

In retaliation, or, in the words of National Defense Minister Bello Codesido, "to avoid further opportunity of slandering officials," the Chilean government ordered the retirement of American tenders for the aviation contract and placed a virtual ban on all purchases of war material from the United States.

Today's contract, therefore, was a comparatively easy victory for the British, as there was no solid competition from any European aircraft manufacturers. A last minute concession to submit a bid was vouchsafed the Fairchild Aviation corporation on the ground that this concern had not been mentioned in the Washington disclosures, but it was generally accepted that the concession was valueless in view of the high feeling aroused by the Washington investigation.

Minor contracts for radio and photographic apparatus for the air corps were given to American contractors, but these were considered as a sop, to distract attention from the big prize—the first post-depression order—which had been awarded to Britain.

New Orders Due Soon.

Budgetary arrangements, facilitated by improved Chilean exports, provide for other early orders for the national aviation corps, while new appropriations have been granted for the renovation of old and acquisition of new material for the army and navy. There is a feeling in local trading circles that diplomatic support may be necessary to secure a fair deal for American contractors when these tenders are called for.

American aircraft salesmen are resigned to the loss of the Chilean market for a long time, and are loud in their protests against the Nye committee investigators. They point to the announced departure of an aerial mission to England as evidence that the majority of future orders will go that way.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Calf Hunts a Mother

Oct. 24, 1934.

ONE of the new Hereford calves recently placed here on the farm ran away to find a foster mother yesterday, but it failed in its quest. When Herman Guenther and Charley Sleezer finally caught up with this handsome little Hereford they found it on the Cedar Dell farm which adjoins the experimental farm to the northwest.

The runaway was in a pasture along with the other Hereford calves which were purchased a few days ago. The boys had no idea that any of these animals would make an attempt to leave the pasture. Moreover, the fence is in good shape so that it isn't easy for an animal to get through it. Just the same this young range Hereford scrambled under the fence and made straight for a herd of Guernsey cows on the Cedar Dell farm. When Charley and Herman arrived at the farm to retrieve this runaway they found him doing his best to get one of the old Guernseys to adopt him. The Guernseys apparently couldn't see why they should take on any orphans, or provide this strange young westerner with a drink of milk. After an inquisitive sniff the cows ignored him. The ranger is back home now, and Herman and Charley have gone over all of the fencing to prevent this young Hereford from taking any more such strolls over the countryside.

A Barred Rock rooster, transferred from the auxiliary farm near Wheaton to the experimental farm, is giving the boys several laughs these days. This fellow, a mighty handsome specimen, seems to think that he was brought to the farm to be the boss of the poultry yard. To prove his supremacy he flies to the top of the post right next to Clarence's house and there he hurls his challenges to all comers. You can see this arrogant young rooster on his crowing post nearly every morning, and how he does broadcast! He is not only good at challenging, but so far he has been able to back up his arrogance by real scrapping.

The crows, now moving about in fairly large flocks and assembling each night on a selected roosting place, seems to be spending much of their time during these harvest days just looking for trouble. Fields give them plenty to eat, so they have lots of time to mob migrating hawks and find inoffensive owls in the woods.

Not even cats escape the attacks of the crows. The other day a small flock was seen going after a cat in the fields. Answering the alarm call of one crow, several birds gathered around the frightened feline and attacked it. The cat was no match for her winged assailants. She retreated in a hurry. Cock pheasants, rabbits—there seem to be few wild creatures on the farm that a crow won't attack.

MEXICAN CHURCH HEAD REPORTED OUSTED; 2D FLEES

Government Presses War on Religion.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The newspaper La Prensa said today it was informed unofficially that the Catholic archbishops of Chiapas and Oaxaca had left the country.

The archbishop of Chiapas was reported to have been expelled, while the other churchman was given asylum by Catholic organizations in Guatemala.

In church circles it was said the reports had not been received and they were not confirmed elsewhere.

Calles Urges Expulsion.

Former President Plutarco Elias Calles, who is still the "strong man" in Mexican politics, said tonight Mexican Catholics are preparing a subversive movement which will rapidly bring about a crisis "which the government will know how to meet." He said he was in favor of expulsion of archbishops and bishops from the country. "Because they are the direct cause of the present reactionary agitation and especially because they are organizing in preparation for a movement."

Classes resumed their normal schedule at the National university after a decision of the students to refrain from mixing in politics.

Workers Get Ultimatum.

Designed to prove the government's statements that its socialistic education and anti-religious policies have the support of the vast majority of people, 150,000 workers and their families planned to parade in a manifestation Sunday.

At Tampico the governor issued two ultimatums, one to parents of striking students, the other to government employés. Workers who do not define their socialistic attitude in five days will be dismissed. The parents of students opposed to their children's return to school before Oct. 26 will lose the right to free education, the governor decided.

The states of Tobasco, Sonora, Chiapas, Colima, and Guerrero are entirely without churches. Bishops and priests were given three days to leave Guerrero.

FRENCH JUDGE MURDERED, NEW EVIDENCE SHOWS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Further evidence leaked out today tending to show that Magistrate Albert Prince, whose unsolved death at Dijon in February is France's greatest and most dangerous mystery, was murdered and did not commit suicide. This information forms a part of two documents that the commission investigating the Stavisky pawnshop scandal, which has just resumed its labors, will publish tomorrow.

Judge Prince was found dead on a railway track a few hours before he was to have testified in the Stavisky investigation. The judge is popularly supposed to have possessed evidence incriminating high officials in the notorious 60 million dollar Stavisky swindle.

The first of the new documents in the case is the answer by Magistrate Prince's family to statements contained in the Guillaume report which leave the impression that Prince was a suicide. It is understood the family's refutation is based largely upon the still undivulged official reports of medical experts. Among other things the doctors are said to have found that Prince's lungs had many lesions which could only have resulted from an anesthetic far heavier than any one could inflict on himself.

Moreover, Magistrate Prince must have been drugged for several hours, it is stated, and since another train passed the spot where his body was found twenty minutes before the one which ran over him, he must have been carried to the tracks.

The second document is a report by railroad experts. It is stated that this report concludes Prince must have been tied to the rail by a rope passing from his ankles around his neck, thus holding him in a sitting posture.

Client Charges Attorney Promised Marriage; Sues

Mrs. Hazel Morris, 24 years old, 6922 Indiana avenue, filed a $25,000 breach of promise suit in the Superior court yesterday against Carl E. Person, her attorney in a projected separate maintenance suit last June. She alleges in her bill that when she visited Person in his office at 139 North Clark street to discuss the proposed suit he told her he had long loved her and would marry her if she were divorced. She was divorced Aug. 16, but Attorney Person failed to make good his promise, the bill says.

What to Do About
"Acid Indigestion"

A Way that Brings Relief in a Few Minutes

Great numbers of people who think they have "weak stomachs" or suffer from "indigestion," doctors say really have nothing more serious than acid stomach. Because the average diet consists too largely of acid-forming foods. Wholesome necessary foods like meat, starches, sweets, for example.

What To Do

All you do is take a bit of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after each meal. This acts to almost immediately neutralize the excess stomach acidity that brings on your trouble.

AMERICAN NAVAL ENVOYS PUZZLED BY JAP DEMANDS

Call Nipponese Equality Proposal "Vague."

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The first contact between the American and Japanese delegates to the preliminary naval conversations now going on here took place today. The Japanese called on the American delegation at Claridge's hotel and repeated to it almost verbatim what they said to the British yesterday. One of the American delegates said tonight:

"The Japanese put before us a lot of vague phrases. We do not know what they mean and we are waiting for the second stage, when we hope that they will tell the British and us what they really want. So far all we can make out is that they want some declaration of theoretical equality. We are not interested in theory. We want to know what they actually want, and so far we do not know. We have had a pleasant talk and we will have some more."

Politics Not Discussed.

THE TRIBUNE learns that no political questions were brought up in the Japanese statement. It was confined altogether to argument in favor of the theoretical right to equality, but did not indicate whether the Japanese really want to build a navy of equal size to those of the United States and Great Britain or only want to save face by securing a theoretical right to do so.

One American delegate remarked that he did not know just how much prestige is attached to an airplane carrier as compared to a submarine.

The situation now is that the British and Americans are working in close coöperation for either renewal of the Washington and London treaties or some acceptable modification of them. Both the United States and England have the same problem as regards Japan. The Americans must consider the defense of the Philippines and Hawaii and the British have Australia and New Zealand. Both are willing to allow Japan to have a navy sufficient to defend itself against attack in its own waters, but not strong enough to threaten their Pacific possessions.

Similar to German Situation.

As far as it has gone the situation is much like that of Germany at Geneva, which finally was reduced to the formula: "Equality of right within a régime of security."

But so far no one knows just how that is to be translated into guns and tanks in the case of Germany, or into submarines and ships in the case of Japan.

The Americans and British now think the 5-5-3 ratio [representing the naval armaments of Great Britain, the United States, and Japan in that order] comes as near it as possible, but Japan apparently does not agree.

The British and the Japanese delegates will meet again Friday. It is not expected that the Japanese will meet the Americans again until next week.

2 KILLED, 10 HURT IN UPSET OF BUS IN PENNSYLVANIA

Indiana, Pa., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Two of the 12 passengers on a bus of the Nuway line were killed and all of the remaining ten injured today when the huge vehicle, en route from New York to Chicago, upset on the Benjamin Franklin highway and then plunged down an embankment and into a shallow stream.

The dead are Mrs. J. R. Jensen, 3550 Sheffield avenue, Chicago, and H. M. Marion, San Francisco, Cal. Physicians said Marion drowned in the stream after his skull was fractured. His body was beneath the bus chassis in the water.

Passengers said the front wheels of the bus seemed to "shimmy" a moment before it left the road. It turned over twice as it went down the embankment, the coach part separating from the chassis. The passengers were sent sprawling in every direction.

Among the injured was Joseph Platzeky of Berwyn, Ill. The others hurt were from New York City, Brooklyn, Minneapolis, and Pennsylvania.

DIES OF INJURIES IN FALL.

Injuries incurred in a fall in his home Oct. 18 caused the death in the South Chicago hospital yesterday of Charles Hozan, 56 years old, 8225 Ewing avenue.

U. S. FLEET HEADS FOR CALIFORNIA IN SURPRISE MOVE

Accidents Slow Transit of Panama Canal.

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Oct. 24.—(AP)—With the United States fleet in transit through the Panama canal in a surprise move into Pacific waters, Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief, announced at Balboa tonight the entire fleet will leave at daybreak Monday for California. The fleet will engage in maneuvers en route.

An attempt to better the 47 hour record for the fleet's passage through the canal met with at least partial disappointment when the huge aircraft carriers, Lexington and Saratoga, sidewiped and smashed concrete lampposts during lockage today.

Part of the fleet was tied up behind them and it was unofficially estimated the transit of 88 vessels, started last night, would require at least 44 hours. When the present record was made last April 110 vessels passed through.

Slowed by Fog and Rain.

It took the Lexington nearly 12 hours to make the regular six hour transit of the canal and the Saratoga even longer. The entire transit had been slowed up since the start by fog and intermittent heavy rains, and at 6 o'clock this morning the movement was 30 minutes behind schedule.

Headquarters of the fifteenth naval district issued a statement that the maneuver was working well. The ships arrived at the canal as soon as they completed several maneuvers in the Caribbean.

Army and navy authorities denied they knew of the intended naval movement but there was indication it had been planned for some time.

2 Plane Accidents.

Maneuvers today resulted in the wreck of the naval patrol plane VP-3, of the squadron attached to the fleet air base at Coco Solo. The craft crashed in the canal near Gamboa. The pilot, Lieut. H. D. Hale, and two enlisted men escaped uninjured.

An army pursuit plane of the 29th pursuit squadron at France field turned over when the brakes locked but its pilot likewise was unhurt.

Meanwhile, commercial vessels were arriving at east and west terminals of the canal hourly, awaiting passage. There were 33 at Cristobal.

The surprise arrival of naval vessels last night was a signal for a general rally at all army posts in this department. Packs of rolled rations were taken to all men at their various stations. Coast artillery troops reported to searchlight or anti-aircraft positions and others were transported in boats to Fort Amador. Others were detailed to jungle positions.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

ON THE WAY.

A modern Æsop has related that a man who had fallen out of a thirteen story window remarked as he passed the sixth story on his way down: "Well, I'm all right so far."

That expresses the optimism the American people are invited by the administration to adopt at this stage of the New Deal. The administration has been piling up a public debt of billions which must be paid, or, even more disastrously, repudiated in due time. It has been building up a burocracy of unprecedented numbers with powers of regulation never before dreamed of in our history. It has been increasing the powers and responsibilities of the executive and centralizing government at the expense of state, local, and individual liberty and substituting on a huge scale the authority and discretion of administration officials for the rule of law enforced by courts. Its prophets have preached the failure of American institutions and announced a peaceful revolution.

Yet opponents of these developments are called alarmists; the President himself has challenged the citizenry to say what liberties they have thus far lost, and the nation is expected to vote its approval of the administration's acts and pronouncements without consideration of what they imply or foretell.

As we pass the sixth floor our condition is none too satisfactory even to the President's optimism, but aside from that the common sense of the country can hardly afford to ignore the end of the trip. We may break the fall, but certainly not by refusing to face what the New Deal is carrying us toward.

The approval of the New Deal at the coming election depends upon two things. The more conspicuous of these, and probably at this moment the more influential, is the distribution of public money. The other is the willingness of voters to shut their eyes to the trend of the New Deal program and to the logical consequences of its policies and doctrines, which are intended to be and will be the transformation of democratic government into a system of government by an all-powerful state, a burocratic mammoth astride the nation. In spite of recent denials, not supported by action, that is the objective toward which the New Deal is headed and heading us.

The millions of public money that are going to the voters at this stage of the campaign may purchase their temporary favor, but the money must be repaid not merely in material form but in the surrender of liberty to government entrenched as no government in our history has been before and possessing powers of interference in private and local affairs never before existing in our land.

THE AVIATION INQUIRY.

It was testified at the aviation inquiry now being held in Washington that unless relief from the present unbearable conditions was forthcoming the present air schedules could not be maintained through the spring of 1935. By that time the resources of the existing companies would be exhausted and drastic curtailments would follow.

There should be little or no disagreement as to the history behind the proceedings. With government mail contracts our air lines had built up the most extensive, reliable and fastest service in the world. The United States was years ahead of the heavily subsidized European services, yet our lines were not subsidized in the true sense of the word. The government was receiving some revenue through the sale of air mail stamps and was making a monthly audit of the books of the air lines for the purpose of reducing the air mail allowance as fast as increase in revenues from other sources would permit. It was merely a question of time before the air mail services of the better patronized routes would be on a paying basis. Then Postmaster General Farley suddenly announced that there had been collusion in the distribution of routes, and all contracts were canceled. After a disastrous experiment in utilizing the army planes for air mail service the contracts were returned to the commercial air lines, which had been reconstructed under Mr. Farley's direction, but through competitive bidding. Of necessity the established lines engaged in passenger service actually made their bids below cost to protect their interests, and since that time have been rapidly losing money.

Mr. Farley finds virtue in having broken up the industry into smaller companies. We doubt the wisdom. Aviation safety is now compatible with cheeseparing economies. The committee should establish an adequate mail pay allowance to permit United States aviation to continue its meteoric career. Whatever it does, it should bear in mind that public interest demands that present service and continued development shall not be destroyed.

ROBBING THE INSURED.

The acquiescence with which people have accepted the inflation of their currency recalls the story of the French communist who was talking about the equal distribution of all property. Some one said to him, "Why, see here, Gaston, if you divided all the property it would only mean a few hundred francs each." Replied Gaston, "True, but 300 francs combined with the 700 I already have would make a thousand francs, a tidy sum to take care of a man in his old age."

Those who are in debt on property and have welcomed the coming of inflation to restore the pre-boom value may in the end realize that objective, but suffer a far greater loss in the diminution of the value of life insurance which they have made lifelong sacrifices to keep up. Life insurance outstanding in this country amounts to a total of a hundred billion dollars and it is widely distributed. By the legislation rushed through congress by the administration last year the dollar was devaluated. This has already resulted in the destruction of 41 per cent of the value of insurance each policyholder originally took out. There is authority in the President, and he has not said that he would not use it, to reduce the dollar by another 9 per cent. In addition, according to Senator Bulkley of Ohio, a close Democratic adviser of the President, the next congress will be asked to give the President authority to devaluate the dollar further and that means authority to write off additional amounts of insurance.

This progressive devaluation went on in Italy until the insurance that was left outstanding was only 27 per cent of what the insured had been paying for. France similarly extinguished 80 per cent of the outstanding life insurance. And in Russia and in Germany the write-off became 100 per cent. So far only 41 per cent of the real value of insurance policies has been wiped out here. But the administration which took this outrageous action is now asking for approval of what was done and authority to go further. The American people will say by their votes at the November election whether they approve of the appropriation of their insurance funds and of the further appropriation such as was carried on by the French, Italian, and German governments. They are offered as a reward for indorsing such action a possible rise in the value of their property. The people will deny the authority for doing this unless they are as foolish and as blind as Gaston.

A SENSIBLE CONSOLIDATION.

There is common sense in the proposal to disintegrate the Minneapolis and St. Louis railway. Under the plan recently announced, application will be made to the interstate commerce commission for permission to dispose of the property to several different existing systems in place of the present futile operation of this sixteen hundred and seventy miles of poorly located railroad as an individual carrier. One competitor that parallels a section of the Minneapolis and St. Louis will take over that stretch, possibly for use as a second main track. Another road will assume the ownership of a segment, perhaps as a cut-off, and so on until the entire line becomes absorbed by financially stronger systems in this overbuilt field.

One hundred years ago we started the construction of our railway system with small segments all over the country. In many cases they joined unimportant towns which expected to become centers of population because of the railroad. When trafic failed to materialize these small failures became branches of greater systems until the present stage of development was reached. There are still too many routes and too many systems, however, and the absorption of a weak road in the manner suggested is an ideal method of reducing the number of routes and consequent duplication of service that lies near the root of the present railroad troubles.

Some years ago THE TRIBUNE published a plan for railway consolidations. All useless services were to be eliminated through confining the efforts of each carrier to the region it was designed to serve. We still think that the so-called "grand consolidations" are of primary importance in the solution of railway troubles and that they will persist, as in the case of the M. & St. L., despite the frowns of those who believe in the preservation of the present multiple service system masquerading as competition.

Editorial of the Day

NOT SO EASY.

[Cedar Rapids Gazette.]

Now the government plans to set up some rural industrial communities, whatever they may be. Blueprints for about fifty of these experiments have been drawn up at FERA headquarters, according to Relief Administrator Hopkins, and a dozen of them will be built immediately.

Mr. Hopkins did not go into detail in describing the proposed rural-industrial communities. He did indicate, however, that they will be small towns—and some of them not so small, at that. They would accommodate from 150 to 700 families each, he said, and that works out roughly at populations of from 600 to 2,800, on a conservative estimating basis.

Just what the communities will be like remains a matter for speculation. Judging from recent public expressions by Mr. Hopkins and others close to the White House, one might gather that they will include small factories in which needy persons will manufacture things for their own needs, somewhat as Upton Sinclair hopes needy Californians will do under his EPIC plan, in the event that he gets to try it out. One suspects also that in the hours when they are not working in the factories, residents of these rural-industrial communities will be expected to devote themselves to small scale farming operations in order to supply themselves with food.

These are only guesses, of course. If they prove to be good guesses, it is obvious that the personnel of the rural-industrial communities will have to be selected very carefully. The plan is a variation of the back to the land theory and that theory includes the premise that the land will support any one and every one who needs support and can be moved to the country.

That is not an altogether sound premise. The land will support any one who knows what to do with it, but not every one does. The belief that any old down and outer can run a farm if given the opportunity is a type of hokum that receives far too much credence by gullible Washington book experts. Farming in recent years, even on a small scale, has been a discouraging business even for the men who know how. It would be no sinecure for unemployed factory workers.

SOME WELL MEANING but sadly misled person is out with a new book which he calls a "Thesaurus of Slang." But slang is too short lived to be solemnly put into a tome. Where is the slang of yesteryear or even yesterday? New slang comes up over night and after a brief and hectic life gives way to something new. Using old slang is just as bad as not using any. You've got to be up to the minute with your slang or the gay young things will say you're mid-Victorian or a dead one and you'd better scram. A formal, set book on slang seems to be all wrong; what slang needs is some kind of daily bulletin with noon and afternoon extras. And then it would have to struggle to keep abreast of the very latest slang. So what?

SONG FOR EVENING.

Swing in the wind, O heart, and swing in the last bright sun, for day is once more done and night, who smiles with the dark eyes of understanding shadow, will soon come forth to walk upon the earth with soundless footsteps, and with gentle voice
will soon come forth
to chant unto the soul.

Swing in the wind, O heart,
for night is quiet and hearts must be far stiller than the night.
Hearts must be so hushed that night's low-chanted requiem for day can enter there softly to abide until the dawn.
And when dawn comes the heart has been made ready for the seed of truth to grow—a young green branch in the new wind, a tender branch
in the warm new sun.

"THE GAEKWAR OF BARODA Takes in Broadway."—Headline. I fain would write a song in praise Of the Gaekwar of Baroda; But there's not a word to rhyme him with, Excepting whisky-soda. That rhyme would be all right with me, I love a whisky-soda; But it does not tell the greatness of The Gaekwar of Baroda. And so, no poem will I write To the Gaekwar of Baroda; In sheer despair I'll drown my grief; Boy! another whisky-soda.

LIST, SPEED DEMONS, OH LIST! You should read very carefully the story of Lieut. Francesco Agello flying 440 miles an hour. It is quite true, but notice, he was flying in an airplane, not scooting across the country in a runabout. Do not think you can speed up your auto and beat the lieutenant's record. He was not riding in a motor car, even a brand new one. The speed of 440 miles an hour was made in an airplane, not in an automobile. An-air-plane-not-an-auto. And while you are chewing on this also think over the fact that the streamlined train that is smashing all records sometimes travels at the rate of one hundred and sixteen miles an hour. It is extremely improbable that you can beat it to the crossing.

CONTENTMENT STREET.

Here, on fair Contentment Street,
Days are long, and life is sweet.
In each home abides a friend;
No fraternal quarrels rend;
Every heart is open wide;
Comrades all are we who bide
On Contentment Street, nor ever
Can the curse of envy sever.

Spring comes early to our town;
Summer sends her best gifts down;
Bounteous fields of daisy-gold
Bring our vision joy untold;
Larkspur blue and poppy red
Cheer us. With the Summer fled,
What rare gifts the fruit trees pour
From their golden Autumn store!

Why should we, my friend, complain,
While each month affords such gain?
Health and wealth and hope are ours;
Work, and rest in shady bowers.
We have little monied treasure,
But have joy beyond all measure.
Peace and love are bread and meat
Here on dear Contentment Street.

HEADACHE.

ALTHOUGH headache is a common symptom it is not easy to trace the exact cause and it is often difficult to find a satisfactory remedy.

Pain can exist only in the presence of an active nerve supply and the tissues of the scalp are richly supplied with nerves. Within the skull the coverings of the brain (meninges) are exceedingly sensitive and are supplied with tiny twigs of the same nerve that is the seat of trigeminal neuralgia or tic doloreux. The brain itself is not sensitive. This portion of the body under local anesthesia may be explored with the patient unaware of what is going on.

To understand the subject of headache we must consider the eyes, ears, nose, nasal cavities, and teeth. Pain from eyestrain is well known. It arises particularly when the eyes are overworked in the absence of proper correcting glasses or in the presence of excessive fatigue of the eye muscles. This is one of the chief causes of the kind of headache of which the individual is conscious on awaking or which occurs early in the morning. The pain is usually felt over the forehead.

Any increased pressure within the skull due to a rise of pressure in the blood vessels or to a toxin present in the blood may result in a throbbing or bursting head pain. Pressure of this character is rarely continuous. It may come on during the morning, exist for an hour or two, and then disappear for the balance of the day, or even for two or three days. Quite characteristic is the observation that the pain is usually increased by coughing, bending over, sneezing, or severe physical exertion. It is sometimes even more noticeable when the patient lies down.

In attempting to ascertain the cause of headache careful investigation must be made as to possible head injuries, disease of the middle ear, or defective vision. Toxins are a well known cause of headache and are associated with many infections such as chronic sinus disease, influenza, or typhoid fever. Fatigue toxins must also be reckoned with. If due to bacterial infections, headaches usually disappear with the cessation of the acute disease.

Numerous cases of chronic sinus infection have been reported in which the only symptom was the daily occurrence of a splitting headache. Careful observers on the origin of headaches claim that a very high percentage arises from sinus disease, and R. H. Skillern has gone so far as to classify headaches of sinus origin. He notes that diseased frontal sinuses may be attended with headache from approximately 8 a. m. to 1 p. m.; in disease of the maxillary sinuses the pain begins about noon and lasts until evening or later; in the ethmoid sinuses the pain is more or less constant, and in the deep sinuses (post-ethmoid and sphenoid) the pain is paroxysmal, the patient often waking at night with severe head pain.

In disease of the kidneys there may be a deficient excretion of certain waste products of digestion. The accumulation of these substances in the blood may give rise to the symptom of headache.

There are few people who have not been conscious of head pain at some time or other and the occasional or rare headache may be disregarded. The persistent daily or weekly occurrence of pain in the head, particularly if it is severe, should be investigated. A surprisingly large number of headaches may be permanently relieved by the wearing of proper glasses, through the elimination of sinus infections, or by the early detection of some digestive tract absorption of toxins.

WHITE FINGERS.

Mrs. D. A. B. writes: What causes the ends of one or more of my fingers to turn white?

REPLY.

If the fingers blanch periodically it may be a symptom of Raynaud's disease. This is an affliction of the sympathetic nervous system causing constriction of the blood vessels in the skin of the extremities. It first manifests itself periodically, but may become chronic.

BARBITURIC ACID.

A. C. W. writes: Do the following drugs contain a barbituric acid derivative: Stramonium, hyoscine, sodium amytal?

REPLY.

The first two do not; the third does.

ITCHING AFTER BATH.

E. F. writes: What causes itchy blotches to break out all over my body after I take a bath? This also happens when I go swimming.

REPLY.

This is a symptom of urticaria or hives. It may be due to some substance in the water, such as a disinfectant. Soap may be at fault. Sometimes too vigorous rubbing with the bath towel is responsible. If there is no irritating substance in the water or soap do not rub the body dry, but use the towel as a blotter.

Since there are about 40,000 known varieties of mushrooms, some poisonous and some nonpoisonous, it is obviously impossible for the amateur to distinguish them. Some of the most poisonous ones closely resemble harmless ones, so that even expert botanists are fooled at times. One of the most deadly mushrooms, the Amanita phalloides, so successfully imitates the nonpoisonous varieties that many experienced mushroom hunters are deceived. The safest place to procure mushrooms is from a reliable mushroom farm where only known varieties are cultivated.

FOR A PERMANENT FAIR.

Forrest, Ill., Oct. 20.—Your editorial today regarding the making of some sort of a permanent exposition of A Century of Progress was timely. While strolling on the grounds of A Century of Progress this week the thought came to me that it was a shame to wreck so much splendor and so many wonderful projects which would furnish a wealth of knowledge and entertainment to any one attending the Fair, and I think that a permanent summer exposition—to run, say, ninety days during each summer—would be a fine attraction for Chicago.

ROBERT HUGHEY.

SOUTH OF LOYOLA.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—I should like to ask E. R., who complains that passengers from south of Loyola unfairly crowd the Loyola express trains, if it is not justifiable for those of us who live between Lawrence and Loyola to resent the fact that many people who crowd the Chicago avenue to Lawrence trains and then ride past Loyola? Why don't they wait for the Loyola express, if that train is "for the accommodation of those who live in the vicinity of that station and farther north"? I wonder if E. R. knows that [as far as I have been able to ascertain and if I am mistaken I stand corrected] there is but one Chicago to Lawrence train which runs around the loop between the hours of 5 and 6 in the evening, and that is shortly after 5. If one working on the south or west side of the loop misses that train he must either walk over to some Wabash avenue station, which may be very inconvenient, or take a train around the loop and change at the crowded Adams street station, or take a Loyola express and ride to Loyola and then return to his own station.

NAIVE ASSUMPTION.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—I thought the recent yacht races were between a Mr. Vanderbilt of New York and a Mr. Sopwith of London. I hadn't realized that the outcome was to determine the congenital superiority of the English race if Mr. Sopwith won, or the inherent chicanery of the denizens of the United States if Mr. Vanderbilt won.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SINCLAIR.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—THE TRIBUNE has recently featured a series of articles written by Arthur Sears Henning on the political situation in California. Mr. Henning's remarks have been accompanied and fortified by some bitter editorials of the same general import.

Such a twofold outburst directed against Upton Sinclair has been a bit overdone and is likely to have just the opposite effect from that desired by those directing the firing. When THE TRIBUNE sends one of its star writers 2,000 miles to produce such a flagrantly biased picture there comes a suspicion of more than just a desire to supply its readers with the news of the day. One suspects that THE TRIBUNE fears another leader of Mr. Sinclair's philosophy would stand a good chance of success in Illinois. Verily there is trembling within the temples of the mighty.

EDWIN J. KUESTER.

PROFANITY.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Sunday's TRIBUNE carried an article headed "Broadcasters Want Rule on Damns Eased," and I am urged to ask why the need to resort to profanity [which is altogether too prevalent]? A decent broadcaster should be the most insistent on keeping the air clean for young ears.

After all, profanity is an indication of ignorance. Give all broadcasters an education in the use of good English and they will realize that the use of profanity is inessential.

If a hog must be filthy, let him stay in his sty and not pollute the air for our children.

EDWARD SCHREINER.

PANACEA.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Let 10,000,000 employed men whose savings are sufficient to support them for a year be removed from employment for that period of time and the 10,000,000 unemployed be put in their places. At the end of another year the first 10,000,000 could be relieved by another group, etc., until better times no longer make it necessary for involuntary vacations.

These men, possessing their own means of support, would be no burden on the government, so the federal relief could be discontinued, thus contributing greatly to the balancing of the much discussed budget.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—A way to create employment for Chicago citizens:

The city council to pass an ordinance to prohibit out of town trucks from making final deliveries at Chicago.

Compel out of town trucking companies to secure a warehouse or an unloading platform at Chicago, make all deliveries to this warehouse or platform, have Chicago owned trucks which pay city vehicle license, manned by Chicago citizens, haul freight from this warehouse or platform to its final destination at Chicago.

THE LAST LAUGH.

Chicago, Oct. 20—"Republicans Cheered by Recent Straw Vote" was the heading on one of the recent articles in the daily press. Let them laugh and laugh a lot before election day, for the day following it will be the Democrats' time to laugh. Just as sure as Maine showed a trend towards the leadership of the honest to goodness man of the people, Franklin D. Roosevelt, so will the rest of the country on the coming election day.

ORAL COMMENTS TO JURIES UPSET BY HIGH COURT

Long List of Decisions Is Handed Down.

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday handed down a number of opinions affecting Cook county cases. One of the most important opinions ruled against an attempt by Criminal court judges to follow the federal court practice of allowing judges to comment orally to juries on the law and the evidence.

In this case the higher court reversed the conviction of William Callopy and Charles Kelly, who were found guilty of robbery. The two men, who appealed from the court of Judge Joseph B. David, were ordered retried. In commenting on Judge David's decision the Supreme court held that under the rule of court prescribed by it judges of the lower court can instruct a jury only in writing.

Criticizes Wolfe Judge.

In another opinion the high court granted a new trial to Charles J. Wolfe, president of the Citizens State Bank of Melrose Park. He was convicted of embezzling $38,345 from the bank and the Veterans' park district, of which he was treasurer. The court held that the Criminal court judge who heard the case was in error in not demanding that the state center its prosecution on one or the other of the two felonies for which Wolfe was indicted.

The conviction of James Catuara and William Palermo, alleged henchmen of James [King of the Bombers] Belcastro, on charges of possessing and transporting a dynamite bomb, was affirmed. They were sentenced by Judge Charles P. Molthrop on Nov. 17, 1933, to serve 5 to 25 years in prison.

Another conviction affirmed was that of John L. Minzer, 30 years old, who was sentenced to serve 20 years in prison for slaying his sweetheart, Amelia Sally Emmonse, in the Harper End hotel, Feb. 22, 1933.

Robbery Conviction Upset.

Two alleged robbers, however, had their convictions set aside and new trials granted. They are James Le Mar and Robert Logan Salvatore, the former on questions of proper identity in instructions to the jury and the latter on technical grounds.

State's Attorney Courtney won a victory when the Supreme court ordered Circuit Judge Clyde H. Thompson of Livingston county to expunge from the records an order of last January freeing "Dr." Spencer Brown from the Joliet penitentiary. Brown who posed as a chemist, was sentenced to serve 1 to 20 years as the alleged "brains" of the $1,000,000 robbery of the Werner Brothers safety deposit boxes in 1923. Judge Thompson freed him on a habeas corpus action holding the state forfeited its right to incarcerate him after turning him over to federal authorities who sent him to prison for 70 months for altering stolen war savings stamps.

Upholds Auto Searches.

Another decision of importance to law enforcers was the ruling which held that a fictitious license plate is enough ground for the search of an automobile under police suspicion. The opinion upheld the conviction of Margaret Marvin, who was sentenced to serve a term of one to ten years for receiving stolen goods. A search of her automobile, after the license number attracted police suspicions, revealed a quantity of merchandise stolen from a loop store.

The constitutionality of a statute of 1925 which permits peaceful picketing by striking employés was affirmed by the Supreme court in reversing and remanding an injunction obtained in the Superior court by Fenske Brothers, Inc., against local 18 of the Upholsterers' International union.

The appeal of James H. McQueeny, head of a private detective agency, in a suit seeking to collect $11,373 from former Senator Charles S. Deneen on the ground that the agency furnished personal and poll guards during the political campaign of 1928 was denied.

The Municipal court held previously that McQueeny failed to establish that Mr. Deneen was head of the political organization which engaged him.

A rehearing of the validity of the Kerner-Skarda act under which millions of delinquent taxes have been collected was denied. At the June term the court held jurisdiction of the act fell properly in the Circuit, not the County, court.

Ex-Prosecutor Surrenders in Stolen Bond Inquiry

Attorney Ralph J. Sharp, a former assistant state's attorney, surrendered yesterday at the United States courthouse on charges of possession and conspiracy to possess $3,000 worth of bonds stolen from the mails at Neenah, Wis., Aug. 14.

HIGH COURT UPHOLDS COURTNEY IN BATTLE ON TAX COLLECTIONS

The Illinois Supreme court in a ruling yesterday upheld State's Attorney Courtney in his controversy with the Cook county board over the employment of outside attorneys to collect delinquent taxes.

The court's opinion ordered the continuance to trial of the suits brought by the state's attorney to have declared invalid contracts entered into by the county board with three lawyers and reversed demurrers to the suits which had previously been upheld by Circuit Judge Hugo Friend. The Supreme court held that the contracts which the county board made with the lawyers would make Courtney "powerless to protect his office, a holding not within the contemplation of the law."

The contracts were held by Attorney Lee R. LaRochelle for the collection of delinquent personal property taxes and by Attorneys Henry M. Ashton and Edward N. Winston, for the collection of delinquent real estate taxes. The attorneys have received approximately $130,000 in fees with about $240,000 still due them, according to their claims. The work of collecting delinquent taxes is now being done by the state's attorney's office.

ALCORN ON STAND AT MRS. SANKEY'S 2D KIDNAP TRIAL

Says She Suggested Boettcher Ransom.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—[Special.]—Gordon Alcorn, the government's principal convict witness in the second kidnap conspiracy trial of Mrs. Fern Mae Sankey, testified in federal court today that the defendant knew of plans to kidnap Charles Boettcher II., wealthy Denver broker; had discussed prospective victims, and had suggested the amount of ransom to demand for Boettcher's safe return.

Husband Was Slain.

Mrs. Sankey, the government charges, conspired in the kidnaping which eventually brought death to her husband, life sentence to Alcorn, and might result in a life sentence for her if she is convicted. She listened intently to Alcorn's testimony, but refrained from looking at the witness, keeping her eyes downcast and occasionally biting her lips.

Alcorn testified Mrs. Sankey discussed the prospective kidnap victims included in a list of thirty, looked up names in a telephone book and a directory, and rode about Denver with himself and Sankey surveying homes of possible abduction victims. She talked, Alcorn said, of kidnaping Boettcher's small daughter instead of the father.

"She said," Alcorn declared, "that a child would be easier to handle; that I was handy around children and wouldn't have any trouble taking care of her."

Agreed to Drive Car.

He said Mrs. Sankey had agreed to drive the car when Boettcher was abducted during the first discussion of the plans. This plan, he said, called for Mrs. Sankey to follow Alcorn and Sankey after they had managed to get into Boettcher's machine and follow them to the outskirts of the city, where the transfer would be made to her car and she would return home. His later testimony indicated Sankey had not participated in the actual abduction.

The night of the kidnaping, Feb. 12, 1933, he testified, Sankey told his wife, "We are going to see if we can get Boettcher tonight," and asked her what she had done with the rest of the Bohn money. This referred to the Haskell Bohn kidnaping in St. Paul the previous summer.

"Mrs. Sankey," the witness continued, "said she had sewed the Bohn money in a pillow of her daughter's bed. She said later that if anything happened when we were getting the ransom money she would bring out the car."

OHIOAN DEFIES THREAT OF DEATH, HOLDS RICHETTI

Sends Him to Jail Disapproved by U. S.

Wellsville, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Threat of death for Chief of Police John H. Fultz, said to be from friends of the late Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd and his lieutenant, Adam Richetti, was received today.

Fultz got a note that read: "You got Floyd and Richetti, but we will get the one that got them." It was signed "The Gang."

Chief Fultz commented: "If the gang is as yellow as Floyd and Richetti, I wouldn't be afraid of a carload of them."

Richetti, however, was moved today from the Wellsville town jail to the county jail at nearby Lisbon, a prison considered insecure by the government agents.

The Floyd gangster had been held here ever since he was captured by Fultz last Saturday after a gun fight in which the chief was slightly wounded in an ankle. Despite the efforts of federal agents and Missouri authorities to take him back to Kansas City for trial as one of the trigger men in the Union station massacre of five men, Chief Fultz has refused to to give up Richetti.

Peeved at Purvis' Agents.

The chief revealed today that he is angry because Melvin Purvis, head of the Chicago bureau of the U. S. division of investigation, whose men killed both Floyd and John Dillinger, got information from him, then went out and killed Floyd without help from the Wellsville police.

Chief Fultz is having his inning now. Pleading guilty to a charge of carrying concealed weapons and not guilty to the charge of shooting Chief Fultz with intent to kill. Richetti was held to the grand jury yesterday under $50,000 bond.

Elaborate precautions were taken when Richetti was moved to the Lisbon jail. He was handcuffed to two officers while 30 other men armed with rifles and pistols guarded the prisoner en route. The parade was composed of six well filled automobiles.

Many persons did not share the chief's apparent feeling of security in placing the desperado in the Lisbon jail, for it is on the department of justice's blacklist of insecure prisons.

Jail Listed as Unfit.

Government records at Washington disclosed that federal authorities inspected the Lisbon jail two years ago and listed it as unfit for the confinement of federal prisoners. Since that time no federal prisoners have been kept there.

The federal inspection was ordered after four escapes had been made from the county jail within a period of two years, officials said. The report said the prison was lacking modern safeguards against jail breaking.

Jury Fails to Reach Verdict; New Trial for Union Leader

A jury in the Municipal court of Judge Frank M. Padden was unable to reach a verdict yesterday in the trial of Max Caldwell, 5515 Everett avenue, charged with intimidation. Informed that the jurors were in hopeless disagreement, Judge Padden discharged them and set a new trial for Nov. 20. Caldwell is business agent for the Chicago Waiters' alliance. The complainant was Herman Dommers, 1308 Farwell avenue, a former member of the alliance, who declared efforts were made to terrorize him when he refused to join in a strike of waiters at the World's Fair in May, 1933.

HUNT SEVEN SALOON ROBBERS.

Seven shotgun bandits were sought by police yesterday after they had taken $415 in currency and approximately $400 worth of jewelry, clothing, and merchandise from three taverns, the Lilac grill, Wolf and Cermak roads, Hillside; Paul Smith's Palm gardens, 4177 Archer avenue, and the Wizer tavern, 4889 Archer avenue.

U. S. AND BRITAIN FIGHT OIL COUP BY JAPAN IN ASIA

Charge the Open Door Principle Violated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—The open door policy has become a live issue in Manchukuo, it became known today, with the United States and Great Britain joining to fight a Japanese oil coup.

The coup consists of a monopoly project under which the Manchuria Oil company would eliminate foreign oil interests by itself purchasing and distributing whatever oil the Manchukuo market requires in addition to the output of the Dairen and Fushun refineries. This would mean a virtual end, of course, to all foreign distributors and retailers.

Claim Open Door Shut.

American and British interests affected, such as the Standard Oil company of New York and the British Asiatic Petroleum company, protest that the plan violates the principle of the open door as laid down in the nine-power treaty of 1922 and in promises publicly made by high officials of the Japanese and Manchukuoan governments.

The Japanese government would be a party to the alleged violation, it is pointed out, since the South Manchuria railways owns 40 per cent of the Manchuria Oil company stock and the Tokio government owns half the railroad's stock.

The monopoly project, it is charged, is part of the ambitious scheme of the Japanese navy to control the economic development of Manchukuo so as to exploit that country to the full for the national defense. Dominance of the oil supply, it is pointed out, is an important item in the program.

Embassies at Bat.

The American and British embassies have been exerting a gentle pressure on the Japanese foreign office for some time to obtain abandonment of the project, it is learned. No diplomatic representation has been made, but the protesting governments have shown a decided disposition to make a test case of the matter.

Controversy is also developing in Japan proper as a result of the campaign by the government to control the oil business there. Anglo-American companies contend the sales quotas allotted them under the new oil control law are unsatisfactory. They object to the provision requiring them to store in Japan oil supplies equal to 50 per cent of one year's sales.

The aim of this provision, observers agree, is to insure large stocks to the government in the event of war.

RETURN MURDER INDICTMENT IN DAICHES DEATH

CRIMINAL COURT.

John Susanee and John Countonmanos, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Louis Morro, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

William Grenko and John Mills, automobile larceny, robbery and conspiracy, sentenced to terms of 1 year to life each and 1 year to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan.

Irving Weitzman, south side baker, and two others were charged with the murder of Eli Daiches, advertising executive, in an indictment returned yesterday before Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

Walter Murphy and Jack London, the others named in the indictment, are alleged to have been hired by Weitzman to kill Daiches, who was shot to death at 53d street and the Outer drive last March.

At the same time Lieut. Thomas Kelly announced that he had opened an investigation into a $50,000 fire in 1928 in the Chicago Fried Cake company, in 63d street near State street. Weitzman owned the company at the time of the fire, investigators said.

DIES ON WAY TO WORK.

Roy Wells, 43 years old, Matteson, section foreman for the Illinois Central railroad, died of a heart attack near his home yesterday while on his way to work.

EIGHT INDICTED FOR KANSAS CITY STATION MASSACRE PLOT

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Louis Stacci of Melrose Park, Ill., accused of having ordered the attempt to rescue Frank Nash, a gangster, which ended in five slayings at the Union station here June 17, 1933, was indicted with seven other persons tonight on charges of conspiracy.

The plot is said to have been carried out by two gangsters since slain, Verne C. Miller and Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd, and a third man, Adam Richetti, now under arrest.

The others indicted today were:

Mrs. Frances Nash, widow of the gangster whose escape was planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tallman Galatas, Hot Springs, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen Farmer, Joplin, Mo.

Frank B. [Fritz] Mulloy, Kansas City.

Vivian Mathias, Miller's reputed wife.

The indictments came at the close of a day of testimony by witnesses who included Jimmie La Capra, small time gangster turned government informant.

HOPES TO CHANGE RELIEF BASIS OF 16% STATE CASES

That Ratio Is Called Unemployable.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Shifting of that 16 per cent of the state's million relief "clients," who are unemployable, from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission rolls to those of county bureaus of public welfare was urged tonight by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission, in an address before the 39th general session of the Illinois conference on social work.

The group of persons unable to work even if opportunity offered, consumes about $1,246,000 of the state's $11,000,000 relief burden, which is partially borne by the federal government.

To Redistribute Burden.

"I am convinced the practical shift of this phase of responsibility from the I. E. R. C. is not only desirable, but practical and essential to sound planning for the future," Mr. Reynolds declared. "Such a plan will leave the machinery of the commission, established only for a temporary purpose, free to adapt its program in accord with changes in the national emergency and with the forces dealing with it."

As to the 84 per cent of "clients" who are able to work, Mr. Reynolds asserted that "it seems safe to anticipate that it will be several years before the expense for providing this part of the relief load alone can be withdrawn." Numbering 232,156 families in July, this group will probably show great seasonal increases before opportunity for self-support arrives, he predicted.

Not Natural Condition.

"Unemployment is not to be accepted as a natural phenomenon of American economy," he declared, then adding the warning: "nor is its solution to be found by the operation of a continuing welfare system."

GERMANY BURIES VON KLUCK WITH NATIONAL RITES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—Gen. Alexander von Kluck, 88 year old field marshal whose army nearly captured Paris early in the world war, was buried after a state funeral here today.

Court Chaplain Doehring officiated. The church was crowded with generals of the old imperial army and members of the reichstag. Gen. Werner von Fritsch, chief of staf of the German army, represented Chancellor Hitler. Field Marshal August von Mackensen, slim and upright despite his 85 years, represented the former kaiser.

Final homage was paid to the old soldier by the reichswehr in a parade past the coffin as it was lowered into the tomb to the tune of "I had a comrade, you will find none better."

Mrs. Novak of Berwyn Dies; Widow of Alderman

Burial will be in the Bohemian National cemetery. Mrs. Novak was the widow of Anton Novak, former alderman of the old 10th ward and until his death in 1926 a trustee of the sanitary district. She had lived in Chicago 62 years, coming here from Bohemia when she was 13 years old. She is survived by five sons and two daughters.

O'Connell, 1333 Pratt boulevard, to St. Ignatius church. Burial will be in Calvary. Mrs. Lavin, who was 65 years old, was a sister of the late Andrew Graham, west side banker. She is survived by one son, Edward E., and four daughters. The daughters, in addition to Mrs. O'Connell, are Mrs. Thomas D. Casey, Mrs. John J. King, and Mrs. Thomas J. Griffin.

$612,500 CLAIM ON EDITH M'CORMICK ESTATE ALLOWED

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday allowed a claim of $612,500 plus $89,063 interest against the estate of Edith Rockefeller McCormick. The claim had been filed in behalf of the John Rockefeller McCormick Memorial Institute for Infectious Diseases which had been founded in 1902 by Mrs. McCormick and her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, in memory of their son, John, who died of scarlet fever.

The matter has been in litigation for many months and was based on a written agreement made by Mrs. McCormick in 1917 in which she promised to endow the institute with $612,500. The endowment fund, however, was not to be paid to the institute until 1947 and until that time Mrs. Cormick agreed to pay to the institute interest on that amount at the rate of 4 per cent a year. A similar agreement was entered into by Harold F. McCormick.

The institute, which is at 637 South Wood street, is credited with the discovery of the cause of scarlet fever and the formulation of methods for its prevention and cure.

The law firm of Cutting, Moore & Sidley, counsel for the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor of the estate, was undecided yesterday whether an appeal would be taken from Judge O'Connell's ruling.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Johann Strauss III., a nephew of the "waltz king," is coming from Vienna to Chicago to direct an orchestra of 36 pieces at the French Casino early in December when the Follies Bergere now appearing there moves to New York. Strauss, who is past 60, will be making his first appearance in Chicago.

As conductor of a 36 piece orchestra to be assembled here he will present Viennese music in the Strauss tradition. His grandfather also specialized in music of three quarter time and his son, the present Strauss' uncle, wrote The Beautiful Blue Danube, probably the best known of all waltzes.

J. C. Stein, president of the Music Corporation of America, is now in Europe arranging details for the new production at the Casino. Strauss will be heard on the air. Already there are a half dozen nibbles from prospective sponsors. And it is also the plan to air some of the music on a sustaining basis. NBC has lines into the spot at present.

When Strauss arrives two "waltz kings" will be playing on the same street. Wayne King, widely known as America's leader in the waltz field, holds forth at the Aragon on Lawrence avenue a few blocks east of the Casino.

Frank Parker is leaving the Revelers' quartet because of the press of solo work. Robert Simmons, who took Frank's place for a while last summer, will become the top tenor with the quartet. . . . The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, the crusading Detroiter, will begin his winter broadcast series Sunday at 3 o'clock with WJJD and KYW as outlets locally. . . . Peaches Browning has been engaged by the American Broadcast system to be mistress of ceremonies on its "Radio Scandals," starting at 9:30 p. m. on Saturday. . . . Earl Burtnett, W-G-N maestro, will make an appearance at the Tower theater on Sunday.

Wilfred Pelletier, Metropolitan Opera orchestra conductor, will journey here over the week-end to direct the orchestra which will accompany Lawrence Tibbett Tuesday evening on his NBC radio show. John B. Kennedy, commentator for the same show, will also be here for the Tibbett program. He will arrive Saturday to present the NBC Greater Minstrel show as guests on the Radio City party that evening.

Guide Children with Reason—Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

TWO weary pilgrims, father and son, stood limply near the Lama temple at A Century of Progress, watching a dusty cat wash its face.

Vignettes—Easy—Expectation.

They watched its neat ablutions, completely absorbed, then suddenly the man gave a start, seized the boy by the hand, and said:

"We came a thousand miles to see the Fair, Junior, so what are we doing here looking at a cat?"

PROBABLY the boy's memory of the Lama temple will not be of the temple at all, with its vermilion walls and gilded rooftree, but of a dusty, homeless cat, making its toilet in accordance with the best feline traditions of neatness. Our own memory of a motor trip through the olive groves of Spain, on the road that winds from Granada to Seville, focuses sharply on a sight that had nothing to do with the gray green of the olive trees, the white walled towns, the road unwinding like a typewriter ribbon between the hills. They are only a dim background to a group of men walking across the fields and a boy carrying, slung over his shoulder, their feet tied together, and heads upside down, a pair of newborn kids. They had been born that day in the field, no doubt, and their piteous cries, occasioned by the manner of their conveyance, came to us across the countryside. Traveling in Spain is not all joy to an animal lover.

THE other day a Chicago mother, wishing to have her own opinion of her daughter's precociousness confirmed, asked the child what subject was easiest for her at school.

"Recess," the child replied promptly.

HOW spoiled folks are nowadays department. A woman visitor to A Century of Progress looked through the magnifying glass for a long time at the 24,000 screws contained in a thimble in the Waltham watch exhibit, in the Ford building. Then she sighed and said to the attendant:

"What are they supposed to do—move?"

Y. W. to Vote on Change in Dogma Tonight

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Dogma on which the Young Woman's Christian association was founded more than a half century ago may be translated into simpler, less theological terms this evening when the Chicago association holds its annual supper meeting at the McCormick Y. W. C. A., Oak and Dearborn streets.

Following action of the national convention, the Chicago group will be asked to vote on a rewording of the purpose of the Y. W. C. A., which liberalizes the religious statement of belief to which each applicant is asked to subscribe. If accepted it will open the way to a freer membership.

"To associate young women in personal loyalty to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord; to lead them into membership and service in the Christian church; to promote growth in Christian character and service through physical, social, mental, and spiritual training, and to become a social force for the extension of the kingdom of God," reads the purpose as it was written in the Victorian era.

The revision is as follows: "To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians. In this endeavor we seek to understand Jesus, to share his love for all people, and to grow in the knowledge and love of God."

A second recommendation that will come before the meeting calls for abolition of the dollar membership fee.

The resolution was presented by a subcommittee named to study the possibilities. State university extension divisions and boards of education are asked to coöperate in the movement.

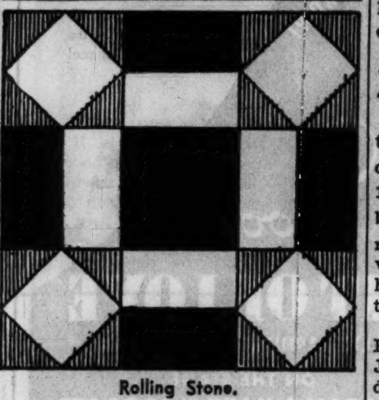
Modernism Kills Superstition from Colonial Quilt



Rolling Stone.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Rolling Stone" quilt block has an interesting history for such an early colonial pattern. Like the famous "Wandering Foot" pattern, it never was used on a boy's bed for fear he would react unfavorably to the influence suggested by a rolling stone. Modernism has killed that superstition, and it is one of the most appropriate patterns for boys and men's rooms, especially when made in an entirely pieced coverlet with narrow bands of insertion between each block.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Milwaukee Girl Gets a Difficult Role in Opera "Norma" Here

A previously unannounced dramatic soprano, Della Benni, will appear with the Chicago Grand Opera company in a previously unannounced opera, "Norma," at the Civic Opera house on Wednesday, Dec. 5. The occasion will be Chicago's contribution to the world-wide centennial tribute to the opera's composer, Vincenzo Bellini, who died in 1835.

Miss Benni is a Milwaukee girl and is known in her home town as Della Benning. Paul Longone, artistic director, said that she came to his attention four years ago when he was managing the Dal Verme opera in Milan. At that time she was a beginner. Since then, according to Mr. Longone, she has become known as an artist who by sheer determination has risen to the place where she can successfully handle rôles of the same difficult type that have made a star out of Rosa Ponselle. The name of "Norma" is one of the greatly difficult ones of the entire répertoire.

Miss Benni is under contract to two European companies, but has received permission from her managers in Italy to stay in Chicago until Dec. 15. She will probably also sing the part of Donna Anna in Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Plan Benefit of Reinhardt Premiere Here

Passavant Board Sponsors Shakespeare Opening.

BY JUDITH CASS.

NO sooner is one big benefit a matter of history than plans for another one are made public. Tuesday the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital staged its highly successful fashion show, an annual affair, and yesterday morning the woman's board of the Passavant Memorial hospital met and decided to take over the first night of Max Reinhardt's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

That it will be a successful benefit is practically assured for the Reinhardt staging of Shakespeare's fantasy both abroad and in California has elicited such enthusiastic praise from every one who has witnessed it that every one here who has heard of it—and who has not?—is anxiously awaiting its production at the Auditorium.

Reinhardt's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" has been an annual feature of the drama festivals in Salzburg for some time, and it has been acted for 1,000 consecutive nights in Europe. Chicago will be the first place in this country outside California to witness the production.

Reinhardt Will Attend Premiere.

The Chicago engagement will be for two weeks but Reinhardt will be here only until after the première on Nov. 15. He is coming about five days before it, however, to take charge of rehearsals. The women of the Passavant board feel sure that they will have little trouble in disposing of all the boxes and seats in the theater.

The Passavant board, of which Mrs. Francis Johnson is president and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman honorary president, is canny in its choice of benefits for last year it took over the opening performance of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe which proved to be one of the most popular entertainments ever brought to Chicago, and which played a return engagement later in the season.

Years ago, in 1919, under the leadership of Mrs. Coleman the building fund of the hospital benefited by one of the most spectacular and remunerative affairs of the sort ever given in Chicago, a reproduction of the Atlantic City boardwalk in the old Coliseum.

Next Monday at 1 o'clock at the Casino the board will meet again and committees for the benefit will be announced.

Mary Macdonald on Debutante List.

Another name for the long debutante list! Miss Mary Macdonald is the latest addition to the 1934-'35 list, the longest ever in the history of Chicago society. She is to be introduced formally at a dinner dance on Friday night, Nov. 30, at the Indian Hill club at which her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Macdonald, and her brother, Robert Macdonald, will be the hosts and hostess.

The debutante daughter of the Macdonald family, which is occupying Victor Elting's house in Winnetka, is certain to be a very much fêted bud for, although her family moved here only recently, she has many relatives here, including her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Stuart, and her uncles, Douglas and John Stuart. Miss Patsy Keith's engagement to Bob Macdonald was announced several days ago.

Miss Eleanor McNally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McNally, has invited about 40 young people to drop in for cocktails at the McNally home in Evanston Saturday afternoon after the football game. She is giving the party for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman Jr. [Helen Marie Castle], who were married last month. Miss Lydia Swift, who was a bridesmaid for Mrs. Freeman, also is planning a party for Mr. Freeman and his bride. It will be a dinner; one of the many that are being planned for this popular couple for whom all the entertaining could not be done before their marriage.

Noted Portraits Provide Motif in Lace Collars

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We remember when a white collar and cuff set was a mere matter of a skimpy piece of white stuff that demanded a tub and suds every evening; white accents that did sort of an additional tailored contrast to an already tailored dress. Nowadays the story is vastly different, for the lovely fragile, very feminine doo-dads for dresses have arrived and all the shoppers are in a dither.

The old guard wax tenderly sentimental over the first sight of the undeniably flattering things and the younger crowd are positively goggle-eyed over the displays.

These sets are going fast, so you had better dash downtown and buy one before you're stranded waiting for the next shipment. They are nothing more or less than real lace with awed emphasis on the real. Grand looking Point de Venise and exquisite Alencon fashion the best of them, with Irish crochet coming along in second place.

The Point de Venise honeys have been copied from famous portraits by old masters who surely did know how to achieve romance with a bit of old lace at the throat, and in those days the gay young and old blades, as well as the decorative ladies, spent a pretty penny for laces, if we can believe the evidence in painted portraits.

You can find copies of the fascinating lace collars painted by Van Dyke, equally lovely collars à la Marie de Medici, and some others after Rembrandt all of genuine lace. Any of them will make a dress into a creation. Used on black velvet, they are the loveliest things imaginable. There's a belted long front vestee effect; another romantic beauty with an upstanding collar fastened to a larger circular collar that reaches the shoulders, and any number of exciting new deep collars made of Point de Venise and Alencon. See these soon!

Aid Settlement

Miss Muriel Picher, debutante daughter of Mrs. Oliver S. Picher of Glencoe, is to be one of the models in a fashion show next Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium of the Christ church parish house in Winnetka by the Winnetka board of Northwestern University settlement.

The affair will be one of the outstanding ones of the season on the north shore and numerous luncheon parties will precede it. Miss Picher is to be the maid of honor in the bridal party that will be a feature of the show and Miss Barbara Bastien, who will be a real bride within a few months, for she is engaged to Frank Armstrong, is to be the bride in the show. Her other style show attendants will be Miss Gertrude Onderdonk, Miss Eleanor Janney, Miss Deborah Butler, and Miss Virginia Lamson.

Another feature of the show will be a display of nightgowns and negligees. Mrs. John P. Hooker is president of the Winnetka board, and among those working with her for the success of the benefit are Mrs. Donald Defrees, Mrs. Harold Wilder, Mrs. Robert Butz, Mrs. Chester Sargent, Mrs. William W. Darrow, Mrs. Rollin H. Wood, Mrs. Ralph Sargent, and Mrs. Richard Y. Hoffman.

Reporter Tells in Stein Style the Stein Style

Author Lands in New York with Toklas.

Gertrude Stein, whose book, "The Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas," has stirred readers here and abroad, arrived in New York yesterday. She is expected to be in Chicago later. The following unusual interview, an imitation in style of Miss Stein's unusual book, was obtained by a New York Sun reporter:

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Gertrude Stein and Alice B. Toklas both together and not like together in boats traveling alike but different, O how different, got to America, back to America today.

Together but not together, far apart though together in the writing room of the French liner Champlain. Reporters and female reporters puzzled, curious, seeking sense and nonsense, came to welcome them in the writing room while other passengers lolled around cocking curious ears and giggling. No intellectuals not any intellectuals understanding Miss Stein's works. Just reporters, seeking and finding Miss Stein very understandable.

Direct word using in Websterian meaning, no symbolism and sound scrambling:

"Miss Stein, why do you write like that?"

Lucid, strong voiced, and mellow toned, no nonsense, no mystery, perhaps who knows or cares:

"Because my writing is nearer human speech than ordinary writing. I write just as I talk. It's all the way you hear it."

Eager scuffling of pages, pages of books by Gertrude Stein. Reading aloud of word sounds:

"When I was a young one I was needing some one to teach me something I was needing just then. I was then at the ending of my beginning being in living. Some one then began teaching me that thing I was needing just then that one was then teaching me that thing I was needing just then."

"Is that the way you talk, Miss Stein?"

"It is all in learning how to read it. Every one has prejudices. It is a matter of being used to seeing different things with the eyes than one hears with the ears. You see words and you hear them. The trouble is to know the difference between seeing them and hearing them. The business of serious writing is to find out that balance is your own inside. People get sot [sic] in their ways. Think of how you talk when you are not writing. You reporters don't talk as you write. As for the repetition in my writing, you repeat a great deal, but in repeating change the words just enough."

That is that and ship news reporters are versatile. Much talk of Roosevelt. Roosevelt. Roosevelt. Which Roosevelt? Reporters think of Franklin Roosevelt. Miss Stein remembers Teddy Roosevelt.

"But, Miss Stein, he is dead."

"Dead? How do you know he is dead? Perhaps he is as alive as you are?"

"Do you know Coolidge is dead?"

"Coolidge. Coolidge. Maybe he died while I was on the boat."

[illegible] short, very sturdy, strong faced, merry eyed. Thick body wrapped in a man's style topcoat of homespun, big men's shoes beneath straight, short skirt.

Miss Toklas, tiny, thin faced, mouselike, in black fur coat. Sitting quietly in a corner, far from Miss Stein and the encompassing reporters. Watching, listening.

Miss Stein, born in Alleghany, Pa., sixty years ago. Miss Toklas, her constant companion, born in California fewer years ago. Miss Stein coming to her native land for the first time in thirty-one years. To lecture—but hah! no commercialism. Only before limited audiences in schools and colleges.

"There is not enough money in the world to persuade me to stand up before a horde of curious people who are interested in my personality rather than my work. Thrilled to be back in the United States? Don't ask a silly question.

"Only the last of my books, 'The Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas,' made any money. I have a small but steady income."

Attention turned to the silent Miss Toklas.

"She types my manuscripts. Scolds me when I am indiscreet."

More attention to Miss Toklas.

"I have no gifts. I believe in the home life. I have no thoughts," says Miss Toklas. "Why did Gertrude Stein choose to write the story of her own life under the title 'Autobiography of Alice B. Toklas'? Perhaps because it is possible to say in the autobiography, 'I have known only three first class geniuses—Gertrude Stein, Pablo Picasso and Alfred North Whitehead.'

"People do not always understand, but that has not stopped Gertrude Stein from widely influencing a whole generation of writers.

"Didn't a psychiatrist say her style compared with the efforts of persons in institutions for the mentally ill?"

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Of course you know about one of our pets, the Parisian infusion, which we told you about last July. That infusion, if you'll remember, was neither cologne nor straight perfume, but a beguiling blend of both and, according to our mind, an ideal summer cosmetic.

The fragrance was what was so much of a knockout. Like its name, it was inclined to be sophisticated—but the woman of moderate costume budget and moderate flair could take it and like it. And, if we know anything about scents, a perfume should be not what a woman is but what she wants to be. That scent is what we'd all like to be; we might as well all own up and admit it.

This same scent is available in a straight perfume. Available, for that matter, in two forms. If you want to be fancy you may be the owner of a handsome flacon in jade green, stunningly packaged, that is a joy to sport on your dressing table or to hold in your lily white hand. This container is swell and, if we could afford it—though it isn't so terribly expensive—we'd have it.

But demand has produced one less expensive. It's a miniature of the crackled glass bottle in which your infusion came, and, while it contains practically as much perfume, it isn't as high priced as the jade green number.

And, after all, it's the perfume that counts. If you're a Parisian infusion fan—and if you aren't we just don't see things and scents in the same light—you'll love being able to put a drop or two of that exultant, exquisite French scent on your eyelids, behind your ears, and on your lingerie at a rate that won't send the whole darned family to the poorhouse. You can find it in Chicago now. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Good Morning!

Sacrilege has been committed.

Ruthless hands have been laid on Willa Cather's beautiful story, "A Lost Lady." Gone is the original's point, charm, penetration. Gone is practically everything but the title. Why DO they do such things?

What an opportunity there was—for somebody who knew how—to make an unforgettable picture from Willa Cather's unforgettable book! Perhaps, some day, this feat will be accomplished. But the present screen "Lost Lady" only qualifies as a LOST opportunity.

Miss Cather, of course, is a subtle writer. To successfully adapt her writings will require a high order of intelligence and human insight.

Her book is a character study of a woman of many nuanced personality—as seen through the eyes of a boy whose worship turns through the years into sick contempt. The movie bearing the title of that book is—just a movie—in which spring and winter wed.

A handsome aviator complicates matters. Heart attack on part of husband brings heroine to her senses. Tritest sort of H. E.

Miss Stanwyck, wearing a different—and stunning—gown with practically every entrance, strives conscientiously to be something or other—one gathers she doesn't just know what. I can see Katherine Hepburn as Marian Forrester—or Dolores Del Rio—but the rôle doesn't sit happily on the shoulders of "the First Lady of the Screen."

Male members of the cast do their dead level best. It's not their fault that it is a DEAD-level best.

O well, let's think of something else . . . !

See you soon!

One week from today!

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise becomes engaged to Maj. Ralph Stornack, nearly twice her age, due to the management of her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club. Colin was alone at the table with the Canadian when the lights went out and he was struck in the throat by a table knife. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Stornack, who was the solicitor's host. Jack Caermaen, an old pal of Colin's, is his prison warder. Rhoda met Maj. Stornack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Rhoda writes Colin of her engagement. Jack Caermaen plots Colin's escape and elopement. He takes Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Nobody looks closely at prisoners, he explains, and warders are frequently changed.

INSTALMENT IV.

AN ELOPEMENT.

At the next town Colin stopped and laid in a store of provisions. He felt no shyness in the shops. When he had thrown off his convict garb the convict mentality had slipped away from him. Slowly the sense of adventure was crowding out all other feelings and he would think of nothing else. He would not even let himself think of Rhoda. A dozen things might yet go wrong. She might be prevented from turning up. She might even be unwilling to turn up.

At dusk he was within fifty miles of Gallowden. He filled up with petrol, had a light supper, then loitered for the rest of the journey.

By half-past eleven he was within sight of Cornboise hall.

He skirted the home park and backed up a lane. He stopped and switched off his lights. He climbed over a low wall, enclosing a coppice, and walked through the clearing. It was easy going in the light of the full moon.

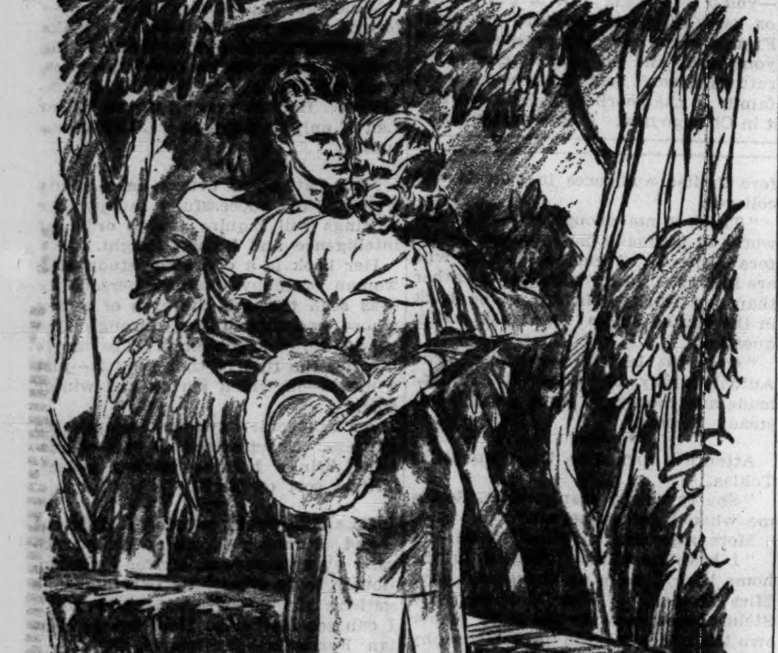
He looked at his watch. Twenty to twelve. And Jack had written in his notes that Rhoda had said she would come to the coppice—to the very spot where he was standing—at midnight.

He stood quite still for what he believed to be half an hour, looked at his watch again, and found that three minutes had passed.

He went to the edge of the coppice that was nearest to the garden, looked up at the hall silhouetted in the moonlight. There was no light in any of the windows.

His eye traveled back over the rose garden to the lawn and rested on a strange, unfamiliar object. The moonlight shadows were deceptive and it was several seconds before he know that it was a marquee.

"For the wedding tomorrow!" he muttered. He tried to throw his thoughts into the future. Tomorrow—would that marquee be thronged with well dressed guests congratulating Rhoda on her marriage to Maj. Stornack?



"Darling! We're both real. And there's a real question to which we've both got to find the answer—now."

"Colin, Colin!" She had whispered his name twice before he realized that she had come. He had been waiting for her to come across the lawn, but more prudently she had come by the kitchen garden and crept along in the shadows.

"Rhoda!" He took both her hands almost shyly, and it was she who slipped into his arms.

A timeless period passed in which neither was acutely aware of anything save that they were together. Now and again she would touch his sleeve and his fingers as if to make sure that he was real.

"I can't realize you're here!" she murmured. "It seems like a dream. It sounded like a dream when Jack told me about it. I met him in Manchester last Saturday. He warned me that you might not be able to come. And when I came out tonight I kept telling myself that you would not be here, so that I shouldn't feel the disappointment too much."

"Darling! We're both real. And there's a real question to which we've both got to find the answer—now. Jack has fixed it so that we can get married tomorrow in Manchester. Do you want to, Rhoda?"

"O, you know I do!"

"Yes, I know you do—when you speak like that. But listen!" Almost roughly he thrust her away. "You fully understand that you'll be tying yourself to a convict for life?"

A little sob broke from her.

"What's the good of talking about yourself like that. You are you, and you can't add to that or take anything from it."

"But we must be sane. I won't stampede you into it just because I want you more than I want to live. Listen! Wouldn't it be better to have even a loveless marriage with a decent fellow——?

"Nothing could be worse than that. O, what's the use of asking questions like this, Colin dear? I just know it must be wrong to marry a man you don't love if you can possibly help it. And it must be right to marry the man you do love—you, Colin."

"Then, by God, that settles it!" He snatched her off her feet, ran with her down the clearing—until she begged him to stop.

"I can't go like this—look!"

She was wearing a cloak and under it a dinner frock of green silk. "I must slip back to the house and pack a dressing case. I didn't dare do it before—it seemed unlucky. And I simply had to pretend you wouldn't be here or I believe I should have died with disappointment—if you hadn't been, I mean. I won't be long packing, really I won't."

"Can't spare you for a single minute, darling. We've the inside of a week together. I've more money than we need and you can buy a rig-out tomorrow in Manchester. We shall be there by breakfast time."

He urged her forward through the coppice, out of the coppice, and into the coupé.

Shortly after dawn they were running over high downland, neither of them quite knew where. They stopped and watched in silent wonder as the sun rose over the hills. In Colin there was now no sense of escape from prison—only the deep surging happiness of the lover in the presence of the beloved.

"What about breakfast?" he said abruptly. "We can't do you eggs and bacon, but if you'll just keep still while I reach behind you I think I can promise you some hot tea and oddments."

The tea came piping hot from the thermos flask. They had great fun over the "oddments," which ranged from ham sandwiches to chocolate eclairs. It was not a characteristically British breakfast, but the time of day meant little then to these two.

After "breakfast" he lit a cigaret, lounged back in his corner, and looked at her.

"You are," he remarked, "quite the loveliest thing in the world to look at. No, wait, please! There's a sting in the tail. I was going on to say that, even so, you would look just a little bit funny in a store in Manchester at nine o'clock in the morning in a dinner frock and cloak. And these very silky silk stockings. And slippers pinched from a fairy. So funny," he added, "that people might remember if any kind of dust is raised when they miss you."

For a moment her gay irresponsibility was dashed. They certainly would "raise a dust" when she was missed.

"You'll have to buy the things for me," she told him, then laughed at his confusion. "I'll let you off lightly, Colin. A raincoat. A tweed hat. And a pair of walking shoes. You could buy those without blushing, couldn't you? In those I could walk about quite inconspicuously and buy anything else I want. I shall only need a tweed skirt and a blouse or two. My trousseau," she added, and for a moment her eyes filled with tears.

Shortly after nine he was making the purchases in a department store in Manchester. He had prepared an elaborate and convincing tale about his wife, but the assistants were uninterested and he didn't bother to finish it.

He took the goods to the car, drove to a side street where she put them on, then drove her to another store where she bought everything she would require.

For "the inside of a week."

At Cornboise hall some two hundred miles away Mrs. Cornboise was sitting down to a hurried breakfast about the time when Colin was making his purchases at the department store.

Mr. Baer Given Cold Shoulder by Mae West

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—When it comes to a display of aplomb whom would you pick, Max Baer or Mae West?

Max was around Paramount studio yesterday looking into preparations for his coming picture, "Kids on the Cuff," and spying Mae West hurried over and slapped that regal personage a neat clip on the back. "Hi," said Maxie, beaming. "I just came over to tell you I been thinking about having you come up and play my leading lady."

Mae didn't even seem to notice the slap on the back.

"Thanks," she said in that lazy, low voice. "Thanks for thinking of me. I appreciate it," and turned her back and walked away.

Spanky McFarland, 5 year old actor, was at San Francisco last week for personal appearances, and Horace Hight, the master of ceremonies, thought he had the kid coached perfectly. On the first evening show Hight asked Spanky: "How do you like pictures?" Said Spanky, "I won't answer that." This was not in the routine at all and Hight thought he'd give Spanky time to pick up the dialog again, asking, "Why won't you answer that question?"

"Because you asked the same thing this afternoon," said Spanky, and the audience gave the kid a great hand.

lard Morton of Warrenton, Va., has set Thursday, Nov. 29, as the day for her marriage to Albert Edwin Peirce Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. Albert E. Peirce of Canterbury Farm, Warrenton, formerly of Winnetka. The wedding will take place at Warrenton.

Plan British Day at Art Institute.

The Art institute is winding up its series of "national days" in connection with its World's Fair art exhibit with the celebration of British day next Monday. Special attention will be called to the British works on exhibit and several prominent British-Americans will be presented in a program at 11 o'clock in Fullerton hall.

The British consul general, Lewis Bernays, will respond to the introduction of a trustee of the institute and then Frederick Victor Poole, artist and teacher in the school of the institute, will give reminiscences of Whistler, particularly of Whistler's immortal "Ten o'Clock," which Mr. Poole had the good fortune to hear when it was first given at the Chelsea Art club.

Because his lecture series met with such a hearty response last year Dr. Horace G. Bridges has been invited by the Fortnightly club to give a new series this fall. The first lecture, "'Holy Deadlock' and a Certain Superstition About Divorce," will be heard at 11 o'clock next Tuesday morning in the Fortnightly ballroom.

Many of the members of the Fortnightly audience next Tuesday will, without doubt, move on to the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house, where they will hear Stephen Leacock discuss "How Soon Can We Start the Next War?" With Mr. Leacock's well known sense of humor, it is assured that the lecture will not be entirely funereal in its presentation. Yet it is well known that the distinguished Canadian will present a serious point of view beneath the humorous surface.

Daniel Catton Rich will give an illustrated lecture on "The Significance of the Seurat" at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the Arts club.

The first causerie of the season will be held today at 2 o'clock by the Alliance Française in its headquarters in the Fine Arts building. Mrs. John McAllister will speak on the "Empress Eugenie," and Mme. Rene Weiller, wife of the French consul general in Chicago, will be hostess.

Robinsons May Visit in Chicago.

When Mrs. Richard T. Crane comes home from her summer estate at Ipswich, Mass., the end of November, she will probably bring with her her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Robinson, who have been in the headlines so much with Mr. Robinson's dreadful illness last spring in the Galapagos Islands.

With Mr. Robinson practically recovered from the appendicitis, which necessitated two operations, we hear that the Robinsons are thinking about going back to the south seas that Mr. Robinson may gather the rest of the material necessary to his new book.

Undaunted by the accidents they experienced on their honeymoon trip, Mrs. Robinson is quite as anxious to get away again, we hear, as Mr. Robinson. Since the Robinsons have scarcely seen any of their Chicago friends since their marriage, their return here in November undoubtedly will be the occasion for a lively round of entertaining.

GIRL'S DRESS.

A smart one piece dress with a boxed jacket will delight the girl for whom it is made. The dress is stitched in a smart, box plait effect at the front, and released just below the waistline. Fullness is added through the back by an inverted plait. Make the dress of red and white Scotch plaided woolen, and use navy blue velveteen for the jacket. Plaided gingham, in yellow and brown for the dress, with brown wool jersey for the jacket, is another lovely scheme.

The pattern, No. 3072, comes in sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years.

Field Museum Completes N. American Bird Exhibit

The addition of 44 specimens of rare and unusual American birds will today complete the Field museum's collection of North American birds, and make it one of the most comprehensive bird exhibits now in existence, Rudyerd Boulton, assistant curator of birds at the museum, said yesterday. The collection, numbering more than 700 species, has been assembled over a period of nine years. Ashley Hine of the museum's taxidermy staf has mounted nearly all of the exhibits shown.

Big Sisters' Resale.

Everything from formal gowns to family portraits will be sold today when the Big Sisters hold a resale from 10 o'clock in the Majestic Theater building, 20 West Monroe street. Mrs. Edward Hines emphasizes that the affair is not a rummage sale but a "resale," since many new articles as well as those that are slightly used are to be offered. The proceeds will be used for the work of the organization in caring for underprivileged girls and wards of the Juvenile court.

THIS CHANGE gives Children a Chance
Avoid the mistake made by so many parents in treating children.
If your girl or boy is occasionally upset or ailing, why not make the "liquid test" described here?
Perhaps you have tried all sorts of ways to keep a child's bowels in proper condition, and failed.
Yet, a child who has been convalescing in a hospital, will usually come out with bowels working like a well-regulated watch.
The average mother gives any laxative the family may be using, while doctors give children a liquid laxative of suitable ingredients, suitable strength, and in suitable amount.
Try This Way:
Avoid all use of mineral drugs, whether they are salts, pills, tablets, or "candy" form. Even once a month is too often to give any child a cathartic strong enough for adults. Use a liquid laxative containing senna (a natural laxative). California Syrup of Figs has the right amount for children's use, and this rich, fruity syrup does not upset a child's system.
Give that headachy or bilious child a little of this gentle laxative when constipated, and a little less if dose is repeated until bowels seem to be moving regularly and thoroughly of their own accord.
Doctors Say This:
A liquid laxative is safest for children of any age, because the dose can be regulated, and its action controlled. It is not wise to give a laxative of adult strength to a child, just because you give it less often or in less amounts. Stomach upsets and bowel troubles of growing boys and girls can often be traced to this mistake.
When you change to pure California Syrup of Figs instead of harsh medicines, you risk no more violence to your child's appetite, digestion, and general physical condition. You'll have a safer, more satisfactory result, too. Those little upsets and complaints just disappear as a rule and the child is soon normal again. Try it!
THE "LIQUID TEST"
This is the way to relieve occasional sluggishness, or constipation in a child of any age:
First: select a liquid laxative of the proper strength for children. Second: give the dose suited to the child's age, and condition. Third: reduce the dose, if repeated, until the bowels are moving without any help at all.
An ideal laxative for this purpose is California Syrup of Figs which every druggist keeps in stock. Be certain that it is the genuine product, with "California" blown in the bottle.

Showoff Needs Understanding and Sympathy

Teacher Should Ignore His Childish Clowning.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[This is the fourth and last in this fall's series of talks to teachers.]

"Have sympathy for the 'smarty'—for the little 'show off'? Why? He's just a nuisance," would be the average person's response to such a suggestion. Yet the teacher, if she peers behind the scenes, will often find something in the home life of a little "show off" or in the child himself which she will look upon with pity and regret and which will at the same time give her the clew to her problem and its solution.

Why should some children strive for the center of the stage in school and constantly do something to fix attention upon themselves—pleasant if possible, if not unpleasant? Because:

They may not be vital in their parents' lives—perhaps even definitly unwanted, or,

They feel out of it or inferior in some way to the children in the class—because they're poorer, less cultured, foreign, or of another race, or,

They may think they are "dumb" and want to be noticed for something.

With all these reasons—real or imaginary—making them a cipher in the class, they clown or give "fresh" answers, annoy children nearby or ask innumerable questions, and so forth, centering attention upon themselves.

The teacher's cue in the face of this behavior is to ignore it just as much as possible, difficult though this may often be. Giving the child her attention and consequently that of the class, gives just the negative attention that he is unconsciously trying to gain because to him, anything is better than nothing.

Ignoring, of course, is not enough. Gradually the teacher must make an effort to divert the young show off's obstreperousness into worthwhile channels—to find out what he does well so that he can have the right sort of attention—to draw him into group work—to praise him whenever justifiable—and to give him class duties or responsibilities.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

ONE NO TRUMP, SIX NO TRUMPS.

This "Leaping Lena" way of bidding a slam is, of course, very rare in my system, and you will not be surprised to hear that even this tremendous jump raise has in it a leavening of the Leewa- principle to give it resilience and to avoid putting the partner on the spot.

It should be employed only when you can see that any other response would put the opening bidder in a hopeless quandary, asking him to make a decision which he cannot have the means of making correctly. If you need from him confirmation of his original bid, you have the four no trump response available to secure it. Only when you do not need any confirmation, and are prepared to deliver a slam even though your partner has no more than three primary tricks, should you raise immediately to six no trumps. This response is based not so much on what you yourself hold, as on what there is left for your partner to hold. For instance, if you picked up

Sp. K Q J   Di. K Q x
Hts. K Q 10   Cl. K J x x

and your partner bid a no trump, your only reasonable bid is six no trumps, and this, although you have only three and a half primary tricks, with no ace and no suit length. If your partner has opened the bidding with three aces and the queen of clubs plus a jack or two, a small slam is an absolute certainty; yet unless he holds exactly the ace-queen of clubs and two other aces—the odd jacks are really not a factor in this hand—he could not confirm his original bid, or do anything but pass any bid that you make. Since you do not care whether he has the ace of clubs or not, and its possession will not affect the certainty that six no trumps, no more and no less, can be made whether your partner has three aces and a separate queen or ace, ace, ace-queen, you cannot expect further rebid or action of any kind from your partner for small slam purposes. If your partner should hold all four aces and the queen of clubs, or even without the queen of clubs, he should raise six no trump response to seven. He realizes that you promise to deliver six when you are only counting on him for three aces; so when he holds four of them, grand slam is either a lay down, or dependent at worst on a finesse.

Suit Length May Be the Backbone of This Bid.

Again with a responding hand such as

Sp. A Q   Di. K x x x x x
Hts. A Q   Cl. K x x

if your partner bids a no trump, what can his high cards be? The king of each major suit, making one trick, the two aces, making three. Let us assume that he has no more than this—no queen, and no jack of diamonds to give a finesse to trap the queen of that suit. The hand is a spread, is it not, for six no trumps? Only a diamond trick need be lost unless they are completely stacked against you, in which case your partner's no trump bid must have been unwise with so many high cards against him. Yet if you bid four no trumps you cannot expect your partner to do anything but pass on two aces and two kings and perhaps a couple of unimportant jacks. Bid six no trumps. Now if he has king, king, ace-queen, ace-queen, he must bid seven, and it will be a lay down. If you guaranteed six without requiring him to confirm his opening bid, can he doubt that seven will be made when he has four primary tricks, with at least a king in every suit?

When You Can Deduce That the Opener Must Hold Either Three or Four Primary Tricks.

Six no trumps would also be your response on

Sp. A K x   Di. A J x
Hts. Q J x   Cl. K Q x

because to have just three primary tricks in a weak hand properly protected for a no trump bid the opener must hold the king-queen of diamonds and the ace of clubs plus the ace of hearts. The hand is now sure to deliver six, even if he has not also the queen of spades, as his four card suit should set up a long card on which you can discard the little spade. However, if your partner has also ace-king of hearts, now he has four primary tricks and must bid seven for you. Briefly, you know what your partner cannot know—six no trumps is in the bag even though he cannot confirm his original bid. If he can confirm it, he has actually primary values in reserve—all that you need to bid a grand slam. The six no trump response takes care of this rare situation almost infallibly when intelligently used. By this I mean that it should not be selected because of any counting or evaluation of the responding hand, not directly at any rate, but only in view of the partner's inferred predicament if any other response is employed. Take the strain off your partner whenever possible, do not submit him to a guess of which you can plainly relieve him. My system provides the bids with which to do this in nearly all the situations likely to arise in the constructive bidding of big hands.

I give you a chest full of fine tools to work with; be careful to select the right one for each job.

Professional Care Essential in the Dyeing of Eyelashes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It seems to me that the eyelash dyeing industry is enjoying a great boon at the moment. I hear of so many women having their lashes dyed rather than be bothered by applying the mascara daily. But don't ask me about eyelash dyeing or hair dyeing of any sort because, as I have said before, you put foreign colorings on your hair at your own risk entirely. Not that I, personally, feel the risk so great, in some cases of professional work a risk at all. But there's always that one person, or more, whose eyelids or eyes may be susceptible to any form of foreign coloring or, in cases of hair dyeing, the persons whose systems more often than the dye makes dyeing a purely, personal responsibility.

And then, of course, there are dyes, both of lash and hair, that are not qualified to pass the test of absolute harmlessness. So that with eyelash dyeing, as with that of hair, when it is done, should only be done by one who has staked his and her reputation on such work. Which means the best professional service possible. Which again means that for such service you have to pay high grade, professional prices.

As you see, I always feel it necessary to apologize and to warn at one and the same time when talking dyes of any sort. I apologize that I can't assume the responsibility of recommendations and warn against cheap dyes and work.

However, there are eyelash growers and creams that one need not be so cagey about. There are mascaras that certainly those theatrical people who have to use them daily, sometimes twice daily, would describe as harmless. But the point is that eyelashes are taking on a new importance with all this dyeing talk and practice. So you can't afford to let yours be, if the tips are faded from the summer sun or for some other reason. The eyelash grower will help. Brush the lashes with it night and morning. Do it for health and luster just as you brush your hair for a lustrous look. A trick that lends the eyes a liquid look, or shiny if you prefer, is to smooth a bit of cream over the mascara. This trick of moistening may be used on the lid neatly, too. But only a moistness, be warned, not a greasiness.

Clever Use of Bacon Assists MeatBudgeting

Crisp Strips Are Tasty at All Three Meals.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's no conjurer's trick to make one chop do the work of two. It's just a matter of remembering to "bring home the bacon." These striped, fatty strips are the solution to impromptu meals—and the best way we know of stretching the meat dish when an extra plate is called for at the table.

The trouble with most of us otherwise ingenious cooks has been that we've been too ready to think of bacon as a breakfast dish and let it go at that. But give it a bit of imagination and it proves itself equally good in all three meals. Or feed the folks a snack from the pantry after the show. A toasted bacon and cheese sandwich signs off the evening on just the correct note.

Sunday night suppers are sticklers for numbers of us. So we'll whisper a whirligig tip for your Sunday evening approval:

Bacon and Cheese Pinwheels.

Fresh white bread
Cream cheese
Milk
Sliced bacon

Remove the crusts from a loaf of white bread. Cut the loaf in thin slices lengthwise, parallel with the base of the loaf. Spread each slice with cream cheese softened with a little milk. Roll each of these up like a jelly roll, then cut each roll in half crosswise. Wrap a strip of bacon around each of the pinwheels thus formed, securing it with two woodpins. Toast the pinwheels under a low broiler flame, turning frequently to cook the bacon thoroughly. Or the tidbits may be toasted in a hot oven until the bacon is crisp.

Bacon muffins and bacon waffles may be an old story to you—but that's just because you're thinking only of the kind in which the bacon is always minced to bits. The real surprise comes, then, when you prepare, under the expectant eyes of your Sunday morning guests, an affair which is simply a crunchy waffle baked sandwich style on either side of broiled strips of bacon. It's done in this way:

Bacon Waffles—Modern Style.

2 cups sweet milk
2 eggs, well beaten
⅓ cup melted butter
2¼ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
Bacon strips

Combine the milk, melted butter, and the beaten eggs. Sift together the dry ingredients and stir these carefully into the liquid. Beat until smooth. Have ready bacon fried or broiled until not quite crisp. Place half of the batter required for a waffle on the hot waffle iron. Lay over this two strips of bacon. Then pour on a little more batter. Avoid getting the iron too full. Close the lid and bake for three minutes, or until the steam ceases to rise from the iron.

We've broiled and fried bacon until we think we know all the tricks. But we're fooling ourselves unless we're acquainted with egged, crummed, and fried bacon in addition to the more prosaic methods. Merely dip each slice in beaten egg, then in finely crushed cracker crums. Pan fry the slice in hot fat. Watch the strips carefully or they may vex you by burning themselves.

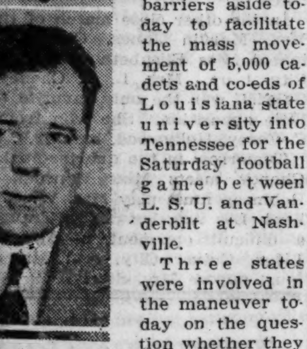
N. U. BUILDS RUNNING ATTACK FOR OHIO GAME

TENNESSEE BARS ARMED FORCES OF LONG PARTY

Mass Football Trip Plans Go Ahead.



HUEY LONG.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long thrust legal and formal barriers aside today to facilitate the mass movement of 5,000 cadets and co-eds of Louisiana state university into Tennessee for the Saturday football game between L. S. U. and Vanderbilt at Nashville.

Three states were involved in the maneuver today on the question whether they should permit the senator to use twenty fully armed Louisiana state highway policemen to accompany the five trainloads of Louisiana football rooters into Tennessee.

Gov. Sennett Conner of Mississippi yielded to Long's request sent out by Gov. O. K. Allen, but Roy H. Beeler, attorney general of Tennessee, ruled that Huey and his Louisiana officials had no right to send armed guards into a neighboring state.

Willing to Provide Own Police.

"We respectfully request permission to enter Tennessee with state highway police in uniform with arms on special football trains fo· the purpose of preserving order on these special trains," telegraphed the governor of Louisiana.

Attorney General Beeler, in his answer cited statutory provisions in support of his opinion that Tennessee authorities could not grant the request. He was willing, however, to furnish twenty of Tennessee's own highway patrolmen to "lend assistance" when the L. S. U. students arrive in Nashville.

But Huey paid no attention to this legal pleasantry. Two great trucks equipped with amplifiers, to be used by him in a pre-game address, rolled toward Nashville this morning, gay with Long campaign banners and pamphlets filled with praise of the Great Huey.

Dean Is Disturbed.

Even the news that some of the undergraduates of L. S. U. had engaged in a mild bit of racketeering yesterday when he was distributing $6 each to students who wanted to get to the game, but had no funds, did not disturb the senator's enthusiasm for the Nashville expedition. But it did disturb Troy E. Middleton, dean of men at the college.

When the dean learned that a large number of students, hiding under the innocent pseudonyms of Jones and Smith, had doubled on the loan offer, he posted a notice on the bulletin board ordering them to return the money at once to the trusting senator. In all, it was estimated, Long distributed about $3,000 in cash to get the entire student body to the game.

Huey became so arm weary handing out the train fare to co-eds and cadets that this morning he turned the job over to E. N. Jackson, business manager at State university, with the announcement that in addition to the $6 allotted yesterday he was putting up an additional $1 to pay for room and board in Nashville.

Where's Money Coming From?

Where the money is coming from, nobody seems to know. The total cost of moving the vast cheering section through three states into Nashville is to cost approximately $10,000. James M. Smith, the college president, was asked about it, but he didn't seem to know either. He denied with some vigor, however, a report that members of the faculty were being assessed for contributions.

Flushed with his exertions after his final payoff this morning in the lobby of his hotel, Long announced that one entire car of the five train caravan that will move into Tennessee will be occupied by himself and his loyal henchmen. And in accord with the Kingfish's democratic policy, all will be day coaches, including his own.

The committee said the United States was exceptionally well represented, and that holders of Cambridgeshire tickets would have a chance to participate in the distribution of between $9,000,000 and $9,500,000 prize money.

Navin Denies Report Tigers to Sell or Trade Gehringer

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Charles F. Navin, secretary of the Detroit Baseball company, said today there was "nothing to" reports that the Detroit Tigers planned to sell or trade Charley Gehringer, star second baseman, to the Cleveland Indians. Navin said he did not know the source of the report.

ILLINI-WOLVERINES.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 24.—Well, Arch, here I am back in Ann Arbor again, just like you said I should be, prepared to do a lot of hard work for you. It certainly seems good to be on the scene of a Michigan-Illinois contest, because I used to have those games as an annual fixture.

Well, I want to tell you an incident of the 1924 game when Grange ran through Michigan for five touchdowns and 402 yards and made six passes for 64 yards, one responsible for a touchdown, as his share of the 39-14 count. Of course, Wolverines tire of hearing about that game, and Athletic Director Yost complains, "Didn't any other football eleven ever lose a game?" and he's right, at that, but it isn't about the game I wanted to tell you.

The game was played at Champaign, and my seat in the press stand was among the scouts from other colleges who came to see how good this Grange chap was and to advise their coaches how to stop him. Well, after Red sifted through the entire Wolverine squad for his first touchdown on the opening kickoff the scouts began to draw diagrams and write voluminous notes in their scout books.

Then Grange did it again, and the scouts wrote some more, but not so much. And the third time there was still less because all the runs were very similar. When Red made his fourth touchdown the scout from Wisconsin, sitting next to me, said, "What the hell! How you going to stop that fellow?" put his scout book in his overcoat pocket, and he didn't make another note or diagram the rest of the afternoon.

Well, Illinois didn't win the championship because Minnesota turned in a surprise defeat, 20-7, in which Illinois partisans claimed Grange was intentionally roughed out of bounds, and it made some bad feeling at the time. Chicago had John Thomas and "Five Yards" McCarty and also little Bob Curley to kick field goals. Chicago and Illinois played that sensational 21-21 tie, with Chicago pounding the line and Grange running. Chicago also tied Ohio State and Wisconsin and beat Indiana, Purdue, and Northwestern, so whether they were the best eleven or not that season, nobody beat them and the Maroons were champions.

Well, the next year Illinois expected to take Michigan again, but some of Grange's interferers had been graduated, and Michigan won a desperate contest by a field goal and became champion.

I don't need to go over all the intervening years, or this letter would take more than 3 cents postage, and I don't know whether I could charge 6 cents postage for one letter on my expense account. Anyway, only one other game really stands out in my memory.

It was that affair at Ann Arbor in 1928, witnessed by 78,000 people, when Michigan, under conditions somewhat similar to the present, upset the Illini. Illinois was a great eleven, ultimate title winner that year. Michigan already had lost to Ohio Wesleyan, Indiana, Ohio State, and Wisconsin. One felt sorry for the poor Wolverines.

But, Arch, Michigan played inspired football that day, and Joe Gembis' place kick produced the only 3 points. But there were plenty of thrills. In the second half, in desperation, Frosty Peters essayed a place kick at a difficult angle from 45 yards out. It was a beautiful try. It struck the cross bar of the goal posts and bounded back instead of over.

This game Saturday is the 20th between the two institutions, with 14 previously for Michigan and 5 for Illinois. Before Zuppke's arrival at Champaign Illinois never had won. From 1919 to 1929 the record was five each. Of course, since then Illinois hasn't been so hot, and the Kipke coached Wolverines have taken the last four straight.

Well, Arch, I'm stopping at the Michigan Union, if you want to reach me for anything, but Manager Stanley Waltz, whom I don't know as well as I did Paul Buckley, says I'll have to move out Saturday morning because an alumnus wants my room for homecoming. I suppose the alumnus must have contributed when the Union was built, or something.

That won't be so convenient, and besides the only hotel I know here is a branch of the Michigan state liquor commission, and when the commission closes for the day that might not work out so well. However, that doesn't worry me as much as the taxi fare to take my baggage from the Union clean downtown to the hotel, for you know how conscientious I am about my expense accounts. Hoping you are the same. Regards.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

SYKES KNOCKED OUT BY LOUIS IN 8TH ROUND

2,500 See Golden Gloves Graduate Win.

Joe Louis, Negro heavyweight of Detroit, a 1934 Golden Gloves champion, knocked out Art Sykes of Elmira, N. Y., in the eighth round of a scheduled ten round bout last night at Arcadia Gardens. After being held on even terms for six rounds, Louis demonstrated in the seventh that the bout would not go the limit.

In that round he landed solid left hooks to the head, and when the bell sounded Sykes was groggy. Between rounds Sykes sat in his corner puffing heavily with head bowed. Seconds after the eighth round started Louis caught Sykes against the ropes and landed a barrage of blows which stunned him.

Right Drops Sykes.

Joe stepped back for an instant, got the range and shot a right cross to the jaw. Sykes fell on his back, his head hitting the platform outside the ropes. He took Referee Davey Miller's count without stirring. His seconds dragged him to the corner, and it was several minutes before he was able to leave the ring.

The Illinois athletic commission announced that the attendance was 2,500. Gross receipts were $3,120.

The bout started slowly. Sykes appeared to be the better fighter in the first round. He landed two rights to Louis' left eye, which left a pink mark and had him blinking throughout the match. In the second and third Louis found the range and scored with several glancing rights to the jaw. Both scored with rights and traded left jabs to the mouth in the fourth.

Sykes Resorts to Holding.

Thereafter the crowd booed Sykes for holding. He grabbed the Detroit boxer on every opportunity, and Louis was unable to land his powerful right. He tried left hooks, but missed by a wide margin. The turning point came in the seventh, when Louis reached Sykes' chin with left hooks. It was Louis' eighth triumph in as many professional appearances.

Many in the crowd were surprised by the result, for they had seen Sykes extend King Levinsky for ten rounds at Wrigley field on Sept. 20. Louis weighed 190½ pounds and Sykes 181.

Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., 190 pounds, whipped Willie Davies of Chicago, 180, in the semi-final. Other results:

Walter Karpinski, 206, stopped Charley Young, 188 [3].

Frank Ketter, 203, beat Jack Robinson, 186 [5].

John Vorce, 178, stopped Danny La Marre, 188 [3].

Young Joe Gans, 148, beat Mickey O'Shea, 148 [5].

2 NEW TEAMS TIE FOR BIKE LEAD AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The field in Philadelphia's six-day bike race erased the two lap lead of Alfred Letourner and Gerard Debaets tonight, and when the jamming ended two other duos were perched on top.

The teams of Freddie Spencer and Bobby Walthour, New Jersey youngsters, and Tony Schaller, Chicago, and Leroy Garrison, Kearny, N. J., came out of the jam with a one lap edge as the 70th hour passed.

MICKEY WALKER, NATIE BROWN FIGHT A DRAW

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., fought a ten round draw with Natie Brown, Washington heavyweight, tonight.

Spotting Brown 26 pounds, several inches in height and reach, and 11 years in age, Walker carried the fight most of the way, and the draw decision prompted boos from a crowd of 6,000. Walker weighed 163 against 189 for Brown.

Kostka Joins Gopher Eleven for Iowa Game

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Full Back Stan Kostka will be ready to take his place with the Minnesota Gophers when they line up in their first Western conference game at Iowa City next Saturday. That was determined today when Kostka engaged in the dummy scrimmage work and showed that he was none the worse for the beating he took at Pittsburgh last Saturday.

There was even a ray of hope that Art Clarkson, more severely injured, also would be ready, but that situation was a bit more dubious. Clarkson's injury is more serious and less responsive to treatment, and so there is a fair chance that Julie Alfonse, who played a great game against Pittsburgh, will start at right half back unless Clarkson takes a turn for the better.

Roscoe to Get Chance.

Realing that some of the threat of the Gopher attack is lost because Alfonse is not a passer, at least not in a class with Clarkson, Coach Bierman has decided to give George Roscoe a good passer, a chance at right half back. This is regarded more as preparedness, because Roscoe is the left half back understudy to Capt. Pug Lund at present. The move is interpreted as a preparatory move in case the Gophers will be forced to go to the air Saturday.

The Gophers will leave Minneapolis by special train late tomorrow night. They will stop at Cedar Rapids and will not move into Iowa City until just before game time.

The largest caravan of fans of the season, 6,500, will accompany the Gophers or join them at the game, the biggest turnout that ever has invaded Iowa City from a hostile point.

SOLEM CHANGES LINEUP.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Coach Ossie Solem's desperate attempt to bolster the University of Iowa line before Saturday's homecoming game with Minnesota resulted in four changes in personnel today.

Although John Hild, 180 pound sophomore, continued in the first string backfield along with Dick Crayne, Oze Simmons, and Dwight Hoover, the team physician said that Capt. Russ Fisher may be able to start at quarter back against the Gophers. Fisher's new knee brace was regarded as satisfactory and the captain took a fairly heavy workout.

Holds Long Scrimmage.

Ted Osmaloski, center, was absent from practice because of illness, but was expected to be in shape for Saturday.

Solem gave four complete teams a long scrimmage against freshmen, concentrating on a defense against Gopher power plays. The revamped varsity showed considerable improvement in charging and backfield interference.

The athletic office reported an advance sale of approximately 41,000 tickets for Saturday's game, indicating a complete sellout of 43,000 seats before the kickoff. The previous record crowd at a Hawkeye home game

Tribune Gives $21,000 to Charity Funds

The United Charities, Catholic Charities, and Jewish Charities of Chicago yesterday were enriched by $21,000, a donation from the sports department charity fund of THE TRIBUNE. This sum, divided equally among the three organizations, represented the profits of the All-Star football game between the Chicago Bears and College All-Americans, played at Soldiers' field Aug. 31.

Checks for $7,000 each were sent to the Most. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago; to President Kent S. Clow of the United Charities, and to President Sol Kline of the Jewish Charities.

This brings the total donations for 1934 from the sports department fund to $42,000. Twenty-one thousand dollars from profits of this year's Golden Gloves tournament was distributed throughout the year. The beneficiaries were Algonquin camp, community chest, ice fund, and Hines hospital.

SOUTH CAROLINA, CLEMSON MEET FOR 32D TIME

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—In probably the deepest obeisance in the nation to the gridiron game, Columbia and a good part of South Carolina will come to a halt in all activities at noon tomorrow for the 32d clash between the University of South Carolina and Clemson college.

By custom dating back almost four decades the football teams of the two state institutions meet at noon on Thursday of state fair week, and the day is generally observed as a holiday. In South Carolina the meeting of Clemson and Carolina is more than just a gridiron contest; it is a major social event for the entire state.

VITT, MANAGER OF HOLLYWOOD CLUB, RESIGNS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Oscar Vitt, manager of the Hollywood Baseball club of the Pacific Coast league since 1926, resigned today. Frank Shellenback, veteran spitball pitcher of the Stars for many years, was named to succeed him.

Vitt formerly was a great third baseman for the Detroit Tigers. Vitt's teams won pennants in 1929 and 1930. He passed up an offer to manage the Cincinnati Reds next year, and it was considered possible that he might be considering some other major league offer.

Atilio Had to Hear Series; He's Just a Patrolman Now!

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 24.—(AP)—When it was time to tune in on the Dean brothers' world series exploits over the radio Detective Atilio Caviani released a prisoner he was holding and hurried to the closest broadcast, his superiors said. Caviani testified that after he arrested Anton di Giovanni, a Rockford, Ill., merchant, for illegally transporting alcohol, he freed his prisoner when federal agents did not answer his summons by game time. He was demoted to the rank of patrolman.

HANLEY SEEKS IMPROVEMENT IN BLOCKING

Potter Works Out at Full Back.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern hopes that the two weeks of drill since its defeat by Stanford at Palo Alto has increased the effectiveness of its running attack. The answer will be known Saturday afternoon at Dyche stadium when the Wildcats meet Ohio State in a Dads' day game, the second Big Ten contest for Northwestern and the third for Ohio State.

The Buckeyes jumped the starting gun by defeating Indiana university in the opening game at Columbus. Illinois then whipped the Bucks, 14 to 13, but last Saturday Ohio State demonstrated its ability by a victory over Colgate. Northwestern, after beating Marquette, lost to Iowa before making its California trip.

Buckeyes Are Heavier.

Ohio State has more weight, more straight away power, and correspondingly a better line defense than Northwestern. The Wildcats' assets still start with George Potter's passing, but Coach Dick Hanley believes the squad will be more effective on attack. The boys have been busily engaged in blocking practice preparing for Saturday's contest.

The consensus, of course, is that Ohio State will whip Northwestern. That this will be the outcome is a logical deduction, but the usual reservations must be made. Northwestern scored on Iowa with passes. That item, the first touchdown of the game, was overlooked to an extent in view of Iowa's three subsequent touchdowns. So with a revival of defense, patterned on the style of last year's Wildcat eleven, one touchdown [if made] might defeat or tie Ohio State.

Illini Score on Passes.

Ohio State power is measured largely by weight, but Ohio held this advantage over Illinois, and the Illini, by passing, scored twice. That Ohio State failed to tie Illinois was due to a missed kick for the point after touchdown. Illinois also failed on one of its kicks, but an infraction of the rules by Ohio gave Illinois a second try for this point which was successful.

Ohio State's tendency to fumble may prove Northwestern's greatest advantage. The Bucks have compiled what probably is a record so far by fumbling 21 times in three games. Against Indiana Ohio fumbled 11 times. There were six errors in the Illinois game and four last week against Colgate.

Buckeyes in Good Shape.

Ohio certainly should be prepared for Northwestern's double wing back style of attack, for Andy Kerr, Colgate coach, is a disciple of Pop Warner, as is Coach Hanley of Northwestern. This similarity of play has given the Ohio State team two weeks of defensive drills against the Warner attack. Then, too, several of the Buckeye varsity played this system under Sam Willaman last year.

The Ohio State team will probably be at full strength with the possible exception of Quarter Back Frank Fisch, who has a badly bruised shoulder. The team will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning and Coach Francis Schmidt will hold a final practice at Loyola university. The time has not been announced. When the Buckeyes were quartered at Danville before the Illinois game they drilled on Friday morning and Schmidt may follow this plan again.

The Ohio State band and students will arrive in Chicago tomorrow night.

Hanley Makes Changes.

Coach Hanley, it was reported yesterday, has just about decided on the starting lineup by which he hopes to get increased blocking for runners and thus indirectly make better opportunities for Potter to cut loose with his passes.

Harry Leeper has been shifted from left end to right end, where his blocking is needed for Bob Swisher's runs. George Wilson will be at left end. Carl Devry may get the right tackle assignment. This position is the outside tackle on the unbalanced line used in the Warner offense, and requires more accurate blocking than the other tackle job. Potter also has been drilled in the full back position, the deep position on the Warner attack, where his passing will be more effective. Potter also seems qualified to plunge the line despite inexperience.

Eino Hayskar, sophomore half back, is the only Northwestern player who is not in shape. He is nursing a pulled ligament in his leg received in the first practice following return from Stanford.

OHIO PILOT OUT.

Columbus, O., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Ohio State's football team held another long practice tonight in preparation for the Northwestern game at Evanston Saturday.

Coach Francis A. Schmidt drilled the Buckeyes under lights on defense. The practice was more strenuous than those of Monday and Tuesday, which were lightened to allow players to recover from injuries.

Far more interesting was the drill of the Ohio State band, which was practicing one of its most ambitious tricks for Saturday's game. It consists of forming an animated Wildcat with paws and a tail that move as the band plays "Go! You Northwestern!" The band will be making its first trip of the season and will appear at the World's Fair Saturday morning.

REDRESS RUNS TO BREEDING LINES; PAYS OFF AT 4—1

Stewards Will Question Trainer on Race.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Those racegoers who are daily visitors at Sportsman's Park are not good students of breeding lines. Otherwise, they would have not let Redress from the barn of Harry Herendeen of Chicago go to the post as anything except the favorite in the Brookfield handicap yesterday.

They made Gaillardia, a sore legged six year old, the choice and also plunged heavily on McGonigle and Dusky Devil. Redress paraded out to the post for the mile and 70 yards dash at 4 to 1. He had Jocky Longden on his back.

Redress Son of St. Germans.

Redress, now 4 years old, is a son of St. Germans, a noted sire from Europe. Among his sons is Twenty Grand. Every one knows that fellow was a great race horse.

The mother of Redress is Regret, the only filly ever to win the Kentucky Derby. She was one of the great mares of American racing.

Redress got into the spirit of things in this battle. After he had permitted Gaillardia to lead him for half a mile he tore to the front. Once in the lead he never left the result in doubt. At the end he was the winner by six lengths. McGonigle was second and Sad Knight third.

Gaillardia, the favorite, which showed all the early speed, quit almost to a walk and finished last. Redress ran the mile and seventy yards in 1:47, a second off the track record. He paid $10 for a $2 ticket.

Stewards to Question Trainer.

Some scandal may come out of the victory. Redress ran a most ordinary race the last time out. He was owned then by G. E. Ewins, a downstate banker who took over the W. M. Mikel horses in New England some time ago. One of the Mikel steeds was alleged to have been doped and all were barred from racing under his ownership.

Despite the bad race Redress ran for Ewins, whose trainer is J. G. Askew, the Chicago turf man Herendeen claimed the horse out of the event.

The stewards didn't fancy the sudden improvement he showed under his new ownership and they didn't like the dull race Gaillardia ran in the Brookfield. They have sent for Trainer Askew and when he appears on the carpet before them this morning he will be asked to explain "how come?"

The crowd was agog expecting to see William Schmidt's fast but weak hearted sprinter, Supreme Sweet, win her annual race in the 5 furlong fourth event.

She was in with only 109 pounds on her back. Jocky Longden was in the saddle. It appeared impossible for Supreme Sweet to quit fast enough to lose the short dash.

It indeed looked rosy for her backers when she rounded the clubhouse turn hugging the rail two lengths in advance of all rivals. Down the backstretch she dashed, and by this time was leading by four lengths.

Here Comes Careful Kitty!

From out of the pack then dashed Careful Kitty with Jocky Dupre in the saddle. Twelve strides from the finish line she was dangerously close. Still Supreme Sweet looked to be a certain winner.

Suddenly Supreme Sweet collapsed under the hard ride Jocky Longden was giving her. Her strides shortened so rapidly that Careful Kitty rushed up on the outside to the decision by half a length. Supreme Sweet saved second money, and Frisco was third.

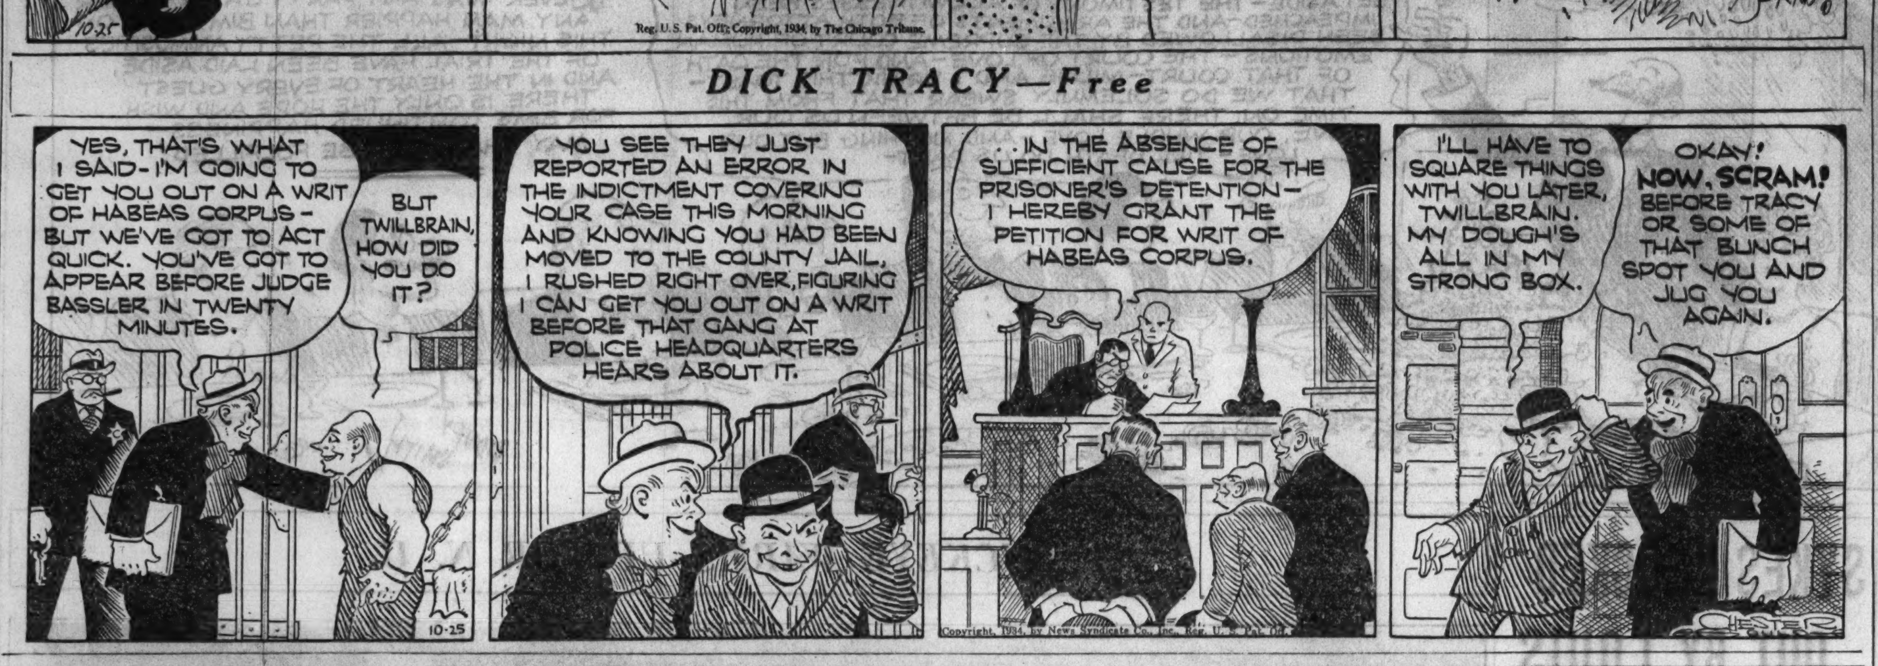
DICK TRACY—Free



YES, THAT'S WHAT I SAID—I'M GOING TO GET YOU OUT ON A WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS—BUT WE'VE GOT TO ACT QUICK. YOU'VE GOT TO APPEAR BEFORE JUDGE BASSLER IN TWENTY MINUTES.
BUT TWILLBRAIN, HOW DID YOU DO IT?
YOU SEE THEY JUST REPORTED AN ERROR IN THE INDICTMENT COVERING YOUR CASE THIS MORNING AND KNOWING YOU HAD BEEN MOVED TO THE COUNTY JAIL, I RUSHED RIGHT OVER, FIGURING I CAN GET YOU OUT ON A WRIT BEFORE THAT GANG AT POLICE HEADQUARTERS HEARS ABOUT IT.
...IN THE ABSENCE OF SUFFICIENT CAUSE FOR THE PRISONER'S DETENTION—I HEREBY GRANT THE PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS.
I'LL HAVE TO SQUARE THINGS WITH YOU LATER, TWILLBRAIN. MY DOUGH'S ALL IN MY STRONG BOX.
OKAY! NOW, SCRAM! BEFORE TRACY OR SOME OF THAT BUNCH SPOT YOU AND JUG YOU AGAIN.

Salvatore and Tonelli Break Into Big Time

Laddie Tonelli of Marseilles, Ill., and Geno Salvatore of La Salle, Ill., both of whom are Golden Gloves products, will get their chance to break into big time competition tomorrow at the Coliseum in two of four bouts at eight rounds which will top the show. Tonelli will clash with Fritz Zivic at 145 pounds and Geno is matched against Eddie Zivic at 135 pounds.

Fritz and Eddie are brothers and hail from Pittsburgh, Pa., where they have established themselves as two of the best young boxers in the country. The former has not been defeated in his last twenty-eight appearances and Eddie has lost one match in thirty-eight.

Tonelli Loses Only Two.

Tonelli and Geno are managed by Willard Luzzo, son of Sam Luzzo, former member of the state boxing commission. Since turning professional as a welterweight in December, 1932, Laddie has been beaten only twice in thirty-seven encounters. In his latest, two and a half months ago, the Marseilles puncher whipped Puggy Weinert. An injury to his left hand necessitated a rest.

Tonelli finished second as a featherweight in the 1930 Golden Gloves tournament. In 1931 he was eliminated by Chauncey Crain, who went on to win the lightweight diamond studded Golden Glove. He made his last try for a Golden Glove in 1932 and was defeated by Henry Rothier, who also won the lightweight crown.

Geno on Intercity Team.

Salvatore has lost one decision in twenty-two fights since leaving the amateur ranks in October, 1933, a defeat he avenged when he whipped Johnny Stanton in eight rounds at Arcadia Gardens, Oct. 10. He first entered the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions as a featherweight in 1932. He finished second to Joe Roman, and won a place on the intercity team. A year later he won the Central A. A. U. lightweight title. He was runnerup to Frank Eagon for the national championship at Boston.

Bus Breese, Irish lightweight, will be after his sixth straight Chicago triumph against Orville Drouillard of Windsor, Ont., in a third eight round match at the Coliseum. Corn Griffin, Charlotte, N. C., arrived from New York yesterday afternoon in time to do loosening up exercises for his contest at eight rounds against Tony Cancela.

Sammy Musco, Omaha, Neb., 122 pound boxer, earned a combat on the Frank Sagillo-Davey Day card at Chicago Stadium a week from tomorrow through his knockout of Mickey Beal Monday. His opponent will be Oscar O'Hanion.

Hayden [Young] Stuhley, satisfied five days' road work and wood chopping has primed him for boxing drills, started workouts at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday for his 10 round match against Frank Battaglia at the Stadium.

16 BOXERS REACH QUARTER FINALS IN C. Y. O. MEET

Clauds and Hecker Win on West Side.

Thirty-two class A bouts concluded west section competition in the C. Y. O. boxing tournament at the West Side Community Recreation center last night. A crowd of 1,200 watched 16 boys enter the class A quarter-finals which will be held Nov. 6, 7, and 8 at the C. Y. O. center.

South section preliminaries will open at White City tonight. Between 40 and 50 class A bouts are scheduled.

In last night's matches at the West Side gymnasium, Bruno Cloude, a hard punching lightweight from St. Pius parish, became the crowd's favorite when he pounded out a victory over Willie Green, Holy Family, who had knocked out Tony Nudo of St. Charles in the first round.

Another finalist who impressed the crowd is George Hecker, 18 year old lightweight from St. Jarlath's parish. Hecker, who is a comparative newcomer, has already established himself as one of the most formidable entrants in the tournament. Other favorites who won last night are Harry Ryan, St. Mary of Celle, Berwyn; Eddie Muldoon, also from St. Mary of Celle; Joe Stifter, St. Bartholomew, and Tony Matise, Guardian Angel.

Mrs. Atwood Is Beaten in Western Golf

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. June Beebe Atwood, Chicago, one of the favorites, was eliminated from the western women's golf tournament today and only two other women living outside California survived the second round.

Miss Barbara Ransom of Stockton, who never before figured prominently in a big tournament, defeated the former western open champion, 3 and 1.

Trouble harassed most of the other favorites, including Miss Lucile Robinson, Des Moines, defending champion, and Miss Dorothy Traung, San Francisco, runner-up to the national women's title. Miss Robinson was forced to go to the 18th green before she could win from Mrs. C. J. Woerner, Los Angeles, 1 up.

Miss Traung was forced to play her finest golf in order to win from Mrs. E. T. Nicholas, Los Angeles, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Tim Lowry, Highland Park, Ill., who yesterday eliminated Miss Marion Hollins, former national champion, went down to defeat today after 22 holes of play with Mrs. Mark Steele, San Gabriel. The end came on the short par 3 hole. Mrs. Steele was to the right of the green and Mrs. Lowry was short and in a water hazard. Mrs. Lowry unwittingly soled her club as she prepared for the shot to the green. Then when appraised of the fact she readily admitted the truth and congratulated her opponent. They were all square with 88 after 18 holes.

In the other close match of the day Mrs. Marvin Jones, Chicago, eliminated Miss Elizabeth Abbott, Culver City, 1 up. Mrs. L. D. Cheney, San Gabriel, was the only favorite to find little opposition. She won from Mrs. C. Carey, Hollywood, handily, 7 and 6.

Tomorrow in the quarter-finals Mrs. Cheney meets Miss Ransom. Miss Robinson must play Mrs. W. E. Shepherd, Los Angeles. Miss Traung has a difficult opponent in Mrs. Gregg Lifur, Culver City, and Mrs. Jones must oppose Mrs. Steele.

MICHIGAN SHOWS IMPROVEMENT, BUT NOT ENOUGH

Two More Days to Get Ready for Illinois.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Only two more days of practice remain before Michigan meets Illinois here and the Wolverines still are far from being a finished football team.

That was evident this afternoon as Coach Harry Kipke tried to get forward and lateral pass plays working smoothly and watched the Illini—impersonated by freshmen — break through the line and past the blocking backs to smear the passers.

The Michigan half backs and ends were getting down the field quickly and were handling the ball well when it got to them, but too often it did not reach them. John Regeczi worked in the passing rôle.

Slow Getting Passes Away.

Either Regeczi was slow in getting off his throws or the freshmen were charging through to surround him. When the plays did work they looked better than anything seen here this season, and apparently were executed by an improving band of football players.

At the conclusion of the offensive drill Coach Kipke lined up the regulars on defense and allowed them to take another look at the Illinois plays. They showed greater skill stopping them than they did yesterday.

Willard Hildebrand still was away from practice today. Bill Renner worked out again, but confined himself to tossing the ball around. He will not play Saturday. Latest X-ray showed his ankle healing satisfactorily.

ILLINI LEAVE TOMORROW.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—On keen edge for Michigan, Illinois' football team went through its last hard drill today. It will work out again here tomorrow and leave Friday morning, arriving at Ann Arbor in time for a visit to the Michigan stadium before going to Dearborn for the night.

Andy Dahl was back at his tackle post as Arvo Antilla rested and it is still a toss up which player will start. Bart Cummings continued at end where the former tackle is making a strong bid. Ken Nelson, who held the other wing position, was also practiced at punting. Remembering last year's loss to the Wolverines by a one point margin, Lindberg and others were rehersed at place kicking. Coach Zuppke again used Howard Carson, sophomore full back, while Johnny Theodore rested. Carson has not appeared in a game since the opener against Bradley, but apparently will be a possibility this week. A struggle for reserve guard posts is being waged with Cook, Tischler, Barnhart, and Polaski as contenders.

PURDUE STRESSES TRICKERY.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Apparently convinced that it will take a long run or long pass to score against Carnegie Tech's defense Coach Noble Kizer today emphasized the perfection of deception on Purdue's optional run or pass plays during an extended practice session.

Working with the same back field that put Wisconsin to rout—Jim Carter and Duane Purvis at half backs, John Drake at full back, and Wayne Gift at quarter back—practice was devoted to wide open play.

Mutant Behaves Much Like Its Ringneck Kin

BY BOB BECKER.

Although there has been considerable discussion about the pheasant known as the mutant, since this dark bird is supposed to be a more desirable game bird, we found no one particularly excited about the qualities of the mutant when we were in Wisconsin a few days ago. On the Beyer preserve, near Portage, Wis., mutants have been raised for several years. There are a number of them out in the wilds, along with hundreds of ring neck pheasants. Last year when we hunted up there the dogs flushed several mutants. Thus we had a chance to observe their behavior as wild pheasants.

The mutant lacks all the rich golden plumage of the regular ring neck. Instead of flashy, exotic colors, he has subdued dark tints in his plumage. Probably the best comparison between the mutant and the gaudy ring neck is similar to that involving the common mallard and the black mallard.

The coloring of the mutant is similar to those dark tones in the black mallard or black duck. Moreover, this pheasant seems to be smaller and faster on the getaway. It is said that the mutant will lie to dog better than the ring neck. That has been the one argument in its favor. However, Otto Beyer, the pheasant breeder, after seeing dogs work in the marshes to put up the mutants says that he can see little difference between the behavior of the crafty, fast running ring neck and the dark mutant.

In visiting the pheasant preserve a few days ago it was interesting to check up on the hunting dogs being used. Because of the heavy cover through which visiting hunters must walk, and in which wing tipped birds drop, Beyer has found that a good retriever is indispensable.

When we arrived at the preserve the other day one of the boys was just coming in with a springer spaniel. This dog had been taken out for the sole purpose of combing the cover where several wounded birds had been dropped. Irish setters are utilized in the shooting up there. They are efficient stylish bird finders. But a good retriever, one that will locate a running pheasant, and swim a creek to pick up a duck or a jacksnipe, saves many a head of game

Spears Sends Badger Pilot to Third Team

Madison, Wis., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—With Capt. Jack Bender on the third team and new men in the back field, the Wisconsin football team today completed its intensive drills in preparation for the Notre Dame game at South Bend Saturday.

Mario Pacetti, regular tackle, was at guard; Jimmy Nellen was shifted from right to left tackle, and Paul Jensen, a sophomore, replaced him at right tackle.

Emmet Mortell, a half back, who was captain of the Notre Dame freshman team in 1932, was moved up to the first team and probably will start Saturday. The back field was completed by George Dehnert, quarter back; John Fish, right half back, and Eddie Jankowski, full back.

Howard Hanson, rangy Racine sophomore tackle, who was reported to have quit the squad because he wasn't taken on the Purdue trip, rejoined the team last night. It developed he had gone home because of the serious illness of his father, and that he had no intention of quitting football.

IRISH SEEK SPARK.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 24. — [Special.]—Still trying to restore the spark Notre Dame exhibited against Texas and Purdue, which was missing when the Irish defeated Carnegie Tech, 13 to 0, last Saturday, Coach Elmer Layden today drove the Notre Dame varsity through fundamentals, followed by a defensive drill against plays expected from Wisconsin Saturday.

Saturday's game, which marks the end of the home schedule, will be the eighth meeting between the two teams. Wisconsin won three times just after the turn of the century and again in 1928. Notre Dame won with its championship teams of 1924 and 1929. The teams played a tie in 1917.

Wally Fromhart was still at varsity quarter back today and will start in place of Bud Bonar Saturday, Layden said.

DRILL HOOSIER DEFENSE.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 24.—[Special.] — Indiana university's football squad drilled this afternoon on defensive measures aimed at stopping Oze Simmons and Dick Crayne, Iowa backs, when they come here Nov. 3 for the Indiana homecoming attraction.

Coach Bo McMillin, recovering from an attack of nervous indigestion, concluded the drill with work on blocking and timing of plays.

NORTHWESTERN, OHIO ALUMNI TO DINE TOMORROW

Alumni of Northwestern university and graduates of Ohio State residing in Chicago and vicinity will hold a joint luncheon tomorrow noon at the Interfraternity club, 106 South Wabash avenue. Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Francis Schmidt of Ohio State will be the principal speakers.

The alumni directory published by the Northwestern University club of Chicago will be presented at the luncheon. The directory contains a complete record of "N" men and the results of all athletic contests participated in by Northwestern teams.

Guest of honor will be Judge C. Collins, Northwestern's oldest living "N" man, who won his letter in baseball in 1872. President Walter Dill Scott and Harry Wells, newly appointed business manager, will speak.

LAKE FOREST AND MORGAN PARK TO MEET SATURDAY

When Lake Forest academy and Morgan Park Military academy meet Saturday afternoon before a homecoming crowd at Lake Forest the occasion will mark the 40th anniversary of football relations between the two schools. The series is now one of the oldest in preparatory school football. Arthur T. McIntosh, William S. Kline, Ralph S. Chandler, and William F. Jackson, all of Chicago and all members of the 1894 Lake Forest team, will witness the game.

Lloyd M. Bergen, former Lake Forest academy and Princeton university star, has returned to coach his prep alma mater this year after four years at Culver Military academy.

one of the best full backs on the coast and Layden is one of the leading half backs at Notre Dame. . . . Both are having a tough time because in one case the boy's father is coach and in the other it's his brother. . . . Both coaches lean backward to prevent charges of partiality toward their kin.

Northwestern has had enough of football trips to the coast. . . . Tug Wilson and Dick Hanley are convinced it is too far to go during the regular season. . . . Mount Carmel to Aid Loretto Academy Fund

Mount Carmel's football team will meet De La Salle in an east section game of the Chicago Catholic High School league at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. Proceeds will be turned over to the Loretto academy fund. Mount Carmel will be seeking to hand De La Salle its third consecutive defeat. In its three league games Mount Carmel has won two and was tied by St. George of Evanston last Sunday.

Mount Carmel has another charity game on its schedule, meeting St. Phillip at the lake front stadium Nov. 4 for the Sisters of Mercy fund. The game will not count in the league standings. In other east section games Sunday St. George will play Leo and Loyola will oppose St. Rita.

Lane Tech, resting on top of the north division of the City league with two victories and one tie, will meet Amundsen at the new Lane Tech field Saturday afternoon. It will be Amundsen's fifth sectional contest. It has won two of the four games played thus far.

Dick Hanley, Northwestern football coach, and Quin Ryan, W-G-N radio announcer, will speak at the St. Michael homecoming banquet at the school gymnasium, Hudson and North avenues, Nov. 4. Three Regulars Join De Paul Squad for Drill Scrimmage was ruled out yesterday to prevent further injuries as the De Paul university football squad held a long drill on pass defense. Western State, which will be met Saturday at Kalamazoo, possesses a dangerous air attack.

Western State appears to have one of its best teams. It whipped Carroll, 25 to 7. This was the same team the University of Chicago beat, 18 to 0. Last week-end Western State turned back the Iowa State Teachers, 7 to 0.

Particularly dangerous in the Western State lineup is Miller, a triple threat half back.

Marvin Casey, regular De Paul center, who was confined to the hospital with a throat infection, returned to practice yesterday with Walt Hehn, full back, and Butch Scanlon, tackle. It is not yet certain, however, that they will be in condition to play against Western State.

WEIGHT LIFTERS TO HOLD TOURNEY SATURDAY NIGHT

Thirty of the central states' leading performers will compete in the Illinois state invitational weight-lifting tournament to be held Saturday at 8 p. m. at the Mid-City Odd Fellows temple, 3350 West Jackson boulevard, under the auspices of the Chicago Weight-Lifting club.

U. of C. Alumni to Chortle in Earnest Today

The cheerful chortling and buzzing of University of Chicago alumni, which has been echoing about the town during the last two weeks, will be concentrated today at the Roosevelt room of the La Salle hotel, where the La Salle street coaching staf will hold its second annual luncheon at 12:15. More than 200 Chicago alumni, twice as many as attended last year's event, will gather to express their lack of consternation and chagrin.

Percy [Red] Graham, former Maroon quarter back, who is head coach of the downtown staf, announces that he and his assistants are ready to debate with Coach Clark Shaughnessy as to whether credit for the Michigan victory belongs to the Midway staf or to the Monday morning quarter backs. The attitude of the La Salle street group is that they are taking responsibility for the first four games of the season, while Shaughnessy takes responsibility for the last four games. Coach Shaughnessy and Prof. T. V. Smith will be among the speakers.

Sharp Scrimmage Held.

The Maroon football team, hardly in the mood for any banqueting, what with Missouri to get by this Saturday, and Purdue, Ohio State, Minnesota and Illinois to face on successive Saturday's thereafter, went through a sharp scrimmage yesterday, on both defense and offense, against a mixed team of freshmen and reserves.

Nelson Norgren, who scouted Missouri, thinks the Tigers will be most dangerous because of their speed. Their line, coached by Red Sleight, former Purdue tackle, is not a great deal lighter than Chicago's, but their backs lack weight. The Missouri team is expected to give Chicago a real test on pass defense, and in Angelo Carideo, brother of Coach Frank Carideo, former Notre Dame quarter back, and Joseph Angelo, they have a pair of fine punters, who can give Jay Berwanger an argument.

Tigers Seek First Victory.

The Tigers have not won a game this season, and they have scored only one touchdown in the last seven encounters. This has been chiefly due to inexperience, Norgren reports. Missouri tied Colorado, 0 to 0, lost to Iowa State, 13 to 0, and to the heavy St. Louis university team, which has a line averaging 206 and a backfield averaging 196, by 7 to 0.

The Maroons appeared yesterday in excellent physical shape, and the varsity backs, led by Berwanger, made satisfactory gains in both running and passing against the opposition.

LOCHNER JOINS TIGERS.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Art Lochiner, veteran half back, returned to the Missouri lineup today after an absence of three weeks with a knee injury. Lochiner, star punter and passer, limped but may be used in an emergency.

A rain soaked gridiron kept the Tigers indoors as they pointed for the Chicago game Saturday.

A leg injury kept Carroll Saldofsky, starting tackle, out of the heavy scrimmage.

Winnetka Girl Wins Place on Vassar's Hockey Team

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Miss Henrietta Voal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Voal of Winnetka, Ill., was named center half on the varsity hockey team at Vassar college today.

Bear and Packer Game to Present New Pro Stars

Four of the outstanding new players in the National Professional Football league will be on display Sunday when the Bears and Green Bay Packers meet at Wrigley field.

In the back field Beattie Feathers of the Bears, ground gaining leader of the league, will vie with Joe Laws, who has been a big factor in the success of Green Bay club this year. In the line the giant Ted Rosequist of the Bears will face Ade Schwammel, who won fame at Oregon State.

These four men were high in the voting in the national poll conducted to name the college all-star squad that met the Bears last August.

In Jack Manders the Bears now have the scoring leader of the league, with Feathers a close second. Manders has registered 45 points on 3 touchdowns, 3 field goals, and 18 points after touchdowns.

Manders' try for the extra point that hit the upright last Sunday in the game with Cincinnati was his only miss since he joined the Bears at the start of the 1933 season. In two years the former Minnesota full back has counted 35 points after touchdowns.

Feathers' scoring has been via the touchdown route exclusively, his total being 36 points.

DR. PAT MULLIGAN WILL WRESTLE ON COLISEUM CARD

Announcement was made yesterday that Dr. Patrick A. Mulligan will be on the supporting card to the Ed Don George-Joe Savoldi heavyweight wrestling match at the Coliseum Monday night. The California athletic commission recognizes him as the world's light heavyweight champion, and he will ask the Illinois commission to give him the same recognition when he appears before the members at the meeting Monday afternoon. His opponent will be George Tragos in a 30 minute engagement.

Yale-Army Battle May Draw 70,000

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Chiefly because of Yale's startling improvement under a new coaching régime this week's Yale-Army football game promises to draw the biggest crowd of the eastern season so far and to develop an aerial race for touchdowns.

Not since 1931 has the famous Yale bowl been filled to its capacity of 75,000 or have the Elis given the cadets anything resembling an old-time scrap in keeping with the best traditions of this rivalry.

There'll Be a Crowd.

There may be no connection between the two circumstances, but 70,000 may flock to New Haven this Saturday to see what Yale, featuring an air-minded backfield, can do about avenging the decisive defeat administered by Army's better-drilled forces in 1932 and 1933.

The game was installed as an annual fixture in 1921.

Of Army's last two brilliant elevens, Buckler and Capt. Joe Stancook, star blocking and plunging back, are the only outstanding survivors.

Army Line Is New.

The cadets have a rebuilt line which is likely to have trouble handling the fast charging Elis and their backfield will have to be on the alert to combat the Blue's overhead attack.

On the theory that the best way to beat the passing game is to throw longer and better aerials, Buckler and his passing understudy, Maurice Simons, will have instructions to open up any time Army is within scoring range.

FORDHAM SCRIMMAGES.

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Jim Crowley sent the Fordham squad, preparing for Southern Methodist, through an hour's scrimmage against the freshmen today. Capt. Les Borden, an end, was knocked out during the workout, but quickly recovered. Andy Palo worked at quarter back and may get the call over Freddie Harlow.

PENN STAR RECOVERS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 24.—(AP)—News that the skin infection on Lew Elverson's legs was yielding to treatment encouraged Pennsylvania's squad as it worked hard for the Navy game today. Elverson is the best punt receiver.

COLUMBIA SHOWS POWER.

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Columbia's regulars scored four times, twice on long passes, in a scrimmage with the freshmen today. Passing practice completed the drill for the Penn State game.

NAVY STRESSES ATTACK.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24.—(AP)—The Naval academy football team's running attack received a polishing for the University of Pennsylvania game today in a long dummy scrimmage against a "B" squad team.

TIGER REGULARS RECOVER.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Princeton scrubs, using Cornell power plays, got nowhere against the varsity, which gave a fine demonstration in a defensive scrimmage today. Dave Chamberlain and Gil Lea suffered minor injuries, but will be ready for Saturday's game with Cornell, assuring Fritz Crisler a squad at full strength for the first time this season.

WHITES WIN, 5-3, IN BLACKHAWK SCORING BATTLE

Bostrum in T. Coulter's Place at Defense.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—This was go as you please day for the world's champion Blackhawks at the University of Illinois rink.

The teams that opposed each other in Saturday's exhibition game, with the exception of Tom Coulter, lined up again today for a practice encounter. Helge Bostrum took Tom Coulter's place at defense alongside Art Coulter.

Today the Whites emerged victorious over the Blacks by a 5 to 3 score. It was not, however, a hocky game in any sense of the term. No attempt was made to call off sides or penalties and because of the derth of defense players, Manager Clem Loughlin would not permit any rough tactics.

March and Morenz each hit the nets twice. Couture, McFadyen, Cook, and Coulter made the other four markers. The White team had Levine in front of the nets, Bostrum and Coulter at defense, with Locking, Goldsworthy, Trudel, March, McFadyen, and Cook on the forward lines. Starke at goal, Burke and Wiebe at the defense posts, and Morenz, Gottselig, Couture, Metcalf, and Kendall, forwards, made up the Blacks' organization.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 24.—A brisk rally in United States government bonds on the stock exchange today imparted general strength to domestic corporation issues as foreign loans moved lower.

Total transactions in the listed bond market aggregating $18,204,000 represented the heaviest day's business since Sept. 4, while the dealings in issues of the United States government group amounting to $10,240,000 were the heaviest since Sept. 14.

HOLC Sale Aids Market.

News that the banking group headed by Field, Glore & Co. had sold all of the block of $50,000,000 Home Owners' Loan corporation 3 per cent bonds, due 1952, imparted strength to the market, as did the pound dollar stabilization plan urged by the American ambassador to the court of St. James. Gains in the government group ranged from 2 32ds to 14-32ds point, with the HOLC 3s moving up 8-32ds point and closing at 98 4-32ds.

A sizable list of domestic corporation bonds moved up from fractions to as much as 3 points. Railroad bonds advanced generally with carrier stocks in response to the ruling of the District of Columbia Supreme court holding the pension law enacted by the last congress as unconstitutional.

Industrials Narrow.

Price changes in industrial and utility bonds were small for the most part.

Foreign loans closed irregularly lower. French, Italian, Austrian, and Belgian government issues were fractionally easier. German government 7s dropped 1¾ points, while the 5½s were up ¼. British and Scandinavian loans were firm. Latin-American bonds showed minor irregularities.

Motor Wheel.

Investors' Guide: Would you kindly give me some facts and your opinion of the stock Motor Wheel which is listed on the New York Stock exchange?—M. J. F.

Answer: Motor Wheel corporation is one of the largest fabricators of automobile wheels in the country. This constitutes its major source of revenue. During recent years the company has gone into other lines in an attempt to make earnings independent of the fluctuating fortunes of the automobile trade. In addition to wheels it now manufactures steel beer barrels, whisky barrels, oil burners and pressed steel parts.

Steadily increasing automobile sales in the first half of 1934 resulted in net income of $609,000, or 72 cents per share, against $115,000, or 14 cents a share, for the first half of 1933. Second quarter earnings of 40 cents a share were the same as in the second quarter of 1933.

The four year record of earnings follows:

	Total. income.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1933	$1,200,000	$ 122,000	$ .14
1932	440,000	*1,187,000	*1.42
1931	1,093,000	*572,000	* .67
1930	2,605,000	987,000	1.17

*Net loss.

Labor troubles in the final 1933 quarter prevented a better showing for the year.

Current assets on June 30, 1934, including $526,000 cash, totaled $4,119,000 and current liabilities, including $450,000 notes payable, were $1,379,000. Working capital stood at $2,740,000, against $1,999,000 the year before.

Capitalization consists of 850,000 shares of $5 par capital stock on which nothing has been paid since Dec. 10, 1931.

Since the company supplies wheels for a diversified group of automobiles, including Chrysler, Plymouth, De Soto, Dodge, Hudson, Terraplane, Hupmobile, Reo, Buick, Oldsmobile, La Salle, and Packard, earnings should continue to fluctuate with the general rate of automobile production.

The stock is speculative at present.

In return you will receive three shares of United Aircraft corporation stock, three-fourths of one share of Boeing Airplane company stock and a voting trust certificate representing 1¼ shares of capital stock of United Air Lines Transport corporation.

FLOW OF GOLD AND CURRENCY TO U. S. IS HEAVY

Best Trade Balance in Years Reported.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—An inflow of $920,000,000 in gold and $30,000,000 in paper currency during the first six months of 1934, while exports exceeded imports by $173,000,000, left the United States with one of the most "favorable balances" in international trade and financial transactions reported in several years. Exports to foreign countries for the first half of the year totaled $1,036,000,000 and imports amounted to $863,000,000.

A relatively low ratio of stocks and bonds bought by Americans abroad compared with those sold by Americans in foreign markets was also reported, but the tremendous inflow of gold was the outstanding development.

First Six Month Survey.

These statistics were published today by the commerce department in the first six month survey ever issued. Heretofore it has been the custom to "strike a balance" once a year.

During the first six months of this year American stocks and bonds to the extent of $850,000,000 were sold to foreign investors, while Americans bought $625,000,000 of stocks and bonds from foreign countries.

Furthermore, the survey showed an inflow of short term banking funds amounted to $250,000,000, there being an increase in foreigners' banking funds in the United States and a decrease in United States banking funds in foreign countries.

Figures for 1933.

Total imports of merchandise during 1933 were $1,450,000,000, and the imports of gold amounted to $193,000,000. All exports of merchandise for 1933 were valued at $1,675,000,000.

The survey was conducted by Amos E. Taylor of the finanace and investment section of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. In his report, Taylor said that "the estimated net flow of capital funds, which also assumed large proportions during February, amounted to approximately $560,000,000, and, except for $85,000,000 involved in miscellaneous long term capital transactions, was about evenly divided between a net inflow of short-term banking funds and net dollar receipts by Americans in the purchase and sale of long term securities in the international markets." United States tourist expenditures abroad during the first six months of the year were estimated at $105,000,000.

PREDICT EARLY REAWAKENING OF PRIVATE BUILDING

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—The American Institute of Steel Construction today predicted that private construction was ready for a reawakening in the United States.

"If not checked by unforseen circumstances, it should develop rapidly," it was stated in the institute's annual report. "There is undoubtedly a tremendous pent-up demand.

"We have witnessed no private building of consequences during the last three years. Some new skyscrapers are being planned. Unoccupied space in urban centers is being leased. A slow absorption of present structures is reported."

It was pointed out that bridge building and public works constituted the chief activities of the steel industry in the last year and that the state of building in the country was such that "stable economic conditions in the United States would readily have its favorable repercussions" in the building field.

BARBO DENIES PRIVATE RIGHT TO PUBLIC FUNDS

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Clinton L. Barbo, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, today said, "In creating by a law a private right to publicly controlled funds . . . we will only reduce the efforts of individuals to provide for themselves and increase their willingness to rely on government for support."

The head of the New York Shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., speaking at a meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, said he referred to such measures as compulsory old age insurance and old age pensions.

"I believe," said Barbo, "that full recovery depends upon the effectiveness with which the industrial viewpoint is presented to those in authority and impressed upon the program of national policy to be formulated by the coming congress."

REPORTS RISING COSTS ENDANGER BATTERY MAKERS

Rising costs without compensating price increases are sapping resources of the battery manufacturing industry "to a point of absolute danger," E. D. Martin, president of the National Association of Battery Manufacturers, said yesterday in speaking before the organization's convention at the Hotel Sherman.

Martin expressed the opinion that further legislation will be enacted in the coming congress for the organizing of the industry under a program of long term planning. He is vice president and general manager of the Emark division of the Thomas A. Edison company, West Orange, N. J.

RAIL DISPUTE BOARD PLANS TO FUNCTION SOON

Progress was reported yesterday in the setting up of the organization of the National Railroad Adjustment board, which was created last July in accordance with the provisions of the railway labor act of 1934, despite lack of funds occasioned by the failure of congress to provide them.

D. W. Helt, chairman of the publicity committee of the board, said that he hoped to start hearing cases in dispute between railroad managements and union employés about Nov. 1. He said that members of the board, which has temporary quarters at 220 South State street, are meeting daily to iron out details of organization.

BUSINESS URGED TO TAKE CONTROL OF NEW DEAL

Organization of business is necessary to preserve the beneficial features of the New Deal and prevent further experimentation and socialization of industry, Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker and industrialist, stated yesterday before the convention of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers at the Medinah club.

He said that individual initiative is the only factor by which this nation can continue to progress. The emergency called for emergency experiments, knowing some measures would fail and others succeed. It is now time to consolidate the gains, he said.

JUDGE HOLDS RAIL PENSION LAW INVALID

Congress Exceeded Powers, He Rules.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—The railroad pension act approved by President Roosevelt last June as the first of the New Deal's experiments in social legislation, was declared unconstitutional today by Chief Justice Alfred A. Wheat of the Supreme court of the District of Columbia.

The railroad retirement board, administrator of the act, will appeal the case promptly, both the government and the railroads desiring to obtain a decision from the Supreme court of the United States as to the validity of the act.

Congress Exceeded Powers.

Chief Justice Wheat held that congress, in passing the act, had exceeded its powers under the commerce clause of the constitution.

"In the first place," he said, "the act is unconstitutional because it extends its provisions to persons not engaged in interstate commerce."

The chief justice said it seemed to him that congress exceeded its power to regulate interstate commerce when it attempted to make all employés of the railroads beneficiaries under the act, making no distinction between those engaged in interstate commerce and those not so engaged.

Many employés of railroads, the court pointed out, performed services that had no relation to interstate commerce.

Retroactive Clause Attacked.

The other chief fault the court found with the act from a constitutional viewpoint was that congress attempted to extend its benefits to hundreds of thousands of men who had left the service of the railroads before the date of enactment, provision having been made that employés in service within a year before enactment should be pensioned.

"The evidence discloses that about 143,000 men left the service of the railroads during that year and were not in such service on date of enactment and that of this number approximately 80,000 probably will not return to the railroad service," Justice Wheat said. "Some of these men were dismissed for the good of the service. I can see no reasonable relation between giving these men the benefits of the act and the regulation of interstate commerce."

See Bill of Four Billions.

The court further found ground for invalidity in provisions extending pensions to employés for services performed years before the effective date of the act. If present employés of the railroads were retired at age 65, the court said, the evidence showed that the gross annuities that would have to be paid to them for services rendered prior to enactment of the law would amount to over four billion dollars.

"To require the plaintiffs to contribute sums of money to be devoted to the payment of pensions or annuities based upon services long since completed and fully paid for seems to me to take their property without due process of law," he said.

The court said a decree would be entered granting the relief prayed for by the railroads, which asked that an injunction against enforcement of the act be entered.

OPINION IS MIXED ON STABLE MONEY PLEA OF BINGHAM

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—While opinion differed, some Wall street foreign exchange circles today saw deep significance in the plea of the American ambassador to Great Britain for stabilization of the dollar and the pound.

It was suggested that it might have been more impressive if such a plan had emanated from the British ambassador to the United States, for the British are believed to be the less anxious of the two major monetary powers to stabilize. But with the gold bloc showing fresh signs of deterioration since their conference at Brussels last week to discuss measures of mutual aid, world monetary uncertainties have been further accentuated.

Should real difficulties develop within the gold bloc, some foreign exchange quarters suggest, a stable dollar-pound rate would undoubtedly tend to minimize unsettling repercussions.

Whether Robert W. Bingham, ambassador from the United States, was expressing anything more than a personal opinion when in an address at Edinburgh yesterday he urged a stable dollar and pound was not known in Wall street, and Washington failed to shed any definit light on the subject.

WOODCUTTERS' STRIKE CRIPPLES PAPER INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COCHRANE, Ont., Oct. 24.—Definitly refusing mediation offers of the Ontario government, three thousand striking woodsmen have crippled the major portion of northern Ontario's pulp and paper industry. They raided the camps of workers brought in to keep the plants going and threatened to cause a winter close down of an industry upon which scores of thousands of families are dependent for livelihood. Nineteen hundred Abitibi Pulp and Paper company wood cutters are among the strikers.

Seventy-five per cent of the strikers are non-English speaking. Alleged communist leadership is disturbing provincial authorities. Battles fought around the lumber camps between strikers and workers have given the situation the aspect of civil warfare. In some of the areas the strikes are entering their fourth and fifth week. An eight hundred mile front is held by the strikers.

Freight Car Pool Is Urged by Eastman

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Railroads were advised today by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, that they could save approximately 100 million dollars a year if they would pool the operation of their ordinary box cars. The coördinator recently informed President Roosevelt he would recommend pooling.

In a report forwarded to the three regional railroad coördinating committees, Eastman and his staf recommended creation of a corporation by the Association of American Railroads to control the box cars owned by the railroads, so that cars could be interchanged without excessive hauling of empty cars.

The coördinator's staf, headed by O. C. Castle, estimated that excessive empty mileage hauling—getting cars back to owners' lines—caused needless expenditure of $75,000,000 a year.

Exclude Special Purpose Cars.

The pooling plan, as recommended, would not include special purpose cars, such as automobile, furniture, and compartment merchandise cars.

The proposed corporation would have as directors the board of the Association of American Railroads. For the purpose of distribution of cars, the country would be divided into five districts, each under the supervision of a manager, with headquarters at Boston, Mass., Cleveland, O., Atlanta, Ga., Chicago, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo.

Regional coördinating committees will take the pooling proposal up with the carriers, and the coördinator said he expected the plan would be adopted voluntarily.

Roads to Keep Title.

Title to the cars would remain with their present owners until such time as they elect not to replace equipment and the pool has cars built.

The ultimate object of the pool would be to acquire ownership of cars assigned to it, together with necessary facilities for repairing them and to assume full responsibility for providing and maintaining a car supply adequate for the needs of shippers on all participating railroads.

Owners of the cars would be compensated on the basis of the appraised value of equipment, and the pool would maintain them. Daily rentals would be collected by the pool to meet fixed costs of ownerships, and the cost of repairs and operating expense of the pool would be prorated among participating railroads on the basis of car mileage.

It was estimated that there were 2,500,000 box cars meeting the pool requirements. While the proposal by the coördinator suggested that the railroads voluntarily agree to the arrangement, it was added that, should it become necessary for the coördinator to issue an order or for congress to pass a law requiring such a pool, some minor changes might be necessary in the plan.

CASTLE, FOUR OTHER FIRMS PAY EXTRA DIVIDENDS

An extra dividend of $1 a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share were voted yesterday by directors of A. M. Castle & Co., iron and steel merchandisers.

At the same time the company reported net operating profit of $54,786 for the quarter ended Sept. 30 after provision for depreciation and estimated federal taxes. The net income is equal to 46 cents a share. In the comparable quarter last year the company reported net operating profit of $49,923, or 42 cents a share.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30 net operating profit was $217,306, equal to $1.81 a share, as compared with $4,354 or 3 cents a share in 1933.

Extra dividends also were declared by four more companies. Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company declared an extra of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 12½ cents on the common stock, both payable Dec. 1. A statement issued by the company said payment of the extra disbursement "is justified at this time, based solely on actual earnings to date and estimated earnings for the balance of this year."

Bristol-Myers company declared the usual extra dividend of 10 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable Dec. 1.

Caterpillar Tractor company declared an extra dividend of 50 cents a share and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable Nov. 30.

Monsanto Chemical company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share and the regular quarterly payment of 25 cents a share, payable Dec. 15. In December last year an extra of 75 cents a share was paid.

Bonus Money Not Preferred Claim on Bank, Court Rules

In a decision handed down yesterday, the Illinois Supreme court held that bonus money deposited by a world war veteran in the Stony Island State Savings bank, 6760 Stony Island avenue, now closed, does not constitute a preferred claim. The court ruled that the veteran, Edwin C. Kuhn, who deposited $400 in the bank, is only an ordinary creditor and has no special status. The decision upheld the Appelate court's reversal of the finding of the Cook County Superior court.

RAILS FEATURE SHARP RALLY IN STOCK PRICES

Ruling on Pension Law Starts Rise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 24.—Word of the District of Columbia Supreme court decision holding the railway pension act unconstitutional started a sharp rally on the stock exchange in the late trading today.

Leading carrier issues spurted from 1 to 5 points as orders for big blocks of shares came pouring in from brokerage offices throughout the country. Buying spread to equipments and quickly broadened out to include virtually the whole list.

The rally gained momentum rapidly in the last few minutes of trading and the closing gong found the ticker racing along in a manner that gave the speculative fraternity the first thrill it has had since official Washington put a quietus on the last inflation rally two or three weeks ago. Volume totaled 770,000 shares, or nearly half again as large as yesterday.

Await President's Speech.

The "good news" on the pension ruling found the ground for recovery tilled by a growing belief that President Roosevelt's address to the bankers at the nation's capital tonight would be calculated to inspire some real confidence in business and financial circles, particularly on the score of monetary matters.

The sharp advance in railroad stocks which followed the announcement of the pension law decision and Coördinator Eastman's suggestion of a pool of freight cars is shown in the following table of common stocks:

Railroad.	Low.	Last.	Day's net gain.

Gold, Silver Shares Rebound.

Western Union Up on Merger Plan.

Western Union advanced 2½ points to 35⅝ on the announcement that the federal communications commission would investigate the advisability of consolidating this company with the Postal Telegraph subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph company. Stocks of the two last named companies ruled firm.

Gold and silver shares have been reflecting the supposedly receding threat of fresh monetary inflation for a week or more now. The metals were dragged ahead with the rest of the market today, however, such issues as United States Smelting, Noranda, Alaska Juneau, and McIntyre rising a half to more than a point.

Aircraft stocks reflected the smashing of records in the London-Melbourne race. Douglas was a feature of the group rising about a point. Wright spurted a couple of points on light turnover.

National Biscuit was a weak feature on its unsatisfactory earnings report. Its sinking spell upset the foods in the early trading, but they braced up somewhat with the general market in the later trading. Merchandise stocks met with good demand and the utilities followed the trend.

RATE ON FEDERAL LOANS TO RAILS MAY BE REDUCED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Railroads that obtain equipment loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation in the coming year probably will get the benefit of lowest interest rates, President Roosevelt indicated today. He said he thought that interest on such loans, heretofore placed at 4¼ per cent, might be reduced to as low as 3½ per cent.

At the Wednesday press conference Mr. Roosevelt indicated that at least a few weeks would elapse before he appoints a governor of the federal reserve board or a new chairman of the national labor relations board. The President declined to discuss Ambassador Bingham's speech at Glasgow, Scotland, yesterday, in which the latter suggested that Great Britain and the United States might embark upon stabilization work.

Sue for Yosemite Park Stock Worth $300,000

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Trial of the suit of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Williams of Quincy, Ill., to obtain Yosemite National Park company preferred stock valued at $300,000 will begin here tomorrow or Friday, Attorney Lloyd W. Dinkespeil announced today. Dinkespeil said the suit seeks to compel the Yosemite National Park company to transfer the stock to them. They allege it is theirs under terms of the contract merging the Yosemite National company and the Curry Camping company in 1925.

Federal Rule Is Opposed by Truck Group

A stand against the placing of the trucking industry under federal control was taken yesterday by the American Trucking association at its annual convention at the Stevens hotel. The closing session was enlivened by a controversy between the major part of the association and a group of westerners who favored faderal control as a substitute for the trucking code.

Following the fight on the floor the delegates adopted a resolution, presented by William G. Fitzpatrick, Detroit, chairman of the policy committee, reading in part:

"It shall be the policy of the American Trucking association to coöperate with the federal coördinator and the administration in the development of an economically sound national transportation policy, at the same time preserving and continuing for the industry the benefits of self-regulation under the code of fair competition for the trucking industry, and further to preserve for the public the economies and flexibility of motor transportation."

Asks Federal Control.

The western group, which was headed by Leland James of Portland, Ore., presented a resolution favoring federal control. James asserted that a majority in the common carrier division, which he represented, favored federal control as a means of stabilizing the industry.

Speakers opposing the proposition asserted that placing the trucking industry under federal control would be playing into the hands of the railroads, which have been trying to bring about such a situation.

H. D. Horton of Charlotte, N. C., said that the railroads have been trying to saddle some of the burdens they have been carrying on the trucks, and insisted that if the trucking industry is forced to submit to federal control it will suffer.

James, speaking on behalf of his measure, which he later withdrew, stated that the code had been thrust upon the industry and that its effect had been to increase expenses without returning proper compensatory benefits.

Rate Structure Opposed.

With other delegates, James expressed opposition to the rate structure provided in the code, saying it was impracticable. This is based on a "cost formula" put into effect six days ago. Under the formula the various trucking companies establish rates based on the cost of their services which are submitted to the code authorities. The latter level off the rates submitted to what they consider are fair charges.

The association passed a resolution in which it was resolved that the A. T. A. do everything in its power to have the trucking code amended to include a system of fixed rates as the code first submitted by the industry provided.

In other resolutions President Roosevelt and congress were asked to repeal the 1 cent a gallon federal tax on gasoline.

Ted V. Rodgers was reëlected president of the association and Chester Moore, a Chicagoan, was elected a vice president.

ILLINOIS BELL PROFIT SHARPLY UNDER LAST YEAR

The Illinois Bell Telephone company yesterday reported a sharp reduction in earnings for the first nine months of the year from the corresponding period of 1933. The company's statement showed net profit of $4,183,789 for the period, against $7,649,467 last year. Various financial adjustments made necessary by the United States Supreme court's decision ordering the refund of $20,000,000 to coin box subscribers are reflected in the statement.

The adjustments include a reduction in local service revenues by the amount to be refunded, a cut in depreciation expense of a similar amount, provision for interest on the funds to be refunded, and a reduction in uncollectible revenues.

Total revenues reported by the company for the nine months were $40,428,226, compared with $54,770,719 in the same period last year. Dividends of $3,000,000 were paid during the period, compared with $9,000,000 in 1933. Payments were made in the first quarter only this year. As a result of the smaller disbursements, $1,183,789 remained after dividends, against a deficit of $1,350,533 after dividends in 1933.

BANKERS' ACCEPTANCE RATE CUT TO 1-16 PCT. TO ALL TIME LOW MARK

New York, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Open market rates for bankers' acceptances were cut today for the first change since April 19. The new rates established a record low for official quotations.

Dealers explained that business had been carried on for some time at less than official rates. Demand from banks and other investors for bills continues strong and well in excess of the supply of paper. Some new bills are now coming into the market for commodity financing but most of them are being retained by the accepting banks.

Quotations set today by the American acceptance council are 1-16 of 1 per cent lower up to 120 days' maturities. Bills of 30, 60 and 90 days are quoted 3-16 per cent bid, ⅛ per cent asked; 120 day bills, 5-16 per cent bid, ¼ per cent asked; 150 and 180 day bills unchanged at ½ per cent bid, ⅜ per cent asked.

BARUCH BLAMES DEPRESSION ON LOW MONEY RATE

New York, Oct. 24.—Bernard M. Baruch lays direct blame for the "economic disasters that still afflict the world" on the lowering of the rediscount rate in 1927. Writing in the current issue of Today's magazine, the financier relates:

"On a day in 1927, two bankers discussed the bank rate — Montagu Norman of the Bank of England and Bnejamin Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. They agreed that it should be reduced. It was reduced, to 3.5 for rediscounts, and with that action began the economic disasters that still afflict the world.

"We think of October, 1929—five years ago next Monday—as the beginning of the greatest of all crises. We are wrong. What happened on Black Tuesday was the toppling of the crazy structure of credit inflation whose erection we started when the rediscount rate was changed, two years before.

"For the last five years," Baruch continues, "we have ben asking ourselves how and why all this has come about, but even in the depths of despair, we would not let ourselves believe it was true. Some say our ancient system has broken down. It hasn't. In our madness, we loaded it beyond its capacity to carry."

TELLS OF SHARP DROP IN CHICAGO ELECTRIC RATE

E. W. Lloyd, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, yesterday in the rate reduction hearing before Commissioner Charles E. Byrne of the Illinois Commerce commission gave testimony showing that electricity rates to Chicago customers have decreased from 10.17 cents a kilowatt hour in 1908 to 4.43 cents in 1933.

The utility is defending the reasonableness of the present charges. It was cited some months ago to show cause why its rates should not be revised downward.

John F. Gilchrist, another vice president, testified to the efficient and economic manner in which the company is run. Harry R. Booth, attorney for the commission, asked Gilchrist, who also heads the Commercial Safe Deposit company, which owns the Edison building at the northeast corner of Clark and Adams streets, what rent was charged the Edison company.

Gilchrist said the rent was $3.15 to $3.20 a square foot.

"We will go into the reasonableness of that later," Booth replied. the hearing will be resumed today.

FIELD SUFFERS QUARTER LOSS; PROFIT IN 1933

Sales Decline 4.4 Pct. from Last Year.

Marshall Field & Co. and subsidiaries operated at a loss of $175,000 in the three months ended Sept. 30, compared with a profit of $355,900 in the corresponding months of 1933, according to the company's quarterly report issued last night by John McKinlay, president.

Sales for the period totaled $23,665,800, a moderate gain over the first and second quarters of this year but a decline of 4.4 per cent from the $24,745,600 volume handled in the third quarter last year.

President McKinlay in his report contrasted the conditions prevailing in the third quarter this year and in 1933. He pointed out that last year the company's business was showing striking increases as a result of the buying panic caused by fears of inflation and the added impetus given to the business of retail stores by the World's Fair.

Conditions Reversed.

"None of these things obtained this year—in fact the reverse was true in every case," Mr. McKinlay said. "Business was harder to get and profits more difficult to show. We are encouraged that sales were only 4.4 per cent less than those of the third quarter last year."

The problem of rising costs also played a part in the company's showing. "As manufacturers," Mr. McKinlay said, "we have been forced to bear the continued increased costs, but have not been able to secure either sufficiently increased volume or prices to make the proper showing in that part of our business. Activities of the textile mills have been considerably less than during the summer of 1933, when they were running to capacity."

Inventories Estimated.

Mr. McKinlay explained that according to the company's usual practice physical inventory is taken only twice a year. As a result third quarter figures are based on estimated inventories and subject to revision.

The following table shows the company's net results during the last four quarterly periods and the comparable periods of the preceding years:

	1933.	1932.
4th quarter	†$1,518,000	†$ 123,700

Total	$96,663,500	$84,634,000	+14.2%

Mr. McKinlay reviewed the changes made in the Davis store and said that the increased business of this division was the result largely of the improvements made.

GOLD CURRENCIES LOSE TO DOLLAR; POUND ADVANCES

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The dollar gained against the French franc and other European gold currencies today, while the British pound continued its upward trend with an increase of 2 cents to $4.98½.

French francs lost ¾ point, with the close at 6.60¼ cents, while the value of the dollar in terms of the franc was 59.34 cents, compared with 59.27 cents yesterday.

Canadian dollars gained ⅛ cent, with the close at $1.02. The German mark dropped 6 points to 40.32 cents, the Italian lira eased ½ point to 8.58 cents, the Swiss franc slipped 3 points to 32.67 cents, and the Dutch florin fell 14 points to 67.78 cents.

Bullion brokers in London reduced the price of gold 5 pence to 139 shillings 10 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $34.69, based on the opening of sterling at $4.96⅛. Bars valued at $2,813,029 changed hands.

Three Eastern Railroads Report Increase in Trafic

Increases in railway freight trafic last week over the preceding week were reported yesterday by the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central. Loadings of each, however, were below a year ago. The totals were: Pennsylvania, 88,361 against 85,285 a week ago and 91,545 a year ago; Baltimore & Ohio, 40,785, against 39,286 and 43,054; and New York Central, 92,828 against 90,897 and 99,197.

Expect Sharp Break in Oil Prices Today

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 24.—(AP)—A definite break in midcontinent crude oil prices, the first in more than a year, was forecast in informal but positive manner by some midcontinent executives tonight. "I have heard nothing to alter my conviction the price will be cut tomorrow," said one leader. His firm purchases hundreds of thousands of barrels monthly and operates on a nation-wide scale.

The Atlas Pipe Line company, a comparatively small unit, is the only company that has actually cut prices. This firm, buying 6,000 of the 500,000 barrels of oil produced daily in east Texas, reduced its posted price from $1 to 60 cents.

A new gravity scale up to 65 or 70 cents may be general by tomorrow night. Prices range now up to $1.14.

Meanwhile, a federal tender board swung into action to curb movement of illegally produced Texas oil, and the railroad commission of that state prepared an order calling for a shutdown of all producers.

Believe Government Helpless.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Oil men and federal oil officials agreed today there was no definite step the government might take to end the slashing of gasoline prices which for weeks has cut millions from the oil industry's income. The government is represented as eager that the price wars should be halted, but feels that it is entirely up to the industry to put its own house in order.

MOVE FOR PEACE HERE.

An indication that peace in the gasoline price war in the Chicago district may be in the offing came yesterday with an announcement by L. M. Foster, president of the Chicago Individual Branded Petroleum association, that three committees of his association are functioning to effect price stabilization.

Gasoline prices charged by members of the association will be within a half cent of or at the same level as the prices charged by the major companies, Foster said.

The prices at which the independents aim as 11.4 cents a gallon for third grade gasoline, 12.3 cents for regular gasoline, and 13.8 cents for high test.

JONES DEMANDS BANKS INCREASE THEIR LENDING

Declares U. S. Loans May Be Expanded.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Jesse H. Jones, who, as head of the government's Reconstruction Finance corporation, controls one-fourth of the total capital of banks in the United States, today demanded that banks expand their loans, even though that might mean inability to pay all depositors on the line in the event of a run.

Jones made this demand in an address before the convention of the American Bankers' association. His listeners, hundreds of whom represent banks controled by the RFC through stock ownership, listened with intense interest to the new theories of banking expounded by the head of the RFC.

Says U. S. May Lend More.

Banks, he said, are still striving too much for liquidity. He complained that they weren't willing enough to make loans of the long term, slow type. Only by lending more freely, he said, could they increase employment. He said that unless the banks were willing to loosen up they would force the government further into the lending business.

The RFC, he said, stood ready to lend money to banks and to buy their preferred stock or notes. Furthermore, he said, the pressure applied to bankers by hard boiled examiners who write down their slow loans should be eased. He proposed that, instead of having separate stafs of examiners periodically going through the banks for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, the RFC, the controler of the currency, and the federal reserve system, one examination suffice for all.

Prefers Slow Loans.

"Credit simply must flow if our relief rolls are to decrease," said Jones. "It is far better to make some slow loans than to continue liquidation and increase unemployment.

"We sometimes hear bankers say that they do not want to lend because they do not know with what kind of money they will be paid. I wonder if they expect the dollar in the vault to be any better than the dollar at interest.

"The feeling generally is that you are willing to make loans, but only on collateral that few possess."

Many bankers in the audience were surprised at the tone of Chairman Jones' remarks. Only recently he had stated in an address that the failure of bank credit to expand was due not to unwillingness of banks to lend, but of disinclination of their customers to go into debt.

Would Forget Liquidity.

In today's talk, however, he argued that liquidation of old slow loans was as deflationary as unwillingness to make new slow loans. With the RFC and the federal reserve banks ready to supply funds to the banks if needed and the bank examiners soft pedaling their appraisals of assets, he reasoned it was high time for the bankers to make longer term loans and forget liquidity.

"We are all too prone to liquidity, which in large measure is a myth," he said. "We kid ourselves when we think we could pay our depositors on short notice—that is, any considerable number at any one time.

"We tried that involuntarily two years ago and wound up with a nation-wide bank holiday. Why not be frank and admit that in the very nature of things there can be only a

GRAIN PRICES FLUCTUATE WITH WORLD CHANGES

Trade Here Hits Stage Near Stagnation.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain market has reached a stage of near stagnation, relieved only now and then by a sudden burst of activity inspired by some political development or a shift in the foreign market situation, which theoretically should not concern American prices. The degree to which foreign events do influence the course of prices here is indicative of the difficulty that any nation has in trying to divorce itself from the rest of the world in matters of economics that transcend national boundary lines.

As far as this country is concerned it is agreed that there are present nearly all the elements that go to make up an active trade in farm commodities. The element that is missing, however, and which gives little promise of reasserting itself, is speculative trading.

Confusion Cuts Trading.

This is perhaps not so much due to fear of direct government interference as to confusion in the minds of the traders themselves, which has let trading fall to its present volume. A suspicion that the old market rules will not work has taken away the courage of the speculator and he waits for somebody else who feels the same way to take the lead.

Trading yesterday on the Board of Trade was in keeping with the current market pattern. Volume was light and not so much attention was given to domestic conditions as to the events of the moment in the foreign markets.

Wheat as well as other grains was a little higher, reflecting for the most part the moderate gains recorded in other markets. December wheat futures advanced a half cent to 98⅛ cents a bushel and other contracts were up ⅜ to ¾ cents. Corn futures moved up a quarter of a cent and the December contract closed at 75⅛ cents a bushel. Rye brought slightly better prices and oats futures were irregular within a narrow price range.

Relationship Is Real.

The relationship of domestic prices to foreign markets is a real one. Already oats and rye have been imported in considerable quantities, and the prospect of further importations of grains hinges on the price relationship. Should the spread between domestic and foreign prices widen to a place where the tarif wall could be hurdled by other foreign grains such competition would inevitably develop.

Thus while the United States will neither export nor import wheat, except special grades, the price in this country is definitly tied to the world despite the high duties in force.

PRESENT HOME MODERNIZATION STUNT AT FAIR

Shack Transformed Into Cottage in Six Hours.

BY AL CHASE.

World's Fair visitors yesterday saw an actual demonstration of what can be done to modernize a dwelling unfit for human habitation when the Metropolitan Housing council of Chicago, under the auspices of the Federal Housing Administration, rebuilt a shack formerly at 1817 Federal street into an attractive Cape Cod type cottage in six hours. The first nail was driven at 9 a. m. by James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, who came from Washington, D. C., to help put over the modernization stunt.

Six hours later, at 3 p. m., with the exterior of the nearly one hundred year old house shining in a new covering of white painted siding with green trim, and topped with a modern roof, Mr. Moffett and other FHA officials and World's Fair dignitaries formally dedicated the structure to a rejuvenated career.

Stands by Old Shack.

It will stand on its present site, in the model home section of the Fair, beside an old shack, a striking example of what modernization can do. It will be open for inspection daily until the close of the Fair when it will be moved to a new and temporary site on Wacker drive, probably near Wabash avenue, and used as the headquarters of the Chicago committee of the local FHA.

Yesterday's "Home Modernization day" at the World's Fair was originated by J. P. Young, exhibition director for FHA in Washington, D. C., and a former Chicagoan. Oscar W. Rosenthal, Chicago contractor, was in charge of the 127 workmen who rushed the modernization job. He used forty-seven carpenters, twenty-five laborers, twenty painters, ten interior decorators, eight plumbers, eight roofers, four steam fitters, three electricians, and two bricklayers.

Former Tenants Present.

In the crowds which stood and watched Chicago workmen transform the ruin into a trim cottage were several members of families which have lived in the building. Among them was Mrs. Elizabeth Maur, who was born in the house forty-seven years ago yesterday. Her sister, Mrs. Agnes Ward, who was the first of a family of twelve born in the house, also was present. They are daughters of Alexander and Elizabeth Hughes.

Mr. Moffett was guest of honor at a luncheon tendered him by the Association of Commerce at the Stevens hotel attended by 1,200. Last evening Mr. Moffett and Albert L. Deane, deputy FHA administrator, were guests at a dinner held in the trustees' lounge of the Hall of Science building at the World's Fair. Homer Buckley delivered the principal address of the evening, outlining the work of FHA.

WIRE MERGER HEARINGS WILL START ON DEC. 3

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(AP)—Within a month after the new congress meets, it will get recommendations from the communications commission about merging telegraph and telephone companies. The commission announced today that it would start hearings Dec. 3 and make a report to congress by Feb. 1. Although the law does not directly instruct such a study, it does ask the commission to consider possible amendments to the 1934 communications act.

Particular attention will be paid in the study to the telegraph field where the law forbids mergers. Telephone companies may merge with the permission of the commission.

The commission today quoted from a report of W. M. W. Splawn, now a member of the interstate commerce commission, to the house interstate commerce committee in which he said that if permission for consolidation "is granted, congress should carefully consider the effects upon the future development of telegraphy and of the substitution of a monopoly for the existing competition."

NRA APPROVES SERVICE CHARGE IN BANKING CODE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—The right of banks to insist on adequate active checking accounts and in lieu of that to make proper charges to reimburse the bank for the cost of its services was recognized by the NRA today, following a conference between officers of the NRA and members of the banking code committee.

It was agreed also to eliminate from the code article VIII., which permits regional agreements as to uniform banking hours, maximum interest rates and matters of computing them, service charges and the requirement that trust companies conform to the operating rules of the American Bankers association.

The conferees agreed that the amount of service charges to be levied against depositors was a matter for the determination of individual banks or groups of banks depending upon conditions in the communities served.

Women Plan Meeting to Aid Better Housing Program

Chicago and suburban women, prominent in civic affairs, headed by Miss Amelia Sears, general chairman of the women's division of the Chicago Better Housing program, yesterday asked the coöperation of James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, in developing plans for a mass meeting to be staged about Nov. 12 at the Hotel Sherman. The meeting is to acquaint homemakers with the federal housing program.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, but it developed that a sale of 18,000 bags of excess quota Philippines was concluded to a local refiner for mid-November arrival at 2.55c delivered, the lowest price ever recorded here for delivered sugar. This sugar, however, cannot be used for consumption before the first of next year as the Philippine quota already has been filled for 1934.

Futures were less active and prices while generally steady moved within narrow limits. Final prices were 2 points higher to 1 net lower. Sales, 15,600 tons.

July	1.79	1.79	1.78	1.79	1.78
September	1.82	1.83	1.82	1.83	1.82

In refined prices were unchanged at 4.65c for fine granulated, but the undertone was easier owing to the unsettlement in raws.

[Note—The processing tax on raw sugar is ½c a pound. Refined sugar prices include the tax.]

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(AP)—COFFEE—Was quiet but steady today influenced principally by covering and Brazilian buying in the December Santos position. Continued dullness of the actual and a holiday in Rio restricted trading otherwise.

Santos opened 1 to 2 points higher and closed 2 points higher to 2 points lower. Sales, 7,000 bags. No. 7 opened nominal and closed 1 to 3 points higher. Sales, 2,000 bags. Closing quotations:

ELECTRIC POWER PRODUCTION UP 6% LAST WEEK

Production of electricity in the United States last week was 6 per cent above the preceding week and 3 per cent over the corresponding period last year, compared with a 2.3 per cent gain in the preceding week. In the Chicago area power output was .9 per cent above a year ago, against a gain of .2 per cent in the preceding week.

Production for the nation totaled 1,667,505,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,656,864,000 in the preceding week, Edison Electric institute announced yesterday. The total for the Chicago district was 104,076,000 kilowatt hours, against 100,897,000 in the preceding week and 103,143,000 a year ago, according to Commonwealth Edison company.

The gain here was greater than normal and, with the exception of the first two weeks of February, is the highest reported this year. The good showing is attributed partly to expansion in the industrial demand.

Following are the output and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district:

Wk. ended—	1934.	1933.	Pct. chge.
Oct. 20	104,076,000	103,143,000	+0.9
Oct. 13	100,897,000	100,663,000	+0.2
Oct. 6	101,231,000	99,435,000	+1.8
Sept. 29	100,732,000	101,429,000	–0.7

Only one region reported a loss from a year ago. This was New England, which lost 4.4 per cent.

Regions reporting gains over a year ago with comparisons of changes for the preceding week follow: Middle Atlantic, 3 per cent against a rise of 2.8 per cent; central industrial, 1.3 against a loss of 0.8 per cent; west central, 5.6 per cent against a gain of 6.5 per cent; southern states, 9.2 per cent against 5.2 per cent; Rocky mountain, 7.3 per cent against 3.6 per cent, and Pacific coast, 4.6 per cent against 9.2 per cent.

Jesse Jones Tells Bankers They Must Expand Loans

relatively small percentage of actual liquidity if everybody runs at the same time? A few could be smart and run out if they were willing selfishly to disregard the general welfare.

Urges Bank Leniency.

"We have already had too many statutory moratoriums and the way to avoid more of them is for bankers and other lenders to continue to show leniency and display an attitude of friendliness toward deserving and honest debtors until conditions improve."

Jones urged the coöperation of banks with the RFC in making industrial loans, the local bank participating in the loan with the RFC and sharing with that body in the security and repayments.

"Long time credits," he said, "are absolutely necessary to get things moving—credits running two, three, or possibly up to five years—and much of it can properly be furnished by the banks. The investment market will return, but in the meantime banks and the government must take its place."

Criticizes Country Banker.

He criticized the country banker's taking the cue from the city banker and suggested that congress investigate the matter of interlocking directorates and "control by influence."

Jones suggested amendment of the banking laws to limit the amount of deposits that a bank be permitted to take to eight times its capital. Yesterday Leo T. Crowley, head of the Deposit Insurance corporation, suggested a 10 to 1 ratio.

To date, he reported, the RFC has authorized the purchase of 1 billion 166 million dollars of stock and notes in 6,743 banks.

"The job is well on its way to completion," he said, "though there are still a few hundred banks that need more capital. I suggest that the directors of all banks reëxamine their institutions during the next thirty or forty days, being perfectly frank with themselves as to doubtful items and replenish their bank capital either through local or RFC funds.

"Banks that have no immediate need for cash, but would like to strengthen their capital, may invest in our 2 per cent government guaranteed debentures, where the purchase is made in connection with the sale of preferred stock."

Although the RFC has already authorized loans totaling one billion dollars to closed banks, he said that he hoped to make further advances to some of these institutions.

Two Big Jobs Remain.

The two big jobs still confronting the RFC, Jones said, are some necessary assistance to the railroads and the "reëstablishment of a nation-wide market for sound real estate mortgages."

The "reguar" candidates for the top positions in the American Bankers' association were elected unanimously today. Opposition which had split the ranks of the A. B. A. a few weeks ago had died out. Rudolf S. Hecht, chairman of the Hibernia National bank of New Orleans, was elected president; Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank of Washington, D. C., vice president, and Tom K. Smith, president of the Boatman's National bank and former assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, second vice president. This practically insures that Fleming will be president of the A. B. A. next year and Smith two years hence.

In an address before the savings division, Henry S. Kingman of the Farmers and Mechanics Savings bank, Minneapolis, declared that government competition in the banking field is making it more difficult to attract private capital to investments. He predicted lower interest rates on savings in the near future.

STEEL BOOKINGS GAIN; OUTPUT RISES TO 24.5%

Steel bookings revealed a slight gain last week, with a resulting rise of 1 point to 24½ per cent of production capacity for the industry, Iron Age says. The market has a steadier tone, attributed to reassuring statements of the administration, but purchasing remains extremely cautious and consists principally of spot orders to balance stocks.

Mill schedules have been erratic due to buying of consumers only when imperative with the result that mill costs have mounted. To overcome this difficulty certain steel companies are now stocking larger quantities of standard products.

Although gloom hanging over the automobile trade has lifted somewhat the outlook for new model production remains uncertain. Automotive foundries are beginning to turn out castings for new cars, but steel orders are not likely to reach the mills in substantial volume until early next month, with December delivery specified on most orders. According to present indications assemblies next month will fall short of 100,000 units.

Tin plate production remains at 40 per cent of capacity, but is gradually giving way under seasonal influences.

Structural awards during the week were the largest since the last week of August, totaling 22,100 tons, compared with 8,580 tons a week ago. New projects amount to 14,500 tons, against 14,302 in the preceding week.

Gains in district operating rates included a rise of 4 points to 28 per cent in Chicago, 2 to 18 at Pittsburgh, 1 to 23 in Philadelphia, 4 to 30 in the Cleveland-Lorain area, and 5 to 28 in Wheeling. In the south there was a 25 per cent drop to 8 per cent of capacity, while in the valleys operations receded from 28 to 24 per cent.

Must We Accept a Lower Standard of Living?

Is America finished in its building? Must we live merely by dividing available jobs? To accept such a conclusion is to accept a lower standard of living.

PROGRESS in America has resulted from the enterprise of individuals who took risks because they sought rewards. Pioneers sought free lands; whaling captains sailed for sperm oil; railroad builders sought to win dividends from a "right of way and a streak of rust." This desire of Americans to profit through the exercise of their own initiative finally produced a standard of living which is the envy of other peoples of the world.

No industry contributed more to raising our American standard of living than the public utility industry. Gas and electricity provided mechanical servants for homes which could not afford living ones. They gave women a new freedom. And they provided an amazing impetus for trade and industry.

Individual Initiative and Private Profit

All business entails risks; men risked their money in pioneer gas and electric plants because they believed these businesses had sound futures which would return them profits on their investments. Their faith made electric and gas service possible. These services have been supplied at decreasing costs to increasing millions of users.

Utility services supplied by the Associated System have been extended to 517,000 new customers during the past ten years. Electricity and gas are supplied to scores of rural communities which had no or very inadequate service before.

Conditions now harassing the utilities discourage investors from putting more money into this industry. Stock investments in some utility companies are being endangered or destroyed by government competition.

More than $16,000,000 annually is being taken away from investors in the Associated System by the new Federal Revenue Act, and by reductions in rates and increases in taxes which have taken place since 1928.

Lack of Time, Money, Checks Development

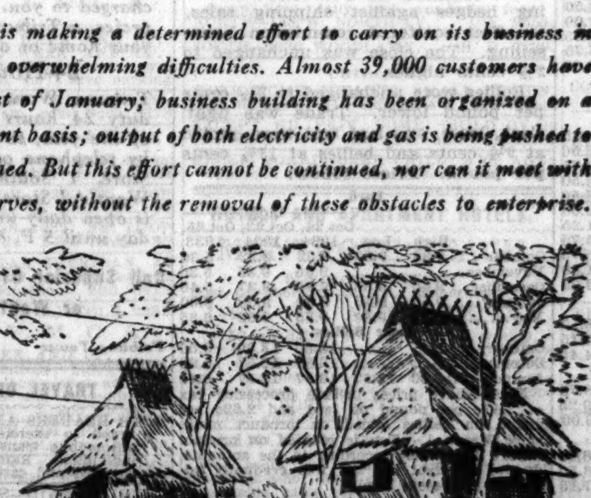
Investors now see little chance for a profit in the utility industry, so refuse to put their money into it.

This lack of confidence makes it nearly impossible for utility operators to develop the business. Moreover, their time is eaten into by investigations, the details of regulation, and the study of innumerable new laws. As a result, utilities are unable to improve and extend their services. The great mass of people still lack healthful automatic heating in their homes. Air conditioning is still a novelty, yet it guarantees cool, dry air during dog-days. Only 12% of farms have electric service.

No Confidence—No Investment—No Progress

Progress in America has not come to an end. The public utility industry can continue to help Americans improve their standard of living. First, however, this and other basic industries must be freed from the shackles in which government has bound them. Investors must have confidence that private enterprise will once again be allowed to operate at a reasonable profit. Otherwise capital for industrial development cannot be raised, progress will stop, and no lasting national recovery can be achieved.

The Associated System is making a determined effort to carry on its business in the face of these almost overwhelming difficulties. Almost 39,000 customers have been added since the first of January; business building has been organized on a more vigorous and efficient basis; output of both electricity and gas is being pushed to heights never before reached. But this effort cannot be continued, nor can it meet with the success which it deserves, without the removal of these obstacles to enterprise.



Electricity Lights These Huts

Among Associated electric customers are the natives who live in these grass huts in the Philippines. Few utility companies have gone further than this in making electricity available to customers of simple means.

Look for a discussion of utility problems in the October issue of the Associated Magazine, which is a special security holders' number. The magazine is sent free to all Associated security holders. Others may obtain copies for 10c each from Associated Magazine, Inc., Ithaca, N.Y.

FEDERAL HOUSING PLANS UNSOUND, REALTORS TOLD

Baird Urges Garden Homes as Substitute.

Huge governmental housing projects similar to the contemplated $12,500,000 slum reclamation undertaking on the west side are not as sound economically as the building of individual small homes on small tracts of land, according to Warner G. Baird of Baird & Warner, one of the first speakers at the opening session of the eighteenth annual convention of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, in Evanston yesterday.

The convention, which will continue through today, is being held at the Evanston Country club, attended by several hundred realtors from all parts of Illinois.

Baird pointed to the complete disrupting of rental markets in Vienna through federal housing projects, adding that only about 5 per cent of the occupants were paying rent.

Urges Half Acre Tracts.

He urged as a substitute for big governmental housing projects the making available of tracts of half an acre or less to the man of small means. He declared they would make better citizens than apartment dwellers.

He declared opportunities in real estate are brighter today than they have been at any time in the last twenty-five years, adding that real estate men can and will play a most important part in the nation's readjustment during the next few years.

"Last winter I spent thirty days in Vienna and studied at first hand both government owned apartment buildings and the subsistence garden homes lying adjacent to Vienna," he said.

Disrupted Rental Markets.

"Several thousand apartment units were built by the government in Austria. These units, at low rentals and tax free, went into competition with privately owned structures. It served to disrupt the rental markets completely.

"But most unfortunate of all, only about 5 per cent of the occupants of the government owned buildings were paying rent last March. As a substitute for this type of housing I think that tracts of about half an acre or less, lying within the metropolitan area, should be made available for the man of small means.

"The entire cost of land and building should not exceed four or five thousand dollars. The owner of such a piece of property would thus have an opportunity of repaying borrowed money easily out of small earnings. The size of the lot would enable him to cultivate a garden with vegetables and flowers during his leisure time."

Other speakers were Kenneth Rice of the Chicago Title and Trust company and Christian J. Gole of Smart & Golee.

PRICE OF HOGS DECLINES AGAIN; CATTLE LOWER

Hog prices continued to move lower in the Chicago market yesterday with light, new crop swine easing 10 to 15 cents and old crop stock holding steady to 10 cents under Tuesday. Supplies again were heavy.

Many grades of light hogs weighing 140 to 170 pounds were bought by packers at $6.25 to $7, including the $2.25 processing tax, while as much as $8.20, the day's top level, was paid for prime old crop 260 to 280 pound butchers. Packers' droves, tax included, averaged 5 cents lower at $7.65.

Cheaper grades of butcher stock cattle lost 15 to 25 cents and only a small number of steers were of good enough quality to sell above $8.50. Cows were steady with canners and cutters ruling strong to 10 cents higher. Lambs were firm, city butchers paying as high as $6.85 for selected natives.

[The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.]

JOBS AND PAY ROLLS IN CHICAGO RESERVE AREA SHOW DECLINE

Employment in the Seventh federal reserve district dropped 1.6 per cent from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15, while pay rolls declined 3.7 per cent, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday.

The recessions were larger than seasonal in employment but only slightly in excess of the 1925-'33 average decline in pay rolls for the period. In the industrial group the greatest improvement over Aug. 15 was in the food and food products industry with a gain in employment of 8.7 per cent and a rise in pay rolls of 5.7. The largest decline in the group was reported by the vehicles industry with a drop of 8.6 per cent in employment and 9.3 in pay rolls.

In the nonmanufacturing division the greatest improvement was shown by the merchandising group with a gain of 6½ per cent in employment and 4½ per cent in pay rolls. Losses reported in the division included 6 per cent in employment and 3.8 in pay rolls for construction firms, and 3 per cent in employment and 2.6 per cent in wages for the public utilities.

CANADIAN GRAIN AGENCY WILL BE SET UP IN LONDON

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24.—(AP)—Establishment of a grain agency in London to bolster the sale of Canadian grains has been decided on as a joint project of several Canadian export houses and the Saskatchewan and Alberta wheat pools.

David L. Smith, formerly sales manager and foreign representative of the Canadian wheat pools, will leave Winnipeg early next month as accredited representative in England of the pools, Folliott Grain Ltd., and Hallett, Carey Swart, Ltd.

Smith probably will seek membership in both the Baltic exchange and the Liverpool Corn Trade association but will conduct his business from London.

Market Support Expected.

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and John I. McFarland, head of the selling agency of the wheat pools, who have been conferring here declined to comment, but it was intimated today in well-informed circles the government has no intention of abandoning its policy of supporting the wheat market. Complaints of Canadian millers that foreign wheat milled in the United Kingdom can compete with them in the flour market because of the pegging of Canadian wheat, have, it is understood, been considered.

FEED SHORTAGE ACUTE, MURRAY TELLS ANALYSTS

The feed shortage which the country faces this year is unprecedented in many respects and makes the problem more serious than in other years of short crops, Nat C. Murray, leading grain statistician, told members of the Grain Analysts' club last night. The meeting was the second of the winter series and was held at the Board of Trade.

Summarizing the situation, Mr. Murray listed the following as the important aspects: The yield of each of the feed grains is the smallest on record; this is the first year in which all feed grains made their record low in the same season; all grains are short in nearly the same proportion, thus limiting the chances of substitution; shortage is most acute in the important commercial and feeding sections; it is the second consecutive year of short production; foreign feed grain production is also short.

2,000 EMPLOYES OF A. & P. OBSERVE 75TH BIRTHDAY

About 2,000 employés of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company in the Chicago district were guests of the company at a party in the Palmer house last night in observance of the organization's seventy-fifth anniversary. D. B. Austin, vice president in charge of the Chicago office, was host to the employés who included managers, supervisors, and clerks.

The company reported yesterday its 75th anniversary sale had resulted in an increase in business of $801,208 in the first week. During the same period there was an increase in newspaper advertising expenditures of $17,962.

PROVISION TRADING HOLDS WITHIN RESTRICTED LIMITS

Provisions held within narrow limits yesterday, with sufficient buying of lard futures by cash interests, removing hedges against shipping sales, to offset scattered commission house selling. The close was unchanged to 2½ cents higher.

Bellies were unchanged to 2½ cents per pound lower. Trade was light. Cash, loose, and leaf lard were quoted at 9½ cents and bellies at 13⅝ cents per pound. Prices follow:

TRADE IN COTTON FUTURES SHOWS STRONG UNDERTONE

Cotton showed a stronger undertone yesterday as the result of a broader commission house trade and freer buying by trade interests. Toward the last the bulge in stocks had some influence and the close was about the top with net gains of 11 to 17 points in leading markets. Spot cotton was 10 to 15 points higher with New Orleans and Galveston, 12.70 cents, and Houston and New York, 12.65 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

HELP WANTED—MEN.

Miscellaneous.

MEN.

If you live on the South Side or South Side suburbs, let me set you up in a profitable business of your own, backed up by our prosperous company.

I have been on this territory exactly eight months and have already set one hundred and eighty-seven men up in business for themselves between Cadillac, Mich., and Mattoon, Ill., and still have thirty-four opportunities left.

I am in control of this territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition, for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If in a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable, and trustworthy and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates are earning as much as $50 on a percentage basis in a single day, and after they become experienced handling our business receive a sizeable monthly income, not regulated by the seasons, as ours is a year round business.

Selling experience not necessary, for if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all expense of your business, such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as same has increased every month of the last four years, with 1933 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in the territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with this offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal, confidential interview which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Thursday between 1 and 3. Suite 404 Maryland bldg., 841 E. 63d-st. [1 block east of Cottage Grove]. Ask for E. T. Lovell.

A FEW PLACES OPEN FOR WEST SIDE AND WEST SUBURBAN MEN!

Not large pay to start with, but every opportunity to improve your earnings. Numerous men in our employ make from $3,000 to better than $5,000 a year, and some men go beyond that comm. income considerably. Character and health are important requisites. One must be between 25 and the middle forties to succeed best. We prefer men with families. Cars are advantageous in this electric service and unit business.

We do not wish men who are not after permanent progress and increasing income, but to a few such men we have much to offer, backed by abundant financial strength. We will see you between 9 a. m. and 1 noon in Room 329 at 9 S. Kedzie-av., Thursday, Oct. 25. This invitation is only for actual residents of the West Side and West Suburbs.

WOULD YOU LIKE TO STOP READING ADS?

Are you tired of promises that never materialize?
Have you what it takes to get yourself firmly planted in the progressive electrical unit division of the oldest firm of its kind in Chicago?
Would you like to receive a big pay check regularly every week on a generous percentage basis?
If your conscientious answer to these questions is "YES," call for personal interview between 9:30 and 11 a. m. or 2 and 4 p. m., at Rm. 1502, Chicago Motor Club Building, 66 E. South Water-st.
